

FORMER PORTLAND MAN'S 'INGENUITY' LAUNDS BIG 'SCOOP'

Credit for one of the largest news "scopes" since the war goes to James R. Kelly of the United Press, who braved the arduous of winter in Canada and outwitted other correspondents in getting the first story of the naval balloons lost in the Hudson Bay district. Kelly was stationed in the Portland bureau of the United Press for several years until November, 1918. The first story, a letter received during the week by Dr. Ralph A. Fenton, in The Journal building. He was a member of Multnomah club and well known in Portland.

"As you know," the letter says, "Lieutenants Farrell, Hinton and Kloor of the navy left Rockaway point in a balloon and were carried north and no word was heard from them for two weeks.

OFFICE MAKES INQUIRY
"They landed near James bay, a little bay in the southern part of Hudson's bay. They were picked up by a trapper and taken to Moose Factory, a Hudson's Bay Trading company's post, and an Indian with four dog sleds started immediately down the Moose and Malsin rivers for Mattice, a Hudson's Bay railroad or telegraph station, 170 miles south of Moose Factory."

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IS DUE TO JEALOUSY
Iiwaco, Wash., Feb. 21.—Jealousy was the cause of a double tragedy in Iiwaco Sunday afternoon when Victor Holm shot his wife, killing her instantly, and then, turning the revolver on himself, fired seven shots into his breast.

ROLLS DOWN BANK
"The reporter then turned to me and spoke his first words, though we had just ridden 110 miles together. 'Well,' he said, 'we will have to go to Hearst.' That was a small town 40 miles away named for a former premier of the dominion, not W. R. Hearst."

BEATS RIVALS
"The stories I sent in with my own hand, for while the operator was a good fellow he was inexperienced. He had not an arm 20 days before the armistice at Valenciennes."

KELLY HAD LETTER
"After telling my story I grabbed Farrell and told him my name. It was like telling him I had money for him, for after that he stuck by me. We couldn't get away from the other reporters, so we all went into the parlor of an Indian house. Farrell started to tell the whole story to all of us, but I got in first and then went into the next room and wrote it, giving it to the Indian to take to the telegraph station. Then I went back and caught up with the other writers. I could hear him talking as I wrote, so I missed nothing."

that Farrell was the weakest of the party, while Hinton admitted himself to be the hero of the bunch. Farrell read the message and then talked faster than ever. Hinton came into the room then, and Farrell called him all the dirty names he could think of, some of which were real specimens in their way.

FARRELL PUNCHED HINTON
"Farrell told Hinton to stay away from him and went into the kitchen. Hinton followed and I came after Hinton, closing the door so the rest would not know too much. Farrell soaked Hinton with right and a left, knocking him back onto the table. Hinton lay there without trying to defend himself and Farrell left him alone. The rest of the gang rushed in and took Hinton up to the depot."

GETS EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW
"I was playing a lone hand and refused to be bossed by him. He capitulated before my belligerent display and beat it."

Kelly's friends here know him as an amateur boxer of considerable ability. "I got my traveling bag out of the room and rushed to the depot," the letter continues. "Here I wrote a long story, cutting it into four parts so each of the operators would be busy on my stuff when the others had theirs ready. It worked and my story was well under way when the others came with their copy."

Kelly remained with Farrell, returning to Toronto with him and getting the only exclusive interview of the whole trip.

Holm had been to California. He returned a few days ago and worked himself into a frenzy of jealousy. Saturday he threatened to kill his wife, but she paid no attention to his threats. Sunday afternoon he shot her in the back.

Holm lived but a few minutes after turning the revolver on himself. A little girl, 5 years old, survives them.

Freshman Class at O. A. C. Holds Annual 'High Jinx' Smoker
Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Feb. 21.—The wine was mythical and the women were wild imitations, but the song was real at the high jinx celebration of the freshman in the annual smoker this week. The men from the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity warbled a few "hymns" in the contest among organizations for the best stunt, and won the prize of a box of 50 Havanas.

