

Manager McCredie Holding Up Detroit Deal.: Boxers Ready for Ring Bouts in Armory

Sutherland May Remain With Locals

By George Bertz
SUTHERLAND, the pitching ace of the 1920 Portland team, may remain with the Beavers.
 Manager Walter Detwiler announced Friday that he will not stand for an unsight, unseen trade for his star flinger, and is loath to close the deal that would transfer Sutherland a chance to break into the majors.
WANTS PLAYERS FIRST
 "I will not let go of Sutherland until I know what players I am going to get for him," declared McCredie, after admitting that he had received a letter from Detroit. "I quit this unsight, unseen trading when I was a kid, and Detroit will have to deliver me some good players if they want Sude, and will have to let me know who they are before I close the deal."
 It is not expected that Detroit will carry long in making its decision to turn over satisfactory players for Sutherland as Navin believes he will uncork another GIVEN BIG POST
 Henry Edwards, a Cleveland sport writer, is quoted as follows in regard to "Sude":
 "Several years ago, when the Tigers were on their training trip, they played New Orleans and Chattanooga and had the chance to hit against Bernie Boland, then with Chattanooga, and Jim Bagby of the Pelicans. Hugh Jennings was asked to buy the pitchers. He put it up to some of the players.
 "Their advice was for him to purchase Boland."
 "Bagby," they said, "is just a slow ball pitcher, and they will murder him in the big show."
 Boland was purchased, and, while he has done well for Detroit, but not had the success Bagby has had with Cleveland, and the victories Bagby registers each year over Detroit have caused the players of that team to regret the advice they handed Jennings in 1914.
 "As a result, when Ty Cobb became manager of the Tigers recently, he said to President Frank Navin:
 "Go and get me a pitcher like Jim Bagby."
 "That" says Navin has purchased Pitcher Sude Sutherland from Portland, as Sude has the reputation of having a mysterious slow ball, a crafty head and excellent control.

500 Idle Men March Into Restaurant and Eat Without Paying

Montreal, Quebec, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—Unemployed men here have started a campaign to force the closing of big restaurants to feed the free, their leader declared. This campaign was launched last night, when about 500 unemployed men paraded through the downtown district in a quiet and orderly manner, entered a restaurant and, seating themselves at tables, demanded food. The management ordered food supplied, at the same time telephoning the police.
 While the men were eating and while scores were standing outside the restaurant waiting their turn to eat, the patrolmen arrived and told the crowd to disperse. Those outside scattered. Those inside the restaurant were in sight and marched from the cafe with pockets stuffed with sandwiches, bread and fruit, some carrying pies and others edibles.

 Cautiously, craftily, the two patrolmen separated one to the back door and the other to front, to squeeze in together and catch the marauder at work.
 They knocked at the door. A. M. Thompson, the owner of the house, appeared. He had gotten up to take a smoke and used his flash light to find the cigarettes.

Milwaukie To Stage Big Smoker Feb. 9

A TRIPLE main event smoker—featuring a trio of St. Paul batters—Billy Miske, heavyweight; Johnny Tillman, welterweight, and Terry Ward, lightweight—will be staged under the auspices of the Milwaukie Boxing commission February 9, according to an announcement made by Frank Kendall, matchmaker.
 Opponents for Jack Reddy's stable have not been selected as yet, but it would not be surprising if an effort was not made to pit Miske against Eddie McCarty. McCarty was scheduled to box Miske in Grand Rapids this month, but the contest was canceled. The winner of the Frank Farmer-Bob Devere contest will be given some consideration in naming Miske's opponent.
 Frankie Murphy, Johnny McCarthy or Frankie Hayne will meet Tillman, while there are several lightweight willing to tangle with Ward, who has fought here before.
 In announcing the February 9 card Kendall gave out information regarding the smoker to be staged next week-end. Jack Dempsey and Terry Kiser will box in a six-round exhibition in the top event. Frank Farmer and Bob Devere will meet in the main event. Babe Herman will meet the winner of the Sammy Gordon-Frankie Munroe contest in six rounds. Three other six-round events complete the card: Young Sam Langford vs. Fred Brown, Zeu Zuzi vs. Jack Allen, and Mickey Dempsey vs. Billy Ryan.

Kilbane to Defend, but Wants Price

 NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(U. P.)—The first round of the Dempsey-Carpentier battle for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world may be fought in the courts.
 Harry S. Hochheimer, attorney and guardian of the boxers' interests under the original contract, has served notice that he may bring suit against any of the three promoters—Tex Rickard, William A. Brady and Charles B. Cochran—who seeks to withdraw his backing from the $500,000 match.
 As the matter stood today, Brady has definitely effaced himself, Cochran's position is uncertain and Rickard has declared his intention of going through with the match if he has to stage it single-handed. The latter expected to hear from Cochran during the day and expressed confidence that the London sportsman would abide by the original articles of agreement.
HAS NOT WITHDRAWN
 According to advices from London, Cochran is ill, but has authorized his secretary to state he had not been officially informed of Brady's withdrawal attempt and that he stands ready to proceed with the match under the stipulated arrangements providing a purse of $500,000.
 British newspapers, by the way, have seized upon the angles situation to pan to their hearts' content. For instance, the Evening Standard is quoted as saying:
 "If it is true the match has been called off, the last word has been said in what skeptics have described as 'the world's best joke.' While anxious to see the fight take place, British sportsmen were sickened by the endless round of green agenting and purse boosting. Many bets were made months ago that the fight would never take place."
 Rickard said that if Cochran informs him that he, too, wishes to withdraw, there are a dozen men anxious to associate themselves with him, but that he would prefer to promote the match alone.

