Making the deduction, Portland is only about 87 miles up the river. I think that this error of land and sea miles should be corrected so that seafaring people in distant ports can make a proper esti-

INJUNCTION AGAINST MARINE

UNIONS GETS EXTENSION San Francisco, June 4 .- (I. N. S.)-The temporary injunction restraining the striking marine unions from picketing and interfering with shipping, granted by Federal Judge Van Fleet several days ago, was this afternoon extended for 10 days when arguments opened on the matter of making it permanent. The arguments went over until Monday after several witnesses had been heard. Robert Hill, a port engineer, testified that on June 1 an inspection of the tanker Salinas revealed that abrasive New Department materials had been placed in the oil cups of the vessel. Cases of two men charged with violation of the temporary injunction also came up today and after dis-Washington, June 4.—(I. N.
