

WOODWORK NOT A MAJOR OF PLAN TO DIVERT TRAFFIC

Washington, Dec. 23.—(WASH-INGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL.)—One of the features of the shipping board hearing on the enforcement or further suspension of section 28 of the shipping act, was a marked opposition to interference by the shipping board to divert freight from what he called its "natural line" by James G. Woodworth, vice president of the North-ern Pacific.

Commissioner Teal had suggested that it was highly important that this power, if possessed by the shipping board, be considered in connection with the enforcement of section 28, under which preferential rates would be given to export freight to be carried in American bottoms.

"I don't see how it could be done or that it would be desirable," said Woodworth. "It would involve the arbitrary direction of traffic, which can only be justified in a period of great emergency, and it would be to divert traffic from its natural line to another port which naturally seeks that port."

Admiral Benson, the chairman of the board, suggested that it might be that this condition of congestion is not a natural one and that the intervention of the board is not concerned with that, the question for the shipping board being the determination of the fact as to whether American shipping is at the present time, adequate.

Boise Is Seeking Lower Rates for Western Shippers

Seattle, Dec. 23.—The Seattle chamber of commerce has in receipt of a request from the Boise, Idaho, chamber looking to the calling of a convention at some central point where western shippers can meet with traffic managers of the railroads to discuss the proposition of reducing transportation costs. The Boise chamber points out that while western commodities have nearly doubled in price, freight rates have increased 60 per cent since 1918, an annual increase of $27,000,000 upon nine products raised in that rate—potatoes, wheat, cotton, seed, wool, apples, prunes and hay.
