

ACCUSED WILL BE ARRESTED DAILY IF VIOLATIONS KEEP UP

Daily arrests of Dr. Paul Yates on the charge of violating the city sign ordinance are to be made from this time henceforth as long as he continues to maintain his exit-foot electric sign at his dental parlors, 125 1/2 Sixth street.

This decision was made at the session of the city council this morning. Commissioner Barbur volunteered to sign the ordinance each day, charging a separate violation of the ordinance for each 24 hours the sign is maintained.

This action followed the report of City Attorney Grant on the legal phases of the situation. Grant advised waiting the decision of the supreme court on the appeal which Yates has taken from the decision of the circuit court, upholding the city in its right to compel Yates to change his sign to conform to provisions of an ordinance amended after his sign was erected.

Yates maintains that his sign was erected under a permit issued by the city for an indefinite period and that it fully conformed to the requirements of the city ordinance at that time. He was first tried and convicted in the municipal court, appealed to the circuit court, where the city won, and then carried the case to the state supreme court.

CITY MAY ADD REAL BOOZE HOUND TO POLICE FORCE

Chief of Police Jenkins recommended to the city council today that the city purchase a 4-year-old blood hound owned by Joe Keller, as an addition to its criminal detecting agencies. Then followed discussion.

The mayor thought that it would be wise for the city and county to jointly own the hound, whose value is fixed at $200. Various councilmen wanted to know which part the city would control and what would be county property. One asked the mayor if he thought the bloodhound could have caught "Shadow." The mayor had faith to believe he could have done so.

Another suggested that the hound could be put to useful purpose in running down bootleggers. And that brought the suggestion that what was really wanted was a booze hound. But the matter goes to Commissioner of Finance Pier for his recommendation.

HOUSING BEING IMPROVED

The city park department has undertaken the work of improving the grounds surrounding the city's new isolation hospital at Kelly Butte. The clay earth surrounding the building is being covered with a top dressing of rich soil, and in this will be planted grass seed and evergreen shrubbery.

The first official session of the hospital was made today when five smallpox patients were moved into one of the small wards. This action is taken pending the decision of the health board as to whether or not it will provide the means for moving the frame cottage formerly used as an isolation hospital to the location back of the new building, where it may be attached to the heating plant of the new structure and used exclusively for smallpox patients.

GENERAL STRIKE HALTED BY GEORGE

Have put a total of more than 3,000,000 workers idle and threatened the very vitals of the British empire.

The transport workers had already announced their readiness to back the miners to the limit.

As a result of Lloyd George's eleventh-hour move the triple alliance postponed final action.

The dramatic get-together plea of the prime minister, voiced in a letter to the miners and owners and accepted first by the former and then by the latter, sent a sigh of relief through the length and breadth of the kingdom, for Lord Curzon's words yesterday about the threatened "collapse of the state" had truly characterized the menace that confronted England.

The situation is still tense and fraught with dangers, but valuable time has been gained.

This development did not, however, interfere with the meeting of the triple alliance executives at Unity House which was expected to precede the conference with the premier. The miners' officials proceeded to Unity House immediately after the announcement.

Revelations of an alleged plot for a revolt in Ireland, originally meant to coincide with the opening of the British coal strike, were made here today.

Scotland Yard, it was announced, had gathered evidence showing the Sinn Féiners expected the coal strike negotiations to drag along until about April 15, for which date a revolution "on a grand scale" was being prepared.

Ammunition smuggled into Ireland from America, notably Massachusetts, and from Germany, it was alleged, was being hoarded by the Sinn Féin for the day of the uprising.

Upon the heels of this sensational news came the announcement that the transport workers, through their executive committee, had declared their enthusiastic readiness to "give their assistance to whatever extent it is needed to help the miners."

Meanwhile, violence is increasing in the coal fields, some of which have become veritable battlefields. Serious disorders were reported from the Scotch fields, notably at Cowden Beach, in Fife.

OLMSTEAD JOINS RANKS

Emerg Olmstead, president of the Northwestern National bank and executive head of a long string of successful war drives, joined the ranks of the Community Chest campaign, organization today.

