Bill for Regulation Of Trucks Creates Storm, But Passes

State House, Salem, Feb. 23.—The rail-roads of Oregon came in for their com-mendation as the "empire builders" of the state and their censure as the throttlers of traffic competition; the automobile stages and truck lines were commended as liberators of the excessive tariff ridden public and condemned as disturbers of the organized transportation of the state, while the house of representatives itself was subject to a verhal thrashing for its practice of attaching the emergency clause to every class of legislation, all in the 30-minutes discussion on the floor of the house Tuesday night, when senate bill 24, by Moser, was passed with only nine negative S. The bill provides for regulation of trucks and automobile stage lines and tion places them under the supervision of the state public service commission,

Termed by Representative Childs as a "rotten bill" and condemned by half a dozen other members seeking to regulate the automobile passenger and freight inter-city lines out of business in favor of the railroads, the bill found its defense in the claim that it is unjust to compel the railroads to pay a large share of the provisions of the act.

Representative Sheldon of Jackson, citing the experience of his county with stage lines operated between Medford and Grants Pass and Ashland, declared that the need of regulation was proved. He pointed out that regulation meant better service, absence of excessive passenger rates, protection of the legitimate operators from "fly-by-night" stage lines and protection of the trav eling public in case of accident.

as an "asinine measure" which would completely disrupt the justice court practice in Oregon, prospects for favorable action on the bill in the senate looked rather gloomy until Mrs. Kinney came over from the house to defend her pet measure. The women's clubs of the state, representing between 20,000 and 35,000 women, ed the bill, Mrs. Kinney told the members, intimating that any senator who reau of labor statistics and inspector of voted against the bill would find himself factories and workshops, board of child out of luck with the women voters of voted against the bill would find himself his particular balliwick when next the had been reported, she declared, that the lawyers of the legislature were organized to defeat the bill because they could handle mere men on the jury but were not able to fathem the minds of women. She did not like to believe such a re port, she declared, and the vote in the senate does not substantiate these suspicions.

Women, Mrs. Kinney insisted, had a right to a trial by jury of their peers ter installed here last week end.

ent system, she declared, they were denied this privilege and had to submit to a trial by a jury of men. Those opposing the bill were Senators Bell, Dennis, Hall, Hare, Jones, Lach-
