

ACTOR IS SOUGHT FOR DUAL ROLE OF SHADOW, BURGLAR

O'Neill and they will vouch for my keeping my word."

Brady is known to both Dr. Norden and O'Neill.

The package containing $100 was dropped by Nelson on Twelfth street, between Alder and Washington streets, in front of the house where Brady was later known to have roomed.

"CHATTY" DIDN'T GET THE $100
One of the purported telephone conversations which Nelson had with Brady is said to have been a discussion over the failure of Brady to get the $100 which Nelson says he dropped on the sidewalk.

Brady is alleged to have told Nelson that he was out $100, because he did not carry out orders, and that he would keep the diamond ring. Police have not been able to learn who picked up the envelope containing the $100.

Evidently tiring of house breaking and its petty returns, the "Talkative Burglar" sought new and more lucrative fields. For two weeks the regular visits of the jovial robber ceased. The detectives grew lukewarm on the trail of Brady as the man then wanted on charges of perpetrating these robberies.

Then came the flood of letters threatening death to a number of prominent Portlanders. The detectives were at a loss to explain the letters.

LIPMAN SHOWS LETTER
Will F. Lipman, one of the victims of the "Shadow," as the elusive blackmailer called himself, was showing the letter he received at a social gathering a few weeks ago. Nelson was there and identified the letter as having been written by the same man with whom he had negotiated as the "Talkative Burglar."

Handwriting experts examined the letter written to Nelson by the "Talkative Burglar" and those written to the blackmail victims by the "Shadow" and pronounced them as being written by the same man.

For a time the detectives were working on the theory that the "Talkative Burglar" had a "pal" who posed as the "Shadow." Now they believe that the two characters are embodied by the one man. Through this course of reasoning they arrive at the conclusion that Brady is also responsible for the blackmail notes.

STORY ENDS OPERATIONS
Until the time the story linking these two characters to one man was published the "Shadow" continued to pour threatening notes into the mails addressed to his seven picked victims.

From the time the story was published the "Shadow" has dropped into oblivion as far as his intended blackmail victims are concerned. This would indicate that he was scared away by the knowledge that the police were close upon his trail. It is believed that he has left town.

The mysterious disappearance of Brady at that time also lent credence to the report that it was he the police were seeking as the arch-plotter of two types of crime.

DESCRIPTION OF TWO TALLIES
The description of Brady tallies with that of the "Talkative Burglar" as given by the police by some of his victims and with that of the "Shadow" given by Deputy Sheriff Jack Lamonte and Mollenhour, who engaged the blackmailer in a gun battle along the Base Line road last Friday morning.

The composite description of all three is of a man about five feet seven inches in height and weighing 135 pounds, age 33.

The last known of Brady since his appearance in Portland the latter part of last year was in 1920, when he was a piano player at the El Camps saloon in the Paris house, a north end resort.

POLICE HEAR OF HIM
Brady disappeared shortly after that time, and during his absence from Oregon is said by police to have been convicted on various charges in at least three other states.

It is not known just what Brady worked at after his return. He picked up the Hawaiian dancers at the Star shortly after they were left by their former manager. Trace of the dancers has not been found, although police have been given the information that the girls are living in the vicinity of Gresham.

O'Neill first grew suspicious of Brady when The Journal published a picture of the "Talkative Burglar" drawn from descriptions given by his victims. The resemblance of the picture to Brady caused O'Neill to report his belief as to the similarity to the detective bureau. It was the stocking case which Brady wore and which the artist's conception of the "Talkative Burglar" portrayed that drew O'Neill's suspicions particularly.

Theory that the "talkative burglar" and "The Shadow" are one and the same man and that Joe Brady enacted the dual role, is disconcerted by Police Captain Harry Circle.

MANY CHARGES AWAIT
If one man is responsible for the activities of the "Shadow" and the "talkative burglar," as the police believe, he will have many charges to face upon his capture. There will be federal, state and municipal cases.

