

SHINGLES NOT TO BE INCLUDED IN EMERGENCY TARIFF

Washington, April 21.—(WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL)—A lengthy telegraphic appeal to members of the Oregon delegation to assure inclusion of shingles in the emergency tariff bill arrived a few days ago from the Coast Fir company of Portland.

"You know Oregon elected a Republican senator last November in order to get a Republican congress which would give us a tariff immediately, and it is not right that we should be put off now," the message said. It further stated that shingles are being imported at the rate of $10,000,000 a year, and that most manufacturers in this country "can't hold out much longer."

While appeals of this sort are coming from many interests in the West, the house leaders have set themselves resolutely against adding anything to the products carried by the emergency bill of the last session. To do that in one instance would open the door to other things and make hopeless the enactment of any emergency law, they say.

Deep Mystery Laid Bare by Police, on Scent for Murderer

The finding of what appeared to be a newly made grave in the basement of the house at 602 Ladd avenue caused excitement at the east side police station Monday night. An officer was rushed to the scene of the mystery and spades were put into action. The exhumed "body" turned out to be old boxes and rubbish, and thereby hangs a tale.

Some months ago the owner of the house, Hartley Morgan, a marine engineer, decided that his wife would feel less lonely in an apartment where he was away at sea and leased the house. A party by the name of Skoko signed the lease and took possession. Saturday afternoon the agent for the house, hearing of some trouble, made an investigation and found an automobile truck laden with furniture from the house, standing at the curb.

The furniture was taken back to the house by his orders. Further questioning brought out the fact that Skoko had died as the result of an accident while working for the O-W. R. & N. and Goldie Skoko, supposed to be his wife, had left some three weeks prior. The tenants found by the agent were Greeks and Austrians, who said they had been boarding with the Skokos. They were ordered out.

After they had left a large number of empty bottles were found, indicating that the eighteenth amendment was not being observed at all. While rummaging about in the basement signs of a new excavation were found and the agent, fearing foul play, called in the police. Boxes and rubbish was the result.

Several pieces of embroidery and linens were found to be missing. The loss, however, is covered by a deposit, the agent said, and no further action will be taken.

Fireman Is Burned When Mill Blazes; 85 Men Lose Jobs

Fire at the mill of the North Portland Box company on the Columbia slough late Wednesday afternoon sent Leslie Conger, fireman, to the Columbia northward avenue, to the hospital, forced the shutdown of the plant and threw 85 employees out of work.

The blaze started at the boiler shed when gas generated in a Dutch oven and exploded. Conger was injured when about the face, hands and back, in an attempt to extinguish the blaze.

The fire fighting apparatus of the plant being out of commission, a call was sent to the Swift Packing company's plant, a mile distant, and to Portland fire stations.

Fifteen hundred feet of hose of the Swift apparatus was stretched from the mill to a fire fighting scow in the river operated by H. H. Hembree, and a stream of water carried to the burning mill. Engines 13 and 30 of the Portland forces also responded.

Captain Fred Day of the Portland fire department, estimated that the loss would amount to from $20,000 to $25,000. It is understood this loss is covered by insurance.

Jacklin Reported In New York City

William Jacklin, motor car salesman who left Portland recently and for whom search has been made by police of the Northwest, is in New York city, according to a telegram received by Chief of Police Jenkins from the chief of police of San Jose, where Jacklin formerly operated. The telegram states that Jacklin is attempting to negotiate bonds with the American Surety company to cover the $7500 bonds under which he operated in Portland.

Old Residents See New Hump on South Side of Mt. Hood

Is anything the matter with Mount Hood? This question is worrying a number of residents in the vicinity of the junction of the Powell valley road and Eighty-second street who have observed a new hump on the mountain. This hump is, as judged by the eyes, about 1000 feet below the crest of the peak. "It is possible," says P. L. Wise of 8030 Thirty-fifth avenue, "that the break in the skyline has been there all the time and that we have just observed it, but we hardly think so, as we have been gazing on the mountain for years, having what we consider the best view to be had from any section. Old paintings and photographs do not show it. If it is a new development it can explain it on the theory that a part of the crowning rock has split off and slid down a ways, finding lodgment. There is much speculation in our district regarding the matter, and I am calling your attention to it with a view of arousing sufficient interest to determine whether there has been any change in the mountain's facial makeup or not. Opinion out our way is divided."
