LINNTON RAILROAD FRANCHISE TERMS TO BE PUBLISHED

The city council Friday forenoon ordered publication of formal notice of its intention to grant a street railway franchise between Linnton and Portland to J. B. Schaefer, S. F. Parr and Louis Osberg.

This action was taken after a hearing in which the last details of the franchise requirements were worked out. A letter was submitted from the Linnton Improvement club, urging that the street car line is a necessity for the development of that district.

The construction is to be started within 12 months of the date of granting the franchise and it must be completed and in operation within 18 months. The service is to be at least one hour and 20 minutes between 6 a. m. and midnight.

The total cost of the project is placed at $40,000, of which $20,000 will be for construction and $20,000 for equipment. The line will run from C street, Linnton to Twelfth and Burnside streets, Portland.

The compensation to the city is placed at the nominal sum of $1 a year, and the value of the franchise is placed at $20. The franchise holders are obligated to expend at least $500 a year on the up keep.

It is expected by the promoters to place the stock of the concern among the people of Linnton. They stated that many persons have indicated their willingness to make such subscriptions, in order to encourage the construction of the line.

It was stated that but six miles of actual construction will be necessary, and that the grade of the old tracks of the United Railways will be used between Oilton and Linnton.

Festival Queen Is To Be Given 21-Gun Salute on June 8

A 21 gun salute to Her Highness Dorothy, princess of Rosaria, will announce to the people of Portland the arrival of their ruler for the 1921 Rose Festival. Steaming past the ships of war in the lower harbor, the princess will land at the Stark street slip at high noon, June 8. She will then be escorted to luncheon at the Multnomah hotel and then to her coronation at Multnomah field.

Amid the trumpeting of heralds, the dancing of little children and the solemn and weighty oaths of her royal office, she will be crowned Queen of Roses at 2 o'clock. The event will be the opening one of the festival and thenceforth merriment will reign while Portland does homage to the sovereign.

Such were the plans announced by Mrs. C. E. Runyon, chairman of the women's participation and the queen's affairs, at the board meeting Thursday afternoon. The queen is to be brought up the river on the yacht Wisdom and will pass in review of the vessels of the United States navy in the harbor. The program of the coronation ceremonies is an elaborate one.

Improvement Will Lessen Velocity of Water, Says Brief

Improvement of North Portland harbor will tend to lessen, rather than quicken, the velocity of water in Oregon slough at the Interstate highway and railroad bridges, according to a brief filed with Major R. Park of the United States engineer corps by W. G. Brown, engineer for North Portland industries, Friday.

* * * Considering only the Oregon slough channel, control by contraction works in the shape of spur dikes constructed concurrently with channel deepening operations," his brief reads, "will not increase velocities at either the Interstate bridge, the S. P. & S. bridge or the lower end of Hayden island, but, on the contrary, will tend to decrease such velocities while causing increased velocities at the spur dikes to be constructed between the points named * * *

"There exists at present a solid fill across Hayden island carrying the interstate highway which, while causing a severe contraction at high stages at the Interstate bridge, can have no effect at the railway bridge.

For Matinee or Tea

Soft, clinging crepes, gay foulards and crisp organdies vie for favor with the delicately tinted batistes and sturdy linens which seem to appear simultaneously with the first sunny day. For the matinee or for tea in town foulard seems best adapted to cope with the problem of being sufficiently conservative to meet the demands of traveling in motor or train, and lovely enough to appear at the subsequent afternoon affair. The frock illustrated at the left has made charming use of brilliantly patterned foulard, with a simple, straight-lined skirt and a slip-on blouse which terminates in long, fringed panels on each hip. The sleeves may be long or short, as the occasion requires. Two shades of organdie or taffeta make the frock at the right, which offers an unusually attractive field for color combinations. If developed in organdie, the collar, tunic and blouse may be trimmed with flat organdie rosebuds and tiny organdie leaves.

Sound Baby Salmon Seized; Prosecution To Be Commenced

Concerted effort to end the sale of Puget Sound baby salmon on the Portland markets as trout and grayling, was started Thursday when the game commissions of Washington and Oregon cooperated in the confiscation of a quantity of the undersized fish for being improperly labeled.

The confiscation was made by Herbert Shaw, fisheries inspector for Washington, and J. J. Craig, deputy game warden for Oregon. A total of 75 pounds of the fish was seized, this amount to serve as evidence in the prosecution of the Puget Sound men who have been shipping the fish to Portland.

Baby salmon have been shipped here and have been sold in the local markets because the Oregon law had loopholes which permitted the sale. With the Washington authorities bending every effort to prevent the shipment of salmon under 15 inches, the sale of these fish will be stopped, but there is nothing to prevent the Washington men from continuing to ship the baby salmon between 15 and 20 inches.

Responsibility for preventing the sale of salmon less than 20 inches will rest in the hands of the commercial fish commission. The commercial fish code says it is unlawful to have in possession immature salmon and classes as immature salmon those less than 20 inches.

Senator Stanfield Plaintiff in Action

A suit has been filed in the federal court against the Oregon Short Line company to recover $14,560 alleged damages caused by the death of sheep in transit over the company's lines from Idaho to Oregon. The suit was started in the Malheur county court, but transferred to the federal court because the alleged loss occurred in an interstate shipment. The complaint sets forth that the sheep were shipped by McPherson & Avera, R. N. Stanfield and Gerald Stanfield from Donelly, Idaho, to Harper, Or., and that 1040 sheep died in a corral at Harper after having been without food and water for 28 hours.

Simonton, superintendent of the Oregon Iron & Steel company and of the Oswego Lake Light & Power company, some time Thursday afternoon, and escaped with a small quantity of toilet articles and some food. Discipline the Price of Health

828 Hawthorne at Twenty-seventh

SICK PEOPLE need discipline and training about as much as do the boys and girls. Readers are constantly shocked by press reports of wayward youth. Just discipline in the home is needed in the one instance, carefully directed institutional care is necessary in the other. Wrong habits of life produce most diseases and while our Milk Diet Treatment is restoring health we teach the patient how to live and how to think in order to maintain a body and mind equilibrium. If you need renewed health go to The Moore Sanitarium.

Parents Given Entertainment by Pupils

By Vella Winner

THE Sunnyside Parent-Teacher association meet Tuesday was the final meeting of a successful year. Reports show a membership of 135, with a substantial sum in the treasury.

Mrs. Nathan Harris gave a short talk on "Keeping Step With Our Children," which was very practical.

Children from the first room gave a dramatization which delighted the mothers. A declamatory contest was held by seven pupils, each representing a room. First honors went to Margaret Bewley, second to Helen Kirchner and third to Charlotte Dabney. Mrs. I. M. Walker and Mrs. W. H. Bathgate reported the state convention at Pendleton. Officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows: President, Mrs. G. A. Douglas; vice president, Mrs. Ralph Ackley; second vice president, Mrs. William Fahrenbacher; secretary, Mrs. Paul Wyman; treasurer, Miss Heil. Pupils from Miss Heslin's room sang a group of songs.

To Teach Swimming

The city council has granted leave of absence to Miss Thelma Payne, telephone operator at the city hall, for a period of three months, so that she may take up the duties of swimming instructor at the city swimming pools during the summer, commencing July 1, at which time the public swimming pools will be opened to general use.