One of his suggestions made at this morning's conference of the general staff was that all the banks in Portland be asked to accept pledges for the Community Chest, and it is probable that a plan will be devised whereby all those who have not been reached may have an opportunity to make their subscriptions through their own banks.

At the general conference this morning it was decided to invite the mayors and city authorities of a number of communities in the near vicinity of Portland to take part in the campaign.

RELIEF IS STATEWIDE

While some of the campaign leaders thought it might be unwise to ask the assistance of neighboring towns to participate in a local Portland activity, it was pointed out that quite a number of the welfare and relief institutions included in the chest are statewide in scope—that is, that they take care of inmates and dependents that are brought in from other sections.

After listening to a report by H. W. Kent, executive secretary of the Portland Service League, which has undertaken to organize the Community Chest activities in the residential sections, a committee consisting of J. C. English, W. D. DeVarney and John E. Gratke, was selected to make an immediate survey of the situation and to recommend what support and cooperation should be extended.

RESOLUTIONS CONFERENCE

At noon tomorrow at the Portland Hotel, Horace Macklem, director of the chest, will preside over a conference of the executives of the 60 welfare and relief organizations which are beneficiaries of the community chest, to be held in the council chamber, city hall, for tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in order to secure their united cooperation in one particular phase of the work.

The drive is to be aided by Luisa Tetrarzi, who will appear in concert Monday night at the Auditorium. Mayor Baker received a telegram today from H. Leiby, manager for Tetrarzi, expressing a wish by the singer that she be permitted to aid in the local drive.

DANCE IS SUCCESS

Success marked the Community Chest benefit dance last night at Ringier's Broadway hall. More than $100 was netted for the chest. A large crowd of Chest enthusiasts danced until the late hour of 1 o'clock through special dispensation of the city council, in order to allow the theatre crowds and employees to help this benefit. The hall and facilities were given through the generosity of M. M. Ringier and the music was donated through the Musicians' Mutual association, local 99, who also contributed $50.

DISMISSAL OF SUIT AGAINST 2 COFFEE CONCERNS SOUGHT

Dismissal of the charges brought against the Martin Marka Coffee company and the DeLancey Tea & Coffee company of Portland by the federal trade commission will be asked on the grounds that the commission has no jurisdiction, because neither of the companies is doing business outside of Oregon. The commission has charged the two companies with engaging in an unfair trade practice by supplying restaurants and hotels with expensive coffee. Free of charge, in return for the exclusive coffee trade of the restaurant. Officials from both companies admitted the practice on the stand, but stated that it was a common trade practice among all coffee companies and was not confined to their firms.

R. Citron, counsel for the Martin Marka Coffee company, asked the examiner why the commission had singled out these two companies and were not prosecuting others in the city engaging in the same practice. Walter G. Hayes appeared as counsel for the DeLancey Tea & Coffee company.

landlord took out his bit of the $21 a month which these seven were paying for their four rooms, the government got a negligible few pennies, in return for which it was educating three children, furnishing free police and fire protection, free library service, free surgery to those who would apply and piping pure crystal water 125 miles from the mountains into the apartment.

Principal Griffin demonstrated that the dwelling was a fairly place compared to the hotel in which this little girl was born in Russia, and he convinced the class that this family could have lived as well as the detested up town bourgeoisie if it hadn't been so everlastingly stingy and fond of squallor.

The other children in the class caught the principal's spirit, and that was how John Griffin happened on his anti-Bolshevik prescription which has now taken the place in the school curriculum formerly occupied by the dull facts about how many congressmen there are and how much pay the mayor gets.

Now the other principals are beginning to study Griffin's system, intending to introduce it in their schools, and Griffin is reducing it to writing as well as can be done with a course that delivers much of its efficacy from the man who administers it.

50-50 basis with Sherman county, which proposes to spend $250,000, and with Wasco, which expects to spend $500,000. As much as possible of this will be appropriated this year, possibly $150,000 to $200,000, and the rest as the funds are available.

Bidding on road work was brisk throughout the morning, as many as 16 bids being opened on single grading and traveling jobs. At the opening of the meeting it was announced that the sections of the Pacific highway near Wolf Creek, 5.7 miles in length, had been awarded to Giesch, Joplin & Eldon, on a $247,702.50 bid, subject to certain conditions to be stipulated by the engineer.

