Wounded Heroes Remembered by Legion Auxiliary

WAR veterans patients in the hospitals in Portland, Pierce's sanitarium, Matson's sanitarium, Portland Surgical hospital, St. Vincent's hospital and Good Samaritan hospital, were treated to a pleasant surprise Wednesday and their hearts gladdened for the coming Christmas and New Year by the Women's auxiliary of Portland post of the American Legion.

A committee composed of Mrs. W. A. Elvers, president of the auxiliary, Mrs. George Fauss, secretary; and Mrs. E. Bartholemey, chairman of hospital committee; and Mrs. Walling, member of the hospital committee visited the hospitals in machines Wednesday and brought baskets for each ex-service man patient.

The baskets contained dainties, chewing gum, fruit, apples, oranges, cake, etc. The boys were also given pocket handkerchiefs and wool caps. The sick men were loud in their praise of the auxiliary and extended their many wishes for their future success.

Portland Post A POST employment bureau has been established at headquarters in the Flatiron building. It will be handled by the secretary in charge of the general office in the post clubrooms.

Norwood Nye, assistant secretary and official pianist for the post clubrooms, announces the formation of a post six-piece orchestra. The orchestra to date consists of two saxophones, a xylophone, a banjo, drums and piano.

A joint meeting of the old and new executive committees was held Monday night at post headquarters. James H. Bain, vice commander for 1920, explained the duties of the committee and told the committee who will conduct the official business of the post for 1921 of the problems that are now facing the post.

Veterans of base hospital 46, one of Portland's overseas medical units, will gather at a holiday banquet in the Tyrolean room of the Benson hotel at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday. Vaudeville acts will supplement the "chin music" of the medical officers.

Nearly 100 invitations have been received and accepted by members of the post for Christmas dinners. The practice of entertaining service men which originated during the war has not lost all its popularity apparently, and those people who open their homes to ex-service men have the gratitude of Portland.

The books for the fiscal year 1920 will be audited next week by Harvey M. Black, chairman of the post finance committee. Dues for the coming year are due and the financial condition of the post is largely dependent upon these fees for much of its work.

Dr. A. C. Van Cleave was reappointed as chairman of the entertainment committee for 1921 at the meeting of the executive committee Monday night. Through the work of Dr. Van Cleave many interesting entertainments and parties were staged during the past year.

The regular entertainment meeting for December was held in the clubrooms at post headquarters Monday night. Vaudeville skits from local playhouses and dancing were the features of the evening.

Krusse post No. 72 of Wallowa has organized its forces for a grand winter offensive on old man "Nothing-to-do in This Town." They are planning a schedule of basketball games, vaudeville, movies, dances and smokers that will liven up the old town, as the community is looking to the legion boys for their winter activities.

At a meeting of the Ashland post No. 14 in the Armory recently officers were elected for the year 1921. Glenn E. Simpson was elected to the office of commander; H. G. Wolcott, vice commander; Donald Spencer, adjutant; William Holmes, treasurer and Ralph Hadfield to the office of historian.

Officers were elected for the ensuing year by the Carl B. Fenton post No. 20 of Dallas at which E. B. Hamilton was reelected commander and Edward J. Himes, vice commander; Tracy Savery reelected adjutant; Harold H. Rich, treasurer and Rev. Frank James to the office of post chaplain.

Crook county post No. 29 will keep open house at the club rooms the coming Monday and the community has been invited to be the guests of the legion. The evening's entertainment will consist of bowling, pool, billiards, cards, games and dancing.

Martin L. Kimmel, a prominent rancher of Roseburg and a member of Portland post, has been visiting in Portland for several days. Kimmel was a candidate for post commander for the year 1920.

John Fleming of Redmond was elected commander of the Ray Johnson post No. 44; W. I. Smith, vice commander, Marion Taylor, adjutant and George Taylor, secretary.

Washington county post No. 2 of Forest Grove is making preparations for their staging of "Slippery Gulch" at Pacific university on December 28, 29 and 30. At their meeting on December 27, a basketball game was organized and also plans for a smoker will be discussed.

Two honorable discharges from the United States army and Victory medals with two battle clasps have been turned in to the state office, being found in the railroad yards on the east side. They bear the name of Frank S. Kraft, formerly a private, headquarters detachment, Thirty-first artillery brigade, Coast artillery corps.

The Christmas Seals campaign is highly indorsed by the legion. The legion boys of Alfred E. Babcock post No. 10 of Albany will turn over its proceeds of its Saturday night dance to this campaign. Large attendance is expected in order to contribute to this worthy cause, and the boys expect to make a memorable contribution.

Department adjutant sent out a Christmas and New Year bulletin to the Legion posts extending a hearty wish for a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year, and application for charter a few days ago it has been approved by the legion as forwarded to national headquarters for issuance of charter. Gordon Grimm was elected commander and G. W. DeJard to the office of adjutant. Post No. 9

The department office has received a petition for charter from a legion post at Wasco, Or., making the ninety-first post in Oregon. John G. Barnett was chosen commander; Lyndon J. Lusk, adjutant; J. Carlos Gormley, chaplain and Earl T. Jones, finance officer.
