MAN IS KILLED, TWO HURT WHEN PINNED UNDER AUTOMOBILE

Bend, Dec. 27.—Lane Thomas, 45, mill employe, died here early Sunday morning a few seconds after being brought into Bend by Vernon Smith, driver of a highway construction truck, who had found Thomas and two companions, Patrick Rogers and Fred Fosburg, both of Bend, imprisoned beneath their overturned car three miles north of here.

They had lain helpless for more than two hours before they were found. Concussion of the brain caused Thomas' death. He is survived by a wife and four children.

Rogers suffered a broken shoulder blade and dislocated shoulder, and Fosburg is suffering from a badly bruised knee. Both are being cared for in a local hospital.

Rogers was driving from his ranch near Tumalo, where the three had spent Christmas, when the car slipped and went over the edge of a newly constructed fill. Fosburg and Thomas had been riding in the same seat with Rogers and the three were caught in such a manner by the edge of the car that escape was impossible.

The accident occurred shortly after 11 o'clock Christmas night, and the road construction truck party, returning to the highway camp laden with men who had been attending a dance at Bend, did not affect a rescue until nearly 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Portland Is Facing Financial Problem On Street Repairs

Beginning with the new year Portland will have 1,961,020 square miles of hard surface paving to keep in repair, for which no funds are available at present; in 1922 additional square yards to the total of 926,810 will be added to the city's maintenance requirements and in 1923 an additional 1,041,105 square yards, according to Assistant Commissioner of Public Works Johnson. "All contracts require the contractor to pay for maintenance for the first 10 years and thereafter the city must pay for this work," Johnson stated. From 1924 to 1930, inclusive, 1,764,813 additional square yards of paving will be added to the city's maintenance problems, Johnson said.

During 1920 the city had 1,360,785 square yards of paving to keep in repair, with the additional amount added automatically each year, in 1930 Portland will be maintaining 7,054,533 square yards of paving, adding thereto a proportionate amount of paving each year, according to the figures given out by the department of public works. The funds for keeping up this great street surface must be provided either by a general tax levy or direct tax on the property abutting the needed improvements or through revenue received by the city from the automobile tax, city officials declare.

"It is the realization of the enormous amount of money needed for maintenance of Portland's growing street pavement surface that has compelled the city to request the legislature to restore to Portland its automobile tax receipts heretofore given to the state for its highway program," Commissioner Barbur said.

U. of W. Glee Club Will Be in Limelight During Entire Day

Tuesday night will be real college night. In the earlier part of the evening the attraction will be the University of Washington vaudeville at The Auditorium. Later the attraction will be the intercollegiate ball at the Multnomah hotel where the University of Washington Glee club will be guests of honor.

About one third of the club members are Portland boys whose vacations will be brief, for with Tuesday night's concert they start on a 10-day tour of Washington and Oregon.

Manager Carlton of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club has extended full privileges of the club to the Washington Glee club during their stay in Portland.

The Rotary club is giving a luncheon Tuesday noon in honor of the boys. They, in turn, will respond with a few selections. Tickets for the vaudeville are on sale at Spauling Bros.', Sherman Clay and Meier & Frank company.
