STILLMAN'S SON DISOWNS FATHER; STICKS BY MOTHER

By Universal Service

New York, June 20.—Bud Stillman, aged 17, has "disowned" his father, James A. Stillman, who is suing Mrs. Fifi Potter Stillman for divorce.

"It seems a hard thing to say, but I cannot longer recognize as my father the man who is attacking my mother," declared the boy today when he was interviewed in Mrs. Stillman's Fifth avenue apartment.

"I left Milton academy during the Easter vacation to be near my mother," he continued. "Now I am boning like the deuce to pass my exams. They begin tomorrow.

"It is hard work but I am glad I came. I don't know whether I have been of any use to my mother, but I just love to be near her. I guess I could get into the thick of the fight with her. I guess it's a big fight. She is winning and I wish I could help her to win quicker and more completely.

BREACH IS WIDENING

"It is a hard thing to say, but I don't believe I have a father any more. Once we were pretty close to each other, my father and I, but no longer. I can't recognize as father the man who is trying to ruin my mother.

"I cut away from him the moment I found out what he intended to do. We are farther away today than ever. I can't ever look up to him again. There's a saying that what's in a father comes out in a son. Well, it will never come out in me, I hope.

"Those I respect tell me I am totally unlike my father. I hope so. There are certain things a fellow doesn't like to talk about. But there is only one thing I want. That is to have the privilege of taking care of mother all her life.

"I have some money in my own name. It was left me by my grandfather. My name is James Stillman, not James A. Jr. I am going to earn my own living. I won't need money, but I am glad it is coming to me for mother's sake."

SISTER PUZZLES HIM

Commenting on his sister, Anne Stillman, aged 19, who has kept silent so far as the public is concerned, about the marital troubles of her parents and the fight in the divorce courts, the young man said:

"I don't know much about girls, but I can't understand my sister. We'd always been pretty close until this thing came up. Now she's trailing with her father. Girls are queer, aren't they? I'm sort of sorry for sis. She seems to think her father is a lily-white angel—isn't it strange? I think she's thinking of her position and all that sort of thing.

"As for me I don't mind saying exactly what I think. I don't believe he is sick mentally as mother said. I think he's just downright mean and I doubt whether he ever did love her."

STANFIELD TIES HIS INTEREST WITH PACKERS

ity of the reports of the federal trade commission, and they had a little colloquy over the value that should be assigned to the low profits of the packers on "turnover," which is the favorite repiy of the packers when taken to task for unusual profits. Norris takes the view that profits should be surveyed from the standpoint of what the packers make on their business, their net worth. He asked Stanfield if he regarded the turnover profit as any indication of the profit of the business.

"It is absolutely an indication of the profit of the business," returned Stanfield. "Of course, the total aggregate profit would depend upon the volume of business that they did. I think the senator will agree with me that there are no other businesses, or at least very few, where they can exist with a profit of only 2 per cent on their turnover. I think that is a very small profit."

NORRIS INTERRUPTS

Senator Norris—May I interrupt the senator again? The senator referred to the turnover made during the war by the packers, and he gave the federal trade commissioner as his authority.

Senator Stanfield—I said that I was speaking from memory, without the record.

Senator Norris—Does the senator know that that same authority speaking of Swift & Co., I think, said that in one of those very years, 1917, they made a profit of 33 per cent on their net worth?

Senator Stanfield—But I am speaking of the profit on turnover.

Senator Norris — Yes, I understand. Quite likely that is correct, that they did make the large profit on the aggregate of their business, which was made possible by the great efficiency of their organization.

Mr. Stanfield declared that he did not believe the good work of the packers should be interfered with, or their activities limited, "but I believe that the packing industry has become such an essential industry to our America life that we should compel the packer to go all the way from the producer to the consumer."

RETAIL TRADE AVOIDED

The packer is not looking for an opportunity to go into retail business, he continued, because he does not care for the opposition that would arise from the retail distribution business, but if the packer were compelled to go into it, he said, and sell at a reasonable price, "he would do so at a reasonable cost of distribution and other concerns could not compete with him unless they adopted the most economical system for the conduct of their business."

As an illustration of waste in distribution, Mr. Stanfield said he was informed there are 800 retail butchers in the city of Washington, where there should be perhaps 40 or 50, with the producer and the consumer paying for it on either end.

Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, who followed Stanfield, said that while it appears to be becoming a little fashionable to decry regulation of business by government, he believes it is a "little late" to do so.

