

REGULATE UNIONS, SAYS JUDGE GARY

New York, April 18.—(U. P.)—Labor unions should be regulated and controlled by the government to prevent "disaster and destruction," Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, declared in a statement to the stockholders, made public here today.

"It seems to me that the natural if not the necessary result of the contemplated program of labor unions, if successful, would be to secure control of the shops, then of the general management of business, then of capital, and finally of government," he said.

ALLEGED INEFFICIENCY

Gary declared that "the natural and certain effects of labor unionism are expressed in these words—inefficiency, high cost, and delay."

"And be it remembered," he said, "that in the end the general public must pay for extortionate, unnecessary and unreasonable operations, as a body, advocate the election or defeat of even the president of the United States. They oppose or favor legislation of diverse kinds. They would regulate police departments. Worse than anything else, they would dominate the supreme court of the United States. Our chief of defense to person and property—to civilization itself."

SUGGESTS AN ANTIDOTE

"Possibly there is a solution of or an antidote to the labor union problem," he did not believe in Socialism; in government management or operation, but I do advocate publicity, regulation and reasonable control through government agencies. Members of commissions or departments should be non-partisan, non-sectarian, based on qualifications and moral character. Their decisions should be subject to review by the highest courts.

GILL NETTERS AND GIGGERS VIOLATE LAW

above the "dead line" and right up to the fish ladder and snag the fish with their big hooks. One of the poachers boasted to me that he had "giggged" enough fish to buy a trolling outfit and a boat before he ever took out a license.

POACHERS FLOUT LAW

A well known Portland business man who was among the anglers at Oregon City, Sunday, said: "It is perfectly plain to me that the poachers are flouting the law and the wardens are showing the anglers 'where to head in.'"

LAW QUIETLY ALTERED

Most of the anglers are learning for the first time that the law which the people voted two years ago, closing the Willamette to all commercial fishing south of Oswego, was quietly altered by the last legislature and that the waters were opened to the commercial fishermen to the Oregon City bridge, the season to begin May 10. That this repeal occurred as the result of a "trade," and that the poachers are further demonstrating their profound contempt of the enforcement of even the modified law, are the complaints by the anglers, who speak about invoking the aid of the state militia through an order by the governor if the game wardens continue incapable of handling the situation.

AS IF BY MAGIC

millia through an order by the governor if the game wardens continue incapable of handling the situation. Captain A. E. Burghdoff, master game warden of the state game commission, and Carl Shoemaker, master fish warden of the commercial fish commission, admit that infractions of the law have occurred at Oregon City and they do not deny that enforcement of the law against gill netting has been abandoned on the Clackamas river. But in recent statements he declared the situation is not beyond their control. Shoemaker said that more fish than ever before are getting into upper waters and this satisfies the commercial salmon interests.

MOON ECLIPSE NEXT THURSDAY AT 10:03

to the same cause that makes the sun appear at sunset—the absorption by the green and blue rays by the atmosphere, which lets the red rays pass.

The diameter of the earth's shadow at the point where it envelops the moon is 2700 miles; the moon's diameter is 2163 miles and its rate of speed eastward is 2100 miles an hour; the earth's surface turns at the rate of 1000 miles an hour at the equator. From these figures astronomers compute the phases of a lunar eclipse.

Strangely enough, if an earth-dweller could be transported to the moon Thursday night, he would see the sun eclipsed by the earth, since the three bodies must be in line to produce an eclipse, whether it be of the sun or the moon. In this instance, instead of the sun being eclipsed by the earth's shadow, as will be the case with the moon, the sun will be hidden by the body of the earth proper, since there can be no shadow thrown toward the sun. From the moon the earth would be absolutely invisible as it approached the sun. The observer would see the radiance of the sun suddenly sliced off by the opaque and invisible earth. Gradually the outline of the earth would be silhouetted by a red rim all around it, as a result of refraction. And when the last gleam of red sunlight had gone, nothing would be left of the end of day but a ring of brilliant red. Inside this ring would be the black, sunless side of the earth on which the man in the moon would be gazing.
