Danny Meadow Mouse Explains

By Thornton W. Burgess
Take this and that all together. It is so with us humans and it is even more so with the little people of the Green Meadows and the Green Forest. Weather has a lot to do with their comfort and happiness and even with their fears and worries. Just take the case of Danny Meadow Mouse. Had the weather remained very cold Danny would have been scared and worried—quite, to be exact. You see Jimmy and Mrs. Skunk and their seven children would have remained snug and warm under that would have made a difference to Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse.

"You see it is this way," explained Danny to Peter Rabbit, having returned from carrying the news to Nanny Meadow Mouse. "We've got five babies." "What worried Peter looking quite as surprised as he felt. 'Aren't you and Nanny starting the season pretty early? Don't see how those babies can stand such cold weather.'"

Danny Meadow Mouse grinned. "They are comfortable enough," said he. "They are in a warm, snug home and Nanny doesn't leave them long at a time. She is a good mother, Nanny is. I guess we are the first on the Green Meadows to have babies this early, but we believe in big families, and we hope that home will be full of babies most of the time from now on. The coming of winter again. I did hope that this lot of babies would be big enough to at least partly look out for themselves before Jimmy and Mrs. Skunk awoke. That is why your news upset me so. And you say that instead of two there are nine of those black-and-white robbers now? It is enough to make me gray before my time."

New Members Join Jewish Council

NINETY new members were added to the roll of the Portland section of the Council of Jewish Women at the regular meeting of that organization held Wednesday afternoon at 8:30 in the building. Interest in the forthcoming conference of Pacific coast sections to be held in Portland early in April, which will be open only to council members, is responsible for this large addition to the already large membership in this organization.

The major part of the time was given over to a discussion of plans for the conference, which will bring delegates from Pacific coast states, and the following committee chairman reported on the progress they are making: Program, Mrs. S. M. Blumauer; publicity, Mrs. A. L. Goldstein; hall, Mrs. Ludwig Hirsch; hotel, Mrs. F. H. Schuch; hospitality, Mrs. S. W. Ottenheimer; motor corps, Mrs. Harry Meyer; finance, Mrs. S. J. Freedman; credentials and information, Mrs. James M. Reeves; anniversary banquet, Mrs. Max S. Hirsch; social, Mrs. Julius Lippitt; printing and badges, Mrs. George Levenson.

Following the session a social hour was enjoyed, during which refreshments were served. Mrs. Emanuel May was chairman of the social committee and her assistants were Mrs. Mose Siegel, Mrs. Jonah B. Wise, Mrs. Nathan Sohn, Mrs. Aaron Fox, Mrs. L. Aronson, Mrs. David E. Cohen, Mrs. H. Ottenheimer, Miss Mabel Taubenheimer, Mrs. G. Bettman, Mrs. Charles Kohn, Mrs. L. Coblenz and Miss Ruth Lowengart.

Winema chapter was recently organized at Corvallis by Mrs. William T. Johnson, organizing agent. John A. Keating, state regent, presided. The Corvallis chapter was named "Winema" for an Indian woman who lived in the area in the saving of the lives of many white men. In this section of the country there are many Indians and hereditary Sacaewas. The organization of this chapter took place at the home of Mrs. A. B. Cordley. The following officers were elected: Mrs. A. B. Cordley, regent; Mrs. N. W. Brandt, recording secretary; Mrs. B. V. Maris, treasurer; Mrs. J. E. Bauer, historian. The other organizing members, Mrs. H. W. Morris, Mrs. J. W. Morgan, Miss Beulah Inez Morgan, Mrs. C. A. Smeek, Mrs. Helena Scott, Mrs. W. E. Kyler, Miss Jessie McComb.

Reed college girls and the industrial girls of the Y. W. C. A. are planning a "Hick party" to be given in social hall.

'Hip' Has Program Of Unusual Scope

Eight acts of vaudeville and a picture play feature the unusual entertainment which opened this afternoon at the Hippodrome. The vaudeville is headed by a comedy playlet, "Welcome Home," enacted by a company of them and their low ideas of life. Jack Murphy and Josephine Lockmar are a pair of eccentric dancers with a little versatility in his story telling. George W. Moore is a juggler. An equal attraction in his own way is Fred Rogers, who offers some "dark man's foolishness." Tina Armstrong and George Downey are versatile comedians while Tusselman and Edwards have a combination of eccentric dancing and comedy.

