

FRED S. MORRIS ASKS PUBLIC TO HOLD OPINION

Containing that it has always been his intention to make a public statement of his connection with Morris Brothers, since the advent of John L. Etheridge into the business, and insisting that he is not conscious of having done any wrong, and asking that the public suspend judgment until all the facts are ascertained.

I have always intended to make a statement to the public through the newspapers of relations with Morris Brothers, Inc. I was advised that before making any statement I should know that the statement should be absolutely correct.

I organized many years ago a corporation under the laws of the state of Oregon under the name Morris Brothers, Inc. I think the capital stock was $100,000, but I am not sure of this.

I brought to the attention of the board of directors of said corporation the fact that I had been employed for several years as brother and myself in our Eastern business and whom I had found to be capable and trustworthy.

I believe that the property mentioned in said resolution was never the property of Morris Brothers, Inc. as far as I can remember, but was in the hands of the corporation so that some officer of the corporation could represent and care for it.

I at this time sold all my stock in Morris Brothers, Inc. and thereafter took no active part in its business, except that occasionally I would advise the corporation, not as an officer, but as his friend.

I have seen the record book of Morris Brothers, Inc. and I have seen the minutes of the board of directors of said corporation held on September 6, 1919. I had nothing to do with the organization of this corporation, never held any office, and I was never a director, though at times Mr. Etheridge did ask my advice on some matters, but asked advice of me as his friend and not as a stockholder or director of said corporation.

I know nothing of the business of this corporation until the evening of December 23, 1920, when Mr. Etheridge came to my residence.

He brought me what he stated to be a correct statement of the business of the corporation for the year ending December 31, 1920, and I had always found his work with me in the past accurate and correct.

I should undertake to detail the conversation which we had, but I am sure that the result of the conversation was that I agreed to take over the business of Morris Brothers, Inc. until he should have time to make arrangements to take over the business.

I loaned him $10,000 of money belonging to my wife and as security for this and for money which he then owed me he conveyed to my sister his home in Irvington. He gave me a blank check for $10,000 and a power of attorney and a blank bill of sale, and I did not question the statement which he made and believed he was a stockholder in the corporation, and I did not suspect that he was going to leave the country until the account was settled.

I then for the first time consulted an attorney and he advised me that I should see the district attorney as soon as possible and give him such information as I had. Accordingly I saw the district attorney the same day and gave him such information as I had, and have at all times given him my assistance in which I could be of any assistance to him. Among other things, I opened Mr. Etheridge's safe and with him checked over its contents. I also volunteered to give to the receiver whatever he desired, all property which I had received from Mr. Etheridge and am ready at any time to deliver and am ready to do so.

I have also offered to give the receiver any information and assistance which I can. I am not conscious of having done any wrong, and I am ready to ask the public to consider only the facts as they are disclosed with an open mind, and suspend its judgment until the facts are ascertained.

At the same time, and attached to his signed statement, Morris submitted a transcript of the minutes of a meeting of the board of directors of Morris Brothers of January 6, 1919, in further explanation of his connection with the corporation since that time.

At this meeting, which was attended by Morris, Etheridge and Forbes B. Pratt, Morris was elected president, Etheridge vice president and treasurer and Pratt secretary of the corporation.

Morris then submitted a letter which provided, in substance, that he desired to be relieved of the management and active duties as president of the corporation, and that in consideration of such relieving of duties and services, I am willing that my present salary of $1000 per month shall be reduced to $500 per month for a period of five years from the first day of March, 1919, to the last day of February, 1924.

The letter continued: "I am willing if you so desire, to continue as president and director of the corporation during such period and to use my efforts in promoting the business and making friends for the corporation, and do what I can to further its best interests, but it is to be understood that I am not to be confined to the details of management of the affairs of the corporation, and that I am to be free to go when and where I like, without restriction on the part of the corporation, and that the corporation shall continue under all conditions for said five-year period.

"In short," the letter continues, "this letter and approval by the corporation shall constitute a five-year contract with me for a salary of $500 per month, and such salary shall continue to the end of said five-year period, even in the event of my death, in which case the salary accruing from the date of my death to the end of said five-year period, shall be paid to my heirs or personal representatives. It is to be understood that a part of the consideration for the obligation on the part of the corporation to continue the payment of the sum of $500 per month to me to the end of the five-year period is my relinquishment of the present obligation of the corporation to pay me $1000 per month as my present and existing salary, said salary of $500 per month shall be reduced to $500 per month of each month for the month preceding."

