Vancouver, Wash., April 19.-The old controversy over the improvement of Sixteenth street, begun here Monday night when 58 irate property owners along the street appeared before the city council to remoncrossings, and the contract was let. Following this action a petition was presented for the paving of the street, too late to take such a step.

It was the contention of the property owners that their rights had not been observed in the improvement of the street and that their assessments were too large in view of the improvement It was declared that they should be paid by the city for the inconvenience that the improvement had caused them. J. L. Sutherland represented the property owners.

OLD COUNCIL BLAMED

The old city administration was directly blamed by the property owners for the improvement.

That the city was not to blame for the work was the contention of William Bates, who censured the property owners for non-appearance at the time the street work was discussed. Councilmen E. V. Coates and J. B. Atkinson, who were members of the council last year, spoke in defense of their action and of Charles Davis, chairman of the street committee.

READJUSTMENT IN VIEW The assessment roll was confirmed by the city, but in recognition of the rights of the propert-owners a readjustment will be attempted with the city and contracting company.

The question of the paving of Broadway street was brought up and the hearing postponed two weeks. A remonstrance was presented, signed by more than 50 per cent of the propertyowners. An agreement between the council and the property-owners that the street may be paved this year is, considered probable. The city may pay for the intersections along the street, it is said.