Damage Suit May Be Filed Over Battle

 NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Show Johnny Jack Dempsey enough money and he'll let you box. He'll let you box for a featherweight title. For big money he will give Andy Chaney or Billy de Foe or any one of these 125-pound New York featherweights a crack at the championship for which he met Abe Attell at 123 pounds and again Kid and Jack Allen, and Mickey Dempsey vs. Billy Ryan.
 "Fardon me if I seem to be laughing," said Johnny, as Chaney and Charley Beecher bounced through their 15-round fight at the garden last Monday night. "It's my face—it goes that way when I see these guys trying to go."
OBJECTS TO WEIGHT
 "I won the title weighing 122 ring-side. Along comes the New York boxing commission this year and seeing that New York boys are weighing around 128, which makes them almost lightweight, raises the limit to 125 pounds at 2 o'clock in the afternoon for a fight at night. That gives these heavy lads eight hours and a half to sleep or eat or drink and weigh in. It's a little heavy for a four pound heavier than it ought to be."
 "A champion has the right to set the weight for his class. Leonard did it here in New York and the commission took his word for it that 125 o'clock would be very nobby for lightweight. The reason was that he's a New York boy and he's a champion and he's got to have two weeks under the skin to weigh an ounce under 135."
 "If they want a champion set the weight then they've got to pay him for giving away poundage above the figure he weighed when he won the title. Let them make me an offer. I've been talking to Tex Rickard and I guess we'll sign up all right."
WANTS $50,000 FOR BOUT
 Johnny makes brave conversation about making 122 ring-side but he looks more like a Tweed period alderman than an old style featherweight champion. He says he weighs 128 now but it would break most people to pay a thousand for every pound he weighs above that. He will never make 122 ring-side again, but it goes well with his argument to hack back to the Attell fight.
 Kilbane has been asking $50,000 for meeting Chaney. He will probably get $30,000 at the most. After knocking off Chaney he will get the same for splitting DeFoe and then they may drag in one or two of the second flight huns to let him make a thorough cleanup like Leonard in the heavyweight class.
 Give him lots of dough and he will fight.

Women to Play Volley Ball

The second series of the women's volleyball games will open Monday night, when Vernon school players meet with Arleta and Montavilla plays the Washington high school at Washington. The games are part of the recreation classes held at the various schools under the direction of the park bureau. The games follow the regular gymnasium class. Franklin high school and Sellwood Park teams will play Tuesday night, and the Glencoe school squad will meet at Highland for a game the same night.

The management ordered food supplied, at the same time telephoning the police.
 While the men were eating and while scores were standing outside the restaurant waiting their turn to eat, the patrolmen arrived and told the crowd to disperse. Those outside scattered. Those inside the restaurant were in sight and marched from the cafe with pockets stuffed with sandwiches, bread and fruit, some carrying pies and others edibles.

Damage Suit May Be Filed Over Battle

 NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Show Johnny Jack Dempsey enough money and he'll let you box. He'll let you box for a featherweight title. For big money he will give Andy Chaney or Billy de Foe or any one of these 125-pound New York featherweights a crack at the championship for which he met Abe Attell at 123 pounds and again Kid and Jack Allen, and Mickey Dempsey vs. Billy Ryan.
 "Fardon me if I seem to be laughing," said Johnny, as Chaney and Charley Beecher bounced through their 15-round fight at the garden last Monday night. "It's my face—it goes that way when I see these guys trying to go."
OBJECTS TO WEIGHT
 "I won the title weighing 122 ring-side. Along comes the New York boxing commission this year and seeing that New York boys are weighing around 128, which makes them almost lightweight, raises the limit to 125 pounds at 2 o'clock in the afternoon for a fight at night. That gives these heavy lads eight hours and a half to sleep or eat or drink and weigh in. It's a little heavy for a four pound heavier than it ought to be."
 "A champion has the right to set the weight for his class. Leonard did it here in New York and the commission took his word for it that 125 o'clock would be very nobby for lightweight. The reason was that he's a New York boy and he's a champion and he's got to have two weeks under the skin to weigh an ounce under 135."
 "If they want a champion set the weight then they've got to pay him for giving away poundage above the figure he weighed when he won the title. Let them make me an offer. I've been talking to Tex Rickard and I guess we'll sign up all right."