The letter also provided that during the five-year period Morris would not engage in any business which would conflict with that of Morris Brothers, Incorporated.

The minutes show that "John L. Etheridge stated that the letter as read had been prepared and submitted by Mr. Morris as a proposal of terms for a contract of employment with the corporation, and moved that the terms as proposed in said letter be approved and accepted by the board of directors, which motion was seconded by Forbes B. Pratt, and being put to a vote was duly carried."

The minutes also show that at that time "John L. Etheridge, as vice president and manager of the corporation, was duly authorized and directed to set over, transfer and assign to Henrietta A. Morris, for the consideration of $1, $10,000, a certain mortgage, bearing a refunding mortgage 7 per cent bonds, said bonds being the new defaulted bonds of the Lawiston Land & Water Company, Ltd., and the 500 shares of stock of the Rogue River Water company of Grants Pass, Oregon."

Bootlegger's Aide Proves Highwayman; Man Is Robbed of $95

A case of bonded whiskey and $95—but they failed to make connection. The money's gone—but the whiskey—where's the whiskey? That's what M. C. Tillman of 2255 Ninety-fifth avenue southeast, would like to know this morning.

Tillman told the police he was supposed to meet the proprietor of a "speakeasy" at Twentieth and Pettygrove New Year's eve and receive a case of whiskey for some suitable compensation—colorful men showed up, but instead of delivering the desired "pain killer," the newcomer robbed him of his watch and $95, holding him up with a revolver.

At the Union station, the police arrested Beatrice Littlejohn, the white wife of John Littlejohn, whom the police say answers the description of the man who is supposed to have obtained Tillman's money.

GIBBONS' ILLNESSES AFTER LAST RITES

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 1.—(U. P.)—Cardinal Gibbons was reported considerably improved today after his relapse of Thursday. Mass was said in his room this morning, indicating a great change for the better.

The cardinal is at the home of Robert T. Schriver, Union Mills, Pa. There it was said there was no cause for worry. His illness was reported due to nervous weakness of the heart, brought on by overexertion. His mind is clear and vigorous.

Great anxiety is felt here, however, and special prayers have been asked by Bishop Corrigan.

The bishop issued the following bulletin: "The condition of his eminence today has improved somewhat more than any time during his illness. He received the last sacrament and the reverend pastors are requested to urge their people to offer prayers for his speedy recovery or happy death."

"All priests of the diocese will add in every mass when the rubrics will permit, the prayer for the mass 'Pro Infirmitate' in singular number, Latin 'Pro frange nostro infirmo,' etc. The religious communities are to be recalled to their prayers for the cardinal, and communities are also asked to redouble their prayers that Almighty God will restore his eminence speedily, if so be his holy will, to attend to his duties."

O. B. CORRIGAN, "Bishop of Macray, Vicar General."

"The condition of Cardinal Gibbons is very encouraging," said an official statement from the Schriver home at Union Mills this afternoon. It was said that the cardinal had recovered wonderfully from his relapse yesterday.

was referring to the use of the word democracy with a small 'd,' and things happen in this country just about as the mass of people want them to happen. The people stopped buying because they thought prices were too high and now that the bottom has been reached, people are starting to buy again. This will mean new orders for goods, and new impetus to the manufacturing world.

Government officials regard this as the most delicate point of all, because conditions in every industry are different. They choose rather to say that prices should go to 'reasonable' levels and they believe the public will start buying when the bottom has been reached, and at once to pre-war levels. In some cases, better goods are being produced than before the war, and again there is no such abundance of incoming commodities as there used to be. Another thought which cabinet officials suggest is that the period of irritation has its compensations.

MANY FELT PINCH "Throughout the war, as the cost of living soared, an immense number of families were pinched and endured real want simply because the dollar wouldn't buy much. The purchasing power of the salary of a man who had been earning $1000 a year, for instance, was reduced to $500 or $600, and he was forced to live on a smaller scale than he had before the war. This is a lesson which will be remembered for a long time to come."