Other bids opened were on the Old Oregon Trail in Baker county, 6.3 miles on the Hilgard-La Grande section, 12.75 miles, excavation and grading in both cases, called forth 16 and 15 bids respectively. Contractors from all over the Northwest have placed estimates with the commission.

In Malheur county, on the Ontario-Welsh section, 14.36 miles of grading and gravel surfacing, 16 bidders were in the field, and on the Divide-Drain section and Walker-Goshen section of the Pacific highway, several bidders opened for units or the whole job in both concrete and bituminous hard surface.

any way ceded or surrendered to Japan or to other nations except by treaty, and that no such treaty has been made. The note then continues that the failure of this country to ratify the treaty cannot detract from the rights gained by his country in war and that a treaty which the United States is not party cannot affect those rights.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO U. S.

The note also points out that the Versailles treaty did not give to Japan or any other nation any right in the overseas possessions of Germany save a right equal to that of the United States. Provisions of the treaty confirm this, the note said.

The note also contains a specific denial by former President Wilson that he had ever given his consent to Japan's occupation of Yap, and reveals for the first time the fact that the former president left with the department of state on March 3, one day before he went out of office, a memorandum to guide the incoming administration in its dealing with the issue.

LINTON RAILWAY FRANCHISE SIGNED BY COUNTY BOARD

The county commissioners this morning signed the Linton railway franchise, giving J. B. Schaefer, S. P. Parr and Louis Osberg the right to organize a railroad company and build lines from the end of the United Railway tracks to the town of Linton. The franchise runs until August 20, 1940.

The franchise, as submitted to the county commissioners, had been gone over by Deputy District Attorney Pierce and his approval was given. A few changes were made in the original draft at his suggestion.

The jitney fare from Linton to Portland was raised 5 cents this morning, making it 20 cents, and Linton residents who appeared before the county commissioners heaved a sigh of relief when the papers were finally signed.

PETITION FOR ROAD WEST OF SKYLINE BLVD. IS FILED

A petition was submitted to the county commissioners asking for construction of a half mile of road west from the intersection of the Skyline boulevard and the Greenleaf county road, to the Washington county line. A petition is being submitted to the Washington county commission requesting two and one half miles of road west from the Multnomah county line. These four miles of road would penetrate a district now practically shut off by itself.

PORTLAND 70 TODAY; GROWTH IS RECORDED

declared elected as councilmen, at an election held on the 7th day of April, A. D. 1851, in Portland, in the county of Washington, territory of Oregon, said election having been held in pursuance of an act of the legislative assembly of Oregon territory entitled, 'An act to incorporate the city of Portland in Washington county,' meet in session."

HAD ONLY WEST SIDE

At that time Portland was a little hamlet scattered along the westerly banks of the Willamette river, but the river business was developing into a matter of much importance and there were several wharves and landings for boats.

The first ordinance passed by this initial session of the city council provided for the annual election of "a competent and discreet person to act as city marshal."

The council then proceeded to the election. The nominees were William Higgins, Z. H. Webber and James P. Long. Seven ballots were taken before any candidate received the required majority of four votes and Hiram Webber was declared elected.

FLANDERS CHOSEN TREASURER

The second ordinance passed at this session was for the election of "a competent and trustworthy person" to act as city treasurer and George H. Flanders was elected on the first ballot. The other nominees were Horace Lyman and William Seton Ogden.

Councilmen Robinson and Barnes and City Recorder Caldwell were appointed a committee to draft by-laws for the government of the city council.

At the second meeting of the council, April 16, 1851, it was voted to lease "the house owned by Thomas G. Robinson November and the first issue of the paper, the Weekly Oregonian, was dated December 4, 1850, edited by Thomas J. Dyer.

During 1851 Portland took a lengthy river traffic, and it was provided that there should be appointed a committee on landings, to have charge of all matters relating to the public levees, wharves, landings and so much of the Willamette river as may be within the limits of the city." This committee was composed of Thompson, Norris and Caldwell.

