CONTRACT LET FOR UNPAVED GAP ON PACIFIC HIGHWAY

The last gap of unpaved highway between Forest Grove and McMinnville on the Tualatin branch of the Pacific highway will be covered this season. The state highway commission has finally awarded the contract for paving the section between Gaston and Yamhill to Cochran Bros. for the estimated sum of $321,181. The pavement is to be a seven-inch cement concrete.

Another contract taken under advisement by the commission and awarded is the graveling of a 12-mile section between Rainier and Prineville. It was awarded to A. D. Kern for $54,460.

Under a law enacted by the last legislature the highway commission may lend funds to counties with which to cooperate with the state highway department in road construction. This is to provide for the emergency created by the fact that counties which have voted bonds are unable to sell them for par. The highway commission will advance the money and take county bonds as security.

The counties will be charged 5 1/2 per cent interest on the loan. Under this arrangement the commission will advance to Wallowa county $100,000 for grading the "Mines-Enterprise" road; Morrow county, $20,000 for the Oregon-Washington highway from Hepper to Jones' hill; Yamhill county will be loaned sufficient to complete the grading between Amity and McMinnville.

Altogether the commission has outstanding in county loans over $1,000,000. To raise additional funds for state road work the commission will request the state board of control to sell next month $1,000,000 of federal aid bonds.

The next meeting of the highway commission will be April 5 when a large amount of business will be disposed of and a number of contracts let.

The United States will set a good example, within one month every country in the world will follow," Miss MacSwiney told her audience.

Exposition to Mark Completion of Big Northwest Projects

The task of organizing a world exposition which will attract 7,000,000 persons and which will celebrate the completion of 10,000 miles of paved continental highways, the centennial of the electro-magnet and the centennial of Vancouver, Wash., as a Hudson Bay trading post, was confronted by the executive committee of the Atlantic-Pacific Highways and Electrical exposition at its initial meeting Thursday afternoon in the offices of Julius L. Meier, general chairman. The financing of the exposition by stock subscriptions aggregating $5,000,000; the representation of foreign nations, the national government and the several states and territories and the selection of an exposition site are numbered among the tasks of the exposition directorate.

A resolution from the Nebraska legislature warmly commending the exposition project was received. Plans for a statement to be addressed to the people of Oregon explaining the plans and purposes of the exposition were discussed.

VOTERS TO DECIDE ON WAY TO RAISE SCHOOL MONEY

School directors Thursday night discussed the relative merits of a 5-mill tax levy or a $5,000,000 bond issue to care for the school building program. One of the two methods will be presented to the voters at the June school election. Sentiment among the board members favored the tax levy.

Director A. C. Newell stated the city is $4,000,000 behind in its school building program. A 5-mill levy would provide about $1,600,000 a year.

Newell stated that nearly all the members of the presidents' council had expressed themselves as being friendly to a tax levy, but opposed to a bond issue. A committee, composed of Superintendent D. A. Groat, Clerk R. H. Thomas and Captain George Edmondstone, superintendent of properties, was appointed to ascertain the sentiment among business men and to report back their findings to the board at its next meeting.

The board voted to continue the plan of paying half the salaries of school librarians. The names of all librarians appointed must be reported to the superintendent and submitted by him to the board for approval. All books and magazines purchased by the library must be approved by the principals, superintendent, and board.

Oregon Products to Be Big Feature at Mining Convention

Oregon products and articles of Oregon manufacture are to occupy a prominent position among the exhibits of the third annual international mining convention to be held here April 5 to 9, according to announcement of Harry

M. Parks, executive chairman of the convention.

At a meeting of various convention committees Thursday, said Parks, it was decided to enlarge the scope of the convention so that its exhibit features would take on the proportions of an industrial exposition. The current drive in behalf of Oregon goods and Oregon plants and factories suggested the enlargement and the committees deemed the mining gathering an especially opportune time for the boosting of Oregon resources, Parks added.

Portland must make an active bid for more of the $150,000,000 which is annually spent in the Northwest by the mining industry," said Parks, "and the presence here of 1500 or 2000 mining operators will offer such an occasion. Oregon manufacturers and producers will be given a rare opportunity to get their goods before these buyers, and the result should be a greatly noticeable increase in expenditures here by the mining industry. We want to see as many Oregon articles in this exhibit as can be squeezed in. It will mean a form of publicity that long has been desired."

Organ Recitals Will Be Feature Of Rose Festival

Organ recitals will be a feature of the Rose Show this year, according to the report of C. P. Koyser, in charge of the Festival Center, made before the board of directors of the 1921 Rose Festival Thursday afternoon. The Organist guild of Portland will cooperate and several musicians have volunteered their services. The show will be held in The Auditorium.

Details of the show, decorations, arrangement of display and classification will be managed jointly by the Portland section of the American Rose society and the florists of Portland. Plans now in consideration will make this year's show the greatest and most magnificent ever held in the Northwest, according to Koyser.

The board officially adopted "The Parade of a Million Roses" as the slogan for the floral parade. Henry W. Kent, chairman of the parade committee, outlined his plans for the event, and stated that there would be three automobiles from each of the voting precincts of the city, each fully decorated in flowers.

An inventor has connected a pair of globular floats which support a person in water with a double crank which, when revolved, draws a user forward.

The Men's Clothing Store

SATURDAY MARCH 12

—To inspect the personally selected Suits and Overcoats for spring and summer wear, and to satisfy yourself of the superior excellence and exclusiveness of our men's apparel.

—This Spring Opening finds the Men's Clothing Store in an enviable position such as few, if any, men's clothing stores in the entire country find themselves. We make this statement advisedly, inasmuch as fully 95 per cent of our stock is NEW MERCHANDISE. The sale which began December 27 last and ran continuously until March 1, and which was admittedly the greatest sale of its kind ever held west of the Mississippi river and the most successful event of its kind held in the United States within the past year, depleted our stocks and left us with empty shelves and showcases.

In plain words, we have no old merchandise to show you!

—Where others in purchasing men's spring and summer clothing were naturally influenced by their great stocks of old merchandise on hand still to be sold, we were not thus burdened.

—Our buyer was free to buy; free to choose discriminately but widely—and the clothing manufacturers, quick to grasp the situation, vied with each other for his patronage.

—The very best of the best was demanded, and obtained, and here it is—

An Intimate Talk With You

—Good clothes strengthen one's character. The professional man, in particular, knows that he will attract more clients if he is well-dressed, and he can depend upon his clothes to help him preserve his self-confidence and self-respect in any company.

—A man has no excuse for making an eyesore of himself by dressing badly. On the other hand, it takes no more time and costs no more money to dress well. As a matter of fact, the well-dressed man is more economical because he takes care of his clothes and gets full value from them. If he buys more clothes at one time, by alternate wearing he makes them last considerably longer and in better condition.

—We count among our customers many men to whose reputation for being well-dressed we have contributed in no small degree. We could, no doubt, render a like service to you. Our knowledge of good clothes, how to wear them, and how to take proper care of them, is yours for the asking.
