Out Victory Over Macks

By George Bertz Portland went down to its third straight defeat Saturday at the hands of the Vernon Tigers, 9 to 2.

The loss of the game can be attributed directly to weak pitching, a since the opening of the season. The inability of the Portland hurlers to steady down is a puzzle and something must be done to bolster up the staff.

The failure of the pitchers to hold up their end has put the team in a gen-eral slump. Although the Mackmen managed to grab off 10 bingles off Willie Mitchell and Art Fromme, they could not bunch them properly. PITCHERS HIT HARD

Harold Polson started Saturday's game and was nicked for seven hits, including two doubles and a home run by Hwatt, in four innings, which re-sulted in five runs. Sid Ross was nicked for a quartet of tallies in the last five innings.

Marty Krug grabbed a couple of bingles for himself, and maybe he will come out of his batting slump.
