gton, April 29 .- Germany an opportunity to modify ough the United States governpaper dispatches and official utterances from Paris and London especially to let the Germans know their offer is unac-

The difference between the allies and Germany does not center on the amount to be paid, but upon the terms and cabled text has been discovered which puts a different light on at least one mportant paragraph of the German prosal, that which relates to "unproductive outlays." The first version made it appear that the German government wanted to be rid of these outlays, which are interpreted to mean the funds spent in sustaining the allied armies of sociebut the German government's statement now says the note should have read that German business must be rid of "unproductive outlays," and that the phrase refers to disadvanageous trade arrangements.

In any event; the most objectionable the German proposal is that which declares as condition of payment that all penalties or "sanctions" must be made after the German proposal was London conference and does not involve any way the sanctions provided by the Versailles treaty.

Should these two important points be made in an official communication to the United States, it may be that when the allies examine the entire proposition may fall into the category of a suitable basis" for discussion later on. FRANCE WANTS ACTION

For the moment the French are de ermined to occupy the Ruhr and talk bout modifications in the German proposal afterwards. The French believe acceptance when the French troops are in possession of the valuable resources French public opinion would be indigrant over anything that resembled dilly-sums asked for by the allies but, as indicated by the British counter-questions, everything depends upon the details of the proposal and not the general principles of value promises of the Ger-

The league of victors in the war is still intact, although Germany sees here and there a wavering upon which she bases a lingering ope of division in the allied ranks. FAITH IN HUGHES

Secretary Hughes has the whole situation well in hand. President Harding has so much confidence in this that he went off to Hampton Roads to review the Atlantic fleet and gave the secretary of state complete authority to go ahead without further reference to him.

This is somewhat of a change over the Wilson method. The custom in the preceding administration was for the president to permit no action to be taken on important matters of foreign policy without his explicit consent to every move, however detailed. Mr. Harding reverses the process and permits his secretary of state to take the initiative. The last cabinet meeting on Tuesday gave Mr. Harding an opportunity to get the advice of his colleagues and a course of action was determined upon. But every hour brings new situations and they are compelled to take the full responsibility for the course of the United States government. MOVES PARTLY SECRET allied governments and Washington and also to give the allies full opportunity to change their minds if they found anything in the note that would permit it to be used as a suitable base for negotiations. Secretary Hughes has handled the matter with all the delicacy of an experienced diplomat, and thus far, contrary to the expectations in some allied quarters, the entitient secretary has not had his fingers burned by the crosscurrent of interests involved to the reparations controversy.

Villa, Content on Ranch, Sends Word Crop Is Splendid

Mexico City, April 29.—(I. N. S.)

One year on the farm has convinced Francisco Villa, former bandit, that the simple life is the life for him. Citizen Villa sent word to friends in this city today that crops are excellent and that he is entirely satisfied with the outlook on his ranch. Villa is now sole and absolute owner of the Cantillo ranch, which was given to him when he surrendered to the Obregon government. The government has just paid $250,000 to the former owner of the ranch to insure Villa against any prosecution in the courts regarding payment for the land.

American Declares He Beat Einstein to 'Relativity Theory'

New York, April 29 .- (U. S.)-The Cinstein theory of relativity is old stuff. It was dug out in Newburgh, N. Y., by Dr. Wesley Walt, 20 years ago.
At least that is what Dr. Wait de-clared here today. He hurried to Washington to present his case before the Academy of Sciences. But he dallying on the part of the Briand arrived too late. Now he's going to take it up with the Smithsonian Institution. The only difference between the Einstein and the Wait theories is the name. Dr. Wait christened his theory "The unity of universal existence." Now he's going to ask Dr. Einstein a lot of questions. Simple little questions like this: "Did not chemical affinity come into existence when the universe environment influence began to concentrate the friction into physical matter all from ating the density of the atom

Panama Is Told in U.S. Ultimatum to Take White Award

Washington, April 29 .- (I. N. S.) - Another note to Panama, couched in such terms as to make it virtually an ultimatum, has been dispatched by this government, it was learned authoritatively

The note, it is understood, sternly admonishes the Panama government to accept the White award as a basis of settlement in her boundary dispute with Costa Rica, as demanded by this government in the previous notes that have passed between the two countries.