General gymnastium is the most popular course among the 1500 men at the college who are enrolled for regular work in physical education. Students taking this work total 567. Boxing ranks second, with 331 enrolled; cross country, 13; and soccer, with 68, follow.

Law School Will Issue 'Law Review'
University of Oregon, Eugene, Feb. 21.—Next week will see the publication of the first issue of the Law Review by the university law school, and will be distributed gratis to all lawyers in the state. Among the contributors are "Legal Education and Admission to the Bar," by William G. Hale and Will C. Dalzell's article on "Means of Conveying Title to Chattels."

MRS. MARY WHITE DIED EARLY TODAY

Mrs. Mary A. White, mother of Hal M. White, secretary to Mayor Baker, and of Colonel George A. White, adjutant general of the National Guard of Oregon, died suddenly at the home of her son Hal, at 2:10 o'clock this morning. Suffocation of the heart is pronounced as the cause.

Mrs. White had been in the best of health until a few weeks ago. She had seemingly recovered from this attack, however, and appeared to be in normal health Sunday. During the night her son heard her call. He hastened to her bedside, but death occurred in a short time.

Mrs. White was 70 years of age and was born in Philadelphia. She came to Portland 10 years ago from Salt Lake City. Her husband died about nine months ago. She was a member of the First Christian Scientist church of Portland.

Funeral arrangements will not be definitely arranged until the other son, Colonel White, returns from Salem, although Wednesday afternoon probably will be selected.

New Secretary of State Is Hailed as 'Friend of Britain'

London, Feb. 21.—(U. P.)—Friendly headlines informed Great Britain of the appointment of Charles E. Hughes to be secretary of state in the Harding cabinet.

"Friend of Britain," was a favorite expression. The Washington correspondent of the Mail said Hughes may be expected to handle the thorny problems awaiting solution in a conciliatory way.

Several correspondents reported that friction can be expected between Hughes and the senate, which plays a strong part in determining foreign relations.

MOTHER AND TWO TOTS DIE IN FIRE

Keelo, Wash., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Lorne Young and her two children, Dorothy, aged 3, and Loren, aged 1, were burned to death Saturday afternoon in their home at the Inman-Poulsen lumber camp, seven miles west of Castlerock.

Neighbors were horrified when they saw Mrs. Young with her baby in her arms appear on the porch, her clothing enveloped in flames. The girl was burned in the house. The mother and baby died while being taken to Portland.

DEBS LOSES ONE PRISON PRIVILEGE

Washington, Feb. 21.—(U. P.)—D. S. Dickerson, superintendent of federal prisons, today said the privilege of seeing visitors had been withdrawn from Eugene V. Debs, socialist leader, confined in Atlanta penitentiary.

This step was the result of a statement Debs issued attacking President Wilson at the time the president turned down a recommendation for Debs' pardon, Dickerson said.

"Debs will be denied all visitors for such time as the department of justice sees fit," said Dickerson. "The prisoner will not be allowed to restate himself by making an apology. No such provision is included in the order sent to the Atlanta penitentiary."

Dickerson today was preparing a complete public statement setting forth circumstances of the indictment. Shortly after the refusal of pardon, Debs issued a statement to the effect that it was President Wilson who should be a candidate for pardon and not Debs. Dickerson let it be known today that he regarded it as oversteering the bounds of propriety for a federal prisoner to attack the president of the United States.

Medford Deluge Maroons Freight
Medford, Feb. 21.—Medford and valley points were deluged by rain Sunday all day, which flooded a number of streets, yards and the cellars of many homes and places of business. A small cloud-burst early Sunday afternoon in the Griffin creek district about five miles southwest of the city sent a flood of water towards Medford and raised Bear creek to a raging torrent, washing out two covert crossings of the Southern Pacific railroad south of the city between here and Ashland, marooning a freight train in bed, and delaying north-bound passenger trains several hours.

William Barrow, sentenced to serve a life term for a crime involving a 6-year-old girl, was taken to the penitentiary Saturday.