Five charges of burglary, seven charges of blackmail and charges of misuse of the mails, attempts to kill and threats to kill would likely be placed against him.

The first visit of the rosy thief was at the Nelson home. A week later the

DRAWING IDENTIFIES BRADY

Above—Pencil sketch of the "talkative burglar" drawn for The Journal by Artist Fisher from descriptions of the curious night prowler who entertained his victims while he robbed them. It was this drawing which police, detectives and acquaintances of Joe Brady say bears unmistakable likeness to him, that first caused them to suspect the old-time vaudeville man of being the "talkative burglar." home of A. P. Henningsen, 1716 Scott avenue, was visited. The remaining three calls were made late in December, the "talkative" housebreaker calling during the early morning hours at the homes of C. O. Pick, 1750 East Yamhill street; H. S. Turhill, 1511 East Salmon street, and C. M. Christenson, 224 Floral avenue.

Ten days after the Christenson robbery blackmail messages demanding huge sums of money were received by Will F. Lipman, Ben Selling, Louis Gevartz, J. Wesley Ladd, Henry Jennings, Postmaster John M. Jones and Mrs. Phil Gevartz.

SEATTLE WANTS POST IF J. N. TEAL QUILTS SHIP BOARD

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 21.—Business men launched a campaign here today to get a Seattle man appointed to the vacancy expected to be caused on the United States shipping board with the retirement of Joseph N. Teal of Portland.

Teal is reported to have said that he will not be a candidate for a longer tenure than he will serve under his unconfirmed appointment by President Wilson.

It was reported here that ex-Senator Chamberlain of Oregon was being boosted for the expected vacancy, by Portland men.

Trade men here point out that there are two Pacific coast members on the board; that both of them are from the south Pacific district embracing Oregon and San Francisco, and that Puget Sound is unrepresented.

Will H. Humphrey, former congressman from this state and a staunch Republican, is mentioned here as a possible candidate.

SENATE WILL CONFIRM TEAL, SAYS CEMENT MAN

The United States senate probably will confirm the appointment of Joseph N. Teal as a member of the shipping board if he indicates a willingness to remain on the board during the Harding administration, according to F. B. Layman, who returned Thursday from Washington, where he represented the Beaver Cement company of Gold Hill and other clients at a rate hearing before the interstate commerce commission.

"Teal has created an extraordinarily favorable impression at Washington and is generally considered the strongest man on the board," Layman stated today. "Although the general feeling in Washington heretofore has been that the senate would not confirm any of President Wilson's recent appointments to the shipping board, the present opinion of those in close touch with the situation is that the senate will confirm Teal's appointment if he indicates a willingness to remain on the board."

Layman spent about a month at Washington, attending the final hearing on the petition of the Oregon Portland Cement company of Oswego for a mileage freight rate scale on shipments of cement, the petition being opposed by Layman and attorneys for other Pacific Coast cement mills.

Sunday Morning's Synagogue Services Proving Attractive

The institution of a Sunday morning assembly at Temple Beth Israel has aroused a great deal of interest. The regular Sabbath services are held on Friday evening at 8 and on Saturday morning at 10:30. These services have always been open to the public and are freely attended by men and women of all creeds. The Sunday assembly is fostered by the general Jewish community and has been endorsed by orthodox as well as reform congregational leaders.

The services have been very well attended and have not reacted against the attendance at the regular Sabbath services. The use of a ritual has been dispensed with and in its place has been substituted group singing and Bible reading, with a lecture. Rabbi Jonah E. Wise is the speaker and the singing is led by Walter Jenkins. The general public is cordially invited.

Rabbi Wise announces his subjects for the next four weeks as follows: "The Sabbath Was Made for Man," "The Future of Palestine," "Religion and Citizenship" and "Abraham Lincoln."

In the East quite a number of synagogues have instituted Sunday morning services. This is the first time that a synagogue has attempted anything of this kind on the Pacific coast.