Rawson has been acclaimed the "Editor of England," and is credited with designing the first airplane with which the British admiralty experimented. He also assisted in producing England's first hydroplane to prove that the mind, considered as an assemblage of electrons, can perform marvels that will astound the world. He seeks to prove that the mind can be "circuited" in such a way as to produce desired results, and he terms this guiding of thought "prayer."

SMUGGLING EASY

The answer seems to be that even if the amount now held in bond were destroyed it would be difficult to trace the pig trade to the tune of 10 per cent, which is by way of being a reasonably thin question.

The bonded stuff that is being sold largely to meet of some means can afford to buy one or more cases for their own use. So then, if the bonded stuff is destroyed, the moneyed man would find himself unable to buy good liquor. Not necessarily.

A reporter for the Detroit Daily News, who made an exhaustive study of the smuggling across the river from three Ontario towns, says that the value of the liquor was $250,000,000 worth of liquor were smuggled into the United States this past year at that point.

Approximately one eighth of as much stuff as is stored in bond in the United States was smuggled in from Ontario at one point on a border some 1200 miles long. Add to that the Mexican border and both eastcoasts, and where does the moneyed man have to look for the amount stored in bond in this country and the still more meagrely little amounts, comparatively speaking, illegally withdrawn from bond, to make up the difference on prohibition or prohibition enforcement in this country?

The federal officers who arrested the two women and the writer saw a complice in New York, admitted that the amount of liquor illegally withdrawn might amount to tens of thousands of cases, and that the money involved might total $10,000,000.

Sounds big until one remembers that one can buy a barrel of whisky for $200, made $250,000 in six months and retired from the business, and that it is reliably estimated that the total profit this year, mind you, profit of running rum across the border at that one particular spot, reached the staggering total of $100,000,000. Multiply that by the length of the Canadian and Mexican borders, add all the kitchen, distilled, moonshined or synthetically concocted stuff, which does the complete heavy lifting of the stuff sold in saloons and blindpigs, and all the home brews of various sorts being made here and there all over the country, and the picture is not so bright as it looks.

Passengers aboard the Shaesta, Southern Pacific crack train, expected to arrive in Portland last year, but a long delay at Roseburg, due to a small freight wreck, held back the train until this year. As a matter of record, the train arrived one year late, but the time cards show a delay of only eight and one half hours.

The freight wreck occurred near Roseburg about 4 o'clock Friday, and several cars being strewn along the right-of-way. The Shaesta was due here at 10 o'clock Friday night but did not arrive until 8:30 o'clock this morning. Train No. 15 was delayed four hours.

WHEN DISHONESTY PAYS

Prior to the enactment of the prohibition law there were 15,000 licensed dealers. Now there are 1600. A week ago one of the chiefs of the prohibition forces told a writer friend of mine, who was writing about the law, that the absolute enforcement of absolute prohibition in the United States.

At the same time nothing whatever is to be done with the absolute enforcement of absolute prohibition in the United States.

"What can you expect?" he asked. "My men get $1000 per year from the government. They can make thousands and sometimes up into the hundreds of thousands by dishonesty. The honest inclined ones know that their dishonest brothers are reaping a golden harvest and that there is little appreciation and no monetary rewards for honest service. You can blame those who have not yet been arrested, but certainly it should not be difficult to understand how and why they fail."

The scandal that broke with the arrest of the two women may prove to be a big thing, or the effect on prohibition enforcement in the United States may prove to be very slight. The problem of prohibition enforcement is not one of protecting the relatively small supply stored in bonded warehouses.

LABOR BEING FORCED DOWN

"Many concerns are forcing the price of labor down by shutting down their plants or stores and taking inventories. By rather painful processes readjustment will in some cases be justified and in others unjustified. No generalizations are being indulged in by government officials except one—when the price of everything that is to be bought comes down, there will be no cause for the price of labor staying up."

"Broadly speaking, government experts figure that the era of ill-advised legislative proposals to cure business difficulties has about ended and that the raising of false hopes and the stirring of articles of indignation by appeals to congress and the government have come to an end. All the agitation for a revival of the war finance corporation and the demand that the federal reserve board extend more liberal credits has about fizzled out. President Wilson will veto the war finance resuscitation bill, and the measure over the veto it is a safe bet that the machinery of the war finance corporation will never get going under the present administration, having no particular political axes to grind for awhile.
