Manager Walter McCredie Reconstructing All-Round Team From Remainder of 1920 Aggregation; Hitting and Speed to Make Up This Year's Offensive: New Men Will Round Out the Team

By George Bertz

SANTA MARIA, Cal., March 19.—Slowly but surely Walter McCredie is building up a strong team for the 1921 pennant race in the Pacific Coast baseball league. After tearing his 1920 aggregation to pieces by the disposal of George Maisel, "Tex" Wisterzil, "Suda" Sutherland, Paddy Siglin, Carl Spranger, Art Koehler

> At the end of the first ten days' training, it can be said that he has started a successful reconstruction of the Beavers. The first thing that Mac accomplished was to surround himself with an aggregation of youngsters, the like of which he has never had under his wings since he took up the management of the club in plans for a team that would finish well up in the flag

In exchange for Maisel, McCredie will get two players from the Chicago Cubs, with the promise of addithrough with players whom he can depend upon. A fourth player is due from the Tigers on the deal which sent Koehler to the Oakland club.

There is going to be some speed in the offensive makeup of the club this year. The youngsters are showing more speed as the time for breaking up camp approaches, and in Poole the Beaver chleftain has picked up a speedy baserunner. Sargent is not a slow runner, and Dick Cox is burning up the paths. PITCHERS' STAFF LOOKS GOOD

The pitching staff is McCredie's main worry right now, but with one man— vorably with the one probably Abe Bailey—coming from the 1920 pennant chase.