SANITATION NOT OVERLOOKED

A sanitary ordinance was next adopted, providing, among other things, that depositing rubbish or garbage in the streets was an offense that, upon conviction before the mayor, should be fined not less than $20 nor more than $50. It also provided that no slaughter houses should be maintained within the city, and that no persons should sell "unwholesome, stale or putrid meats, fish, fruit or other provisions."

Then came an ordinance providing that the amount of tax to be assessed for the year would be one fourth of 1 per cent upon the aggregate of all property within the city limits subject to taxation for county or territorial purposes (taxable property was valued at $580,960).

OTHER SAFEGUARDS

Ordinance No. 7 prohibited the obstruction of public levees, making the penalty from $100 to $500. Ordinance No. 8 prohibited the discharge of firearms, violations carrying a penalty of $5 to $10, and No. 9 prohibited reckless driving on the streets, carrying a fine of $5 to $10, while ordinance No. 10 prohibited drunkenness on the streets, and the fine for that was $5 to $10.

Thus the city was started off with its foundation laws.

Clackamas county at that time came to the easterly banks of the Willamette river, and all of Portland was in Washington county. There were a few settlements on the eastern banks of the river, but no business house was located there.

LOVEJOY FINDS SITE

In November of 1843 the Hon. A. L. Lovejoy and F. W. Pettigrove, while en route from Vancouver to Oregon City, stopped off with their canoe and examined the land which is now the heart of Portland and concluded that it was a good site for a town. They took a 640-acre claim and the next winter began clearing and getting on logs for a house.

A squatter by the name of Overton was the first resident of the place where Portland now stands. He had a shanty on the river bank at Front and Washington streets, where he made shakes and shingles. Either Lovejoy or Pettigrove, finding that Overton was willing to sell, bought all his rights for $50. Nobody knows where Overton came from nor where he went. Years afterward it was reported that Overton had gone to Texas and later was hanged.

Pettigrove, in conjunction with Lovejoy, had the claim surveyed and the boundaries established in 1844. The summer of 1845 streets and blocks and lots were laid off.

The choice between the name Boston, favored by Lovejoy, and Portland, desired by Pettigrove, was decided by the flipping of a penny brought as a souvenir from the East, and the name of Portland won.

In the spring of 1846 several blocks and lots were sold and log houses were erected. The first store was what is now known as Washington and Front streets.

In 1850 the place had become of some importance and it was designated as "a place 12 miles below Oregon City, the capital and commercial metropolis of Oregon territory."

The first newspaper plant for Portland was shipped from San Francisco in 1850 on the bark Keoka, arriving in November, and the first issue of the paper, the Weekly Oregonian, was dated December 4, 1850, edited by Thomas J. Dyer.

During 1851 Portland took a lengthy stride, getting many stores, shops and dwellings, and three churches were erected. During the same year the printing plant of the Western Star was moved in the night from Oregon City to Portland, and the paper reappeared as the Oregon Weekly Times, edited by John Orvis Waiteman and William Davis Carter, who had taken a bill of lading on the Oregon from Lot Whitcomb, who had owned the paper in Oregon City but who had become indebted to these two men as printers.

Examinations to Be Held for Radio Men

Examinations for licenses as commercial and amateur radio operators will be held Thursday and Friday mornings at 8 o'clock by O. R. Redfern, radio inspector of the seventh naval radio district, in the code room of the Oregon Institute of Technology, Y. M. C. A. building, Sixth and Taylor streets. All amateurs holding second grade licenses will be required to take the examination for first grade, according to advice received from Redfern, and failure to pass will mean revocation of license.

Missing Up the Map

From the Washington Star. "I can not refrain," said one Ohio editor, from calling your attention to another in which Tennessee voted the Republican ticket."

"That," rejoined the Ohio editor, "was merely a topographical error."

Gun Running May Bare Plot in U. S.

London, April 6.—(L. N. S.)—Three big secret underground ammunition dumps have been discovered in Dublin, according to a dispatch from that city today.

Most of the ammunition boxes found bear markings of a Massachusetts firm. It is added, and as a result the authorities are working today on the theory of a system of gun smuggling in Ireland by American sympathizers through isolated ports on the Irish west coast, where the Sinn Féiners have wireless stations.

Those in the gun running operations from Germany also are being investigated.
