WEATHER FORECASTS

Portland and Vicinity—Saturday rain; southerly winds.

Oregon—Saturday fair except rain northwest portion; gentle southerly winds.

Washington—Saturday occasional rain west portion, rain or snow east portion; moderate southerly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

Low pressure prevails from western Canada southward over the Plains and Rocky mountain states to Mexico, the point of greatest depression being apparently in northern Saskatchewan. Two high pressure areas are shown, one central over the north Atlantic states and the other off the middle Pacific coast. Precipitation has occurred generally on the Pacific slope; elsewhere the weather has been fair. Snow is falling in Eastern Oregon and in parts of Utah, Idaho and Montana. Colder weather is the rule in the Pacific and Rocky mountains states and parts of the Plains region; farther east milder weather prevails. The temperature is generally above normal except in the extreme Northwest and the country south of the Ohio river.

Relative humidity at Portland—Noon yesterday, 91 per cent; 5 p. m. yesterday, 85 per cent; 5 a. m. today, 86 per cent.

Precipitation since January 1—Total, 7.31 inches; normal, 5.87 inches; excess, 1.44 inches.

EDWARD L. WELLS.

Police Shots Halt Fugitive Suspected As 'Peeping Tom'

"Come quick, a man is trying to get in the house," gasped Miss Grace Fowler of 1408 East Hoyt street to the telephone operator at police station shortly after midnight this morning.

An emergency call was flashed to the east side station and Lieutenant Wade, with a detail of motorcycle men, rushed toward Montavilla. With screeching brakes and a final shriek of the siren the detail arrived to see a man hurry away in the direction of Sullivan's gulch.

Fear lent speed to the prowler's feet and the police were being rapidly outdistanced when two shots rang from Lieutenant Wade's pistol. The fugitive stopped in his tracks.

G. G. Stevenson of 1470 East Glisan street is booked at police station on a disorderly conduct charge. The police say Stevenson admitted that he was a "peeping Tom" and made a sight-seeing tour of his neighborhood almost every evening.

Stevenson pleaded guilty before Municipal Judge Rossman this morning and was fined $50.

Boys on Bicycle Collide With Auto

Ralston Dixon, aged 11, and Jack Robertson, aged 9, were taken to Good Samaritan hospital Thursday evening as the result of colliding while on a bicycle with an automobile driven by M. P. Kiernen, who lives at 409 Twelfth street, at Eleventh and Market streets. One of the boys has a fractured hip and the other is badly bruised. Dixon lives at 363 Thirteenth street and Robertson at 332 Tenth street.

'Birth of Nation' Arrives Literally For Camas Couple

Camas, Wash., Jan. 28.—The family score of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roley went up to 13 yesterday when the stork left an eight-pound girl at the Roley home.

A friend of Roley's who had not kept track of his domestic record, asked him how many his family would number, counting the new member.

"About 13," replied Roley.

"Why, man, that is no family at all," retorted the friend.

"Then, what would you call it?" asked Roley.

"I'd call it the birth of a nation."