BIG THEATRICAL PROGRAM TO AID EUROPEAN RELIEF

Portland society will be called upon en masse Saturday, January 29, to participate in "putting over" what the theatrical men who are sponsoring it declare will be a spectacular campaign to swell the fund of the European relief council, of which Herbert Hoover is chairman. And every cent that is collected will be delivered to the treasury of the Hoover fund.

The nation's showmen have agreed to amass $2,500,000 in a single day for the Hoover relief and Oregon's 1 per cent quota is $25,000. Hence Portland theatre managers and employes are operating to secure that amount in the one day.

SOCIETY TO AUCTION LOGES
Unusual features of the program provided will be the society auction of loge seats for the midnight matinee that will mark the conclusion of the day. The auction of seats will take place at the Benson hotel on next Wednesday evening and the matinee itself will be taken in charge by the Junior League. Mrs. William MacMaster will serve as chairman of society's participation.

On January 29 the Rivoli and Hippodrome theatres will hold morning matinees for school children, and all admission fees paid, being free from war tax and with house shares not deducted, will go to the relief treasury. On the same afternoon virtually every suburban theatre in the city will hold a special matinee for the same purpose. Films have been donated free of rental by the several local exchanges.

SEATS $2.50
Society enters the plans at the midnight matinee, and a program of unusual features will include not only local talent, but the best available professional entertainment. Seats will sell at $2.50 each, if it is planned, and will admit patrons to an evening of spectacles. The interest of society girls is being enlisted in that they may act as ushers and in other capacities.

It is hoped to hold an auction sale on the stage during the matinee, too, and to dispose of donated dainties for the benefit of the fund. The services of Frank Branch Riley have been solicited as auctioneer.

ALL GOES TO FUND
Officially, the activities of the entire day will be under the direction of the Motion Picture League of Oregon, of which W. A. Graeper, state chairman of the relief drive, is a member. Graeper is also chairman of the league committee, which includes Paul E. Noble, E. H. Winsor, A. C. Raleigh, G. A. Metzger, C. H. Feldman, J. A. Bradt and David Brill.

"For every cent we collect in the drive we will give something in return, and without a penny taken out for costs or taxes the entire sum will be devoted to the relief treasury," said Noble, who is chairman of a subcommittee on publicity.

Wool Warehouse to Start Up Scouring Factory in Spring
Operation of the plant of the Western Wool Warehouse company, to be located at the foot of Richmond street in St. Johns, will begin early in the spring, according to officials of the company. Machinery for the plant has been ordered and will be installed in time to take care of next season's wool crop.

The scouring process will make the Northwestern wool clip more marketable and cause a saving of from $1 to $1.50 per 100 pounds on shipments to Eastern markets, the scouring wool being acceptable as cargo.

The Western Wool Warehouse company was organized here several months ago with a capital stock of $2,000,000. Officers of the corporation are: M. L. Jones, president; S. F. Wilson and T. E. Fall, vice presidents; A. H. Lea, secretary, and R. H. Cochrane, treasurer.

Humane Society Acts To Protect Cow That Was Left in Storm

L. V. Hult's efforts to convince his cow that she was warm and dry because her head was housed in a packing case, while her body remained out in the mud and rain, were about as successful as an ostrich's attempt to hide from its enemies by sticking its head in the sand, in the opinion of Humane Officer Ross E. Churchill.

Hult will be tried in the municipal court Monday on a charge of mistreating his cow. Neighbors complained that the animal was kept out in the rain and weather with only a small packing case

Mine Consolidation Proposal Submitted

Spokane, Wash., Jan. 21.—Plans for the consolidation of the United Silver Copper company and the Copper King company, which own contiguous claims near Chewelah, on the basis of an issue of 1,800,000 shares of new stock at a par value of 25 cents per share, have been presented to the stockholders of the United Silver Copper company. Bonds would be issued to satisfy the creditors of the United company, the stockholders to receive share for share, and an attempt to reach terms with the receiver and creditors of the Copper King company is planned.