Vernon S. Patterson, aged 34 years, died suddenly Saturday. Until recently he was employed at the Roseburg laundry. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Women's Glee Club At O. A. C. Stages Midnight Matinee

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Feb. 21.—Smashing college custom by giving a midnight matinee, the Madrigal women's glee club, played to a capacity house at the Majestic theatre, Friday night.

"Miss Cherryblossoms," a three-act Japanese operetta, was the attraction, with Miss Dorothea Cordley, daughter of Dean A. B. Cordley and Stewart Tully, tenor, of the men's glee club, as leads.

Rudolph Hillstrom, bass, of Marshall field, was the big character hit, playing the part of Kokomo, the stern guardian. Arthur Kirkham, baritone, of Portland, played the heavy role of the Japanese politician. Other characters were Imogene Meserve, Portland, as Jessica, Eugene Hamiton, Pendleton, as Henry Foster Jones, Victor Hess, Portland, as James Young.

Chorus of Geisha girls and American yachting girls were made up of remaining members of the madrigal club. The men's glee club, with Roy Loughrey and John Erickson, assisted in chorus work. The play was repeated Saturday evening in the women's gymnasium at the college.

Site for Creamery At Eugene Bought By Lane Farmers

Eugene, Feb. 21.—First steps toward the new $75,000 plant of the Eugene farmers' creamery were taken Saturday in the recording of papers whereby the association takes over a building site in Olive street, between Fifth and Sixth, costing $8000. The plant will produce icecream and, possibly, powdered milk, in addition to the regular creamery products. Possession of the site is to be given within 60 days. The sale of bonds for the project will begin at once.

Horace W. Libby, for some time resident engineer of the state highway commission, who has been stationed on the route of the projected highway from Eugene to the coast, has been relieved from that position and will go to Salem to spend several weeks in the office of the commission. He states that the preliminary work has been nearly completed so that grading can begin in the spring.

Arrangements were completed by a group of business men Saturday for campaign to raise about $12,500 to finance the local Y. M. C. A., which has adopted the policy of furnishing free memberships to all boys and girls 16 years of age. About 100 men will make the financial sweep.

Steamer America Damaged
The steamer America, operating between Portland and St. Helens via the Willamette slough, is on the drydock for repairs. Upbound Sunday the steamer picked up a snag and stripped the propeller. The same action bent the tailshaft, and for several days the boat will be off the run. The America is operated by the Human Transportation company from the foot of Alder street.

Try These Fruit Meats in a luscious pie

Just bake one pie according to the recipe below. Fill with plump, tender, juicy Sun-Maid Raisins. Bake so the juice forms a luscious sauce.

You'll be delighted, and so will your men folks. You'll serve it frequently because this pie is far too good to miss. Bake it yourself or get it from any first-class bakery.

Recipe for Real Raisin Pie

Cut This Out and Keep It

- 2 cups Sun-Maid Raisins
- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 1 cup sugar
- 4 tablespoons cornstarch
- Juice of 2 lemons
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
- Juice 1 orange
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- 1 cup chopped walnuts

Cook raisins in boiling water for five minutes; pour into sugar and cornstarch which has been mixed. Cook until thick; remove from fire and add other ingredients. Bake between two crusts. Walnuts may be omitted if desired.

It's a man's prime dessert—full of energizing nourishment to brace him after a hard day. Its pure fruit sugar is practically pre-digested fuel. And raisins contain organic iron, in assimilable form, which brings the rose tint to women's and children's cheeks. So raisins promote beauty as well as health. Serve raisin pie, and other raisin foods to insure your supply of iron.

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use Sun-Maid Raisins always in your cooking. Packed in a modern, new, immaculate plant in California—clean, sweet, wholesome American raisins—the kind you know are good. Made from tender, juicy California table grapes with unusually thin skins.

Three varieties: Sun-Maid Seeded (seeds removed); Sun-Maid Seedless (grown without seeds); Sun-Maid Clusters (on the stem). All dealers. Insist upon the Sun-Maid brand.

Send for free book, "Sun-Maid Recipes," describing scores of ways to use.