The membership committee of the Y. W. C. A. will meet Friday at the home of Mrs. Hugh McGuire, 818 Lovejoy street, at 8 o'clock.

Pastors State Hypocrisy Is Not a Rule

HYPOCRISY may exist in, but it does not dominate Portland churches, according to the opinions expressed by the ten Portland ministers who saw "The Inside of the Cup," Winston Churchill's story, in film form, at the Columbia theatre. The inference that wealth and not Christianity governs the modern church is denied by each of the pastors, although some admit that hypocrites do thrive within the church, as well as out of it.

Ten ministers representing seven denominations had read the book and seen the picture. Those present at the viewing were: Dr. Joshua Stansfeld, First Methodist church; Dr. William T. McElveen, First Congregational; Dr. E. H. Pence, Westminster Presbyterian, Rev. Edward Constant, Highland Congregational; Rev. Monroe G. Everett, Church of All Nations; Dr. A. A. Morrison, Trinity Episcopal; Dr. O. C. Wright, Baptist state executive; Ralph McAfee, Church Federation secretary; Dr. Jonah B. Wise, Temple Beth Israel; Dr. Byron J. Clark, United Brethren and president of the Ministerial association.

Graceful Ballet Produced by Students

"THE ENCHANTED PRINCESS," ballet in three episodes, was most successfully presented Wednesday night at the Heilig by students of Madeline Marie Gammie, local dancing teacher, under the auspices of the MacDowell club, and assisted by the MacDowell club chorus, conductor by W. H. Young. Madeline Marie Schwan sang the incidental solo in Parker's beautiful "The Water Fairy." Another especially striking number was "Moonlight Meadows," sung by the chorus of stage while little Gertrude Doney interpreted the music in a solo dance.

The principals in "The Enchanted Princess" were: Florence Ingham, Virginia Edwards, Louise Hatfield, Haldane Harned, Doris Phillips, Irene Burch, Gertrude Doney. Maids of honor to the princess were: Anthea Strawn, Mildred Barnes and Ruth Jackling. Ladies of the court were: Gladys Goldstaub and Edna Minton. Little good fairies were: Beryl Hampton, Janet Riggs, Katherine Buck, Mary Elizabeth Hildebrand and Ethel West. Little witches included Ann Boyer, Elizabeth Wilhelm, Helen Taylor, Thelma Robinson, Eva Howard, Verna Hall, Dorothy Centro, Catherine Lawrence. Local Invention Is Seen in 'Slow' Film

Lewis Irvine Thompson, Portland architect and inventor, has a single reel film comedy which he has had made to advertise a local product and which is said to be the first film made by the ultra slow motion picture camera for commercial use. "The Shockless Marriage" depicts an elopement made successful because of spring shock absorbers which enabled the young man and his sweetheart to escape an irate parent following in a car not so modernly equipped. While the film is supposed to educate the public to advantages of the spring absorbers, cut and dried advertising facts have been kept out and the principal exploitation comes from a card on which Portland is named as the home of the invention. The Shockless Marriage has been loaned to the Liberty theatre for a week or 10 days to show Portlanders.

FRATERNAL

Kirkpatrick council, Security Benefit Association, Friday night will not be able to accommodate its own membership, should half of them appear to enjoy the banquet, literary and musical entertainment and other features. The men have charge of the banquet and no ladies will be allowed to enter the dining room. The large assembly and balcony of the Swiss hall building would not accommodate the crowd if it was generally realized what a delightful evening will be spent.

Camas lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, of Camas, Wash., was host to the officers and over 40 members of Portland lodge, L. O. M., Monday night. Degree work was put on by the visitors, after which a real old time chicken supper was served by the ladies of the members of the Camas lodge. The evening was marked only by the wedding of the car of Dave Israel of Portland, who ran against an old water trough in the middle of the street.

Samaritan lodge, I. O. O. F., Wednesday night held a social meeting after the regular lodge. The sum of $1200 was subscribed to the building fund and from reports received the amount will soon exceed $100,000. W. H. Young presided over the social meeting, which included a program of recitations, music and speeches. The traditions of the order were told by a number of older members and generous baskets of big Oregon red apples were passed around the crowded hall.

Portland Star Homestead has the Turn Varen hall, 255 Thirteenth street, engaged for its monthly dance Thursday evening. Everybody seeking a pleasant evening is invited.

Oregon assembly, United Artisans, will hold another of its social card parties and dances this evening at W. O. W. hall, 128 Eleventh street. There are no charges and a good time is assured all.
