"From Portland, Maine, to Portland Or., from the Canadian border to the Mexican gulf, from every village and in the nation the appeal of the starving children brought quick and gen-erous response. Kiwanis clubs, Ro-tary clubs, Freemasons, Elks, Knights of Pythias, Moose and all fraternal orders gave strong support. Local Red Cross and Junior Red Cross chapters everywhere sent offerings. Daughters of the American Revolution did marvelous service. Thirty-seven thousand news-papers, with the quick sympathy and public spirit which distinguish the American press, threw open their col-umns in support of the cause, many of them calling for local contributions At Mass Meeting which they gathered and turned in to the great child-feeding fund. Not only did these editors give column after column of editorial and news space, struction of a trunk line sewer therein but hundreds of them made large cash and in Ninety-second street, leading to contributions of their own as well. Very early in the campaign those gen hearted men who conduct the moving picture houses of the country clamored for the opportunity to do their part, and they gave in prodigal measure in every part of the land.