INTERESTS IN OPPOSITION

He referred to regulation of banking, railroads, insurance and other business and reminded the senate that while these are now considered matter-of-course, "every one of these reforms, every one of these developments of civilized government in the direction of regulation for the protection of the consumer has been fought just as this bill has been fought by the interests affected."

He pointed out that even pure food and drug legislation, and the federal inspection of meat products were vigorously fought, and the packers marshaled their forces in the Roosevelt administration trying to prevent the establishment of meat inspection at their plants.

BOTH FIGHTERS SPEAK A LITTLE ENGLISH

they's a chorus man in New York that could of even knocked him down, but newspaper men that slept at the ring side tell me the referee give Billy a short count, quitting at 98. That leaves only the Brennan fight which other experts had thrown out and I am throwing out these three.

So all and all they's nothing in the records to show what either man could do in a fair fight, but as far as that is concerned it is just as well to remember that they hasnt been a big championship fight in history that was win or lose on its merits. They may of been ok wile they was going on and maybe the next day, but they all begin to look queer and weak, afterwards and by the time a few years has elapsed after a big scrap, why newspaper men or nobody else will talk about them except in whispers.

TRUTH ABOUT JEFFRIES

Like for instant take the time when Jeffries fought Johnson for the honor of the white race and all us poor whites hung on the ticker realizing that if Jim got licked they was nothing ahead of us but a life of shame. Well, Jim got licked and for several days we was allowed to think it was on account of Johnson being the best man but then the boys that was in the know began to whisper around what had really happened, so that by now they aint nobody that aint been let in on the truth, namely that the night before the fight Jeffries had alphabet soup for supper and some spy in the camp put Greek letters in it.

So no matter of Geo slaps Dempsey for a trip to Salt Lake or if Dempsey knocks Geo all the way back to the scene of President Wilson's triumph, why don't believe your eyes or what it says in the next days papers, because in a few years hence the real truth will come out which is that Dempsey and Carpenter pretended to train and was ostensibly the ones that was going to fight but on the day of the scrap they didnt show up at all and the two birds that the public thought was them was really the dolly sisters.

WAR RECORDS OLD STUFF

The records mentioned above is just the two men's boxing records and hasnt nothing to do with their war records which I make a motion that we lay off of from now on as it is old stuff and I havent no sympathy with the member of congress that brought it up the other day and said that even Corpentier was slow getting into it. Suppose he was, he had nothing on congress.

With the readers kind permission I will postpone comment on what shape the principles is in, and their training and etc till I have had more of a chance to hang around their quarters and see them in action. At the present writing I dont know nothing about how they compare only that they both speak a little English and no matter how long their battle lasts neither of them is going to be underpaid.

WATER BOND BIDS WILL BE OPENED BY CITY JULY 12

City Auditor Funk will receive bids to be opened July 12 at 11 o'clock a. m. for the purchase of $500,000 water bonds, the issuance of which has been authorized by the city council. These bonds bear 4 per cent interest and will run for 25 years.

The bond issue is required for the purpose of financing the construction of the new Bull Run headworks at an approximate cost of $250,000, paying for the construction of the new 1,000,000-gallon standpipe at Vernon and removal of the smaller standpipe from that location to one in St. Johns, and the completion of surveys for the proposed third trunk line from the Bull Run reservoirs to Portland.

RESOLUTIONS ON BATTLESHIP OREGON ARE DISTRIBUTED

City Auditor Funk has sent out to the leading cities of Oregon the resolutions adopted by the city council, asking that the battleship Oregon be permanently located in Portland harbor, and has asked each of these cities to take similar action and forward such resolutions to Oregon representatives in congress.

It is expected that prompt action will be taken on this line by these various municipalities and that such a general expression of sentiment will result in the matter receiving definite attention at Washington.

The cities asked officially to adopt resolutions on the subject include: Pendleton, Eugene, The Dalles, Salem, Astoria, Corvallis, Albany, Roseburg, Medford, McMinnville, Oregon City, Ashland, Baker, Hood River, Hillsboro, Forest Grove, Marshfield, Cottage Grove, Bend, Dallas and La Grande.

Hoffman's Painting Of Christ Is Too Effeminate, Claim

Hoffman's celebrated painting of the Christ is altogether too effeminate to represent one who fearlessly denounced the hypocrites of his day, declares Dr. J. M. Wilkinson of Los Angeles, who is to lecture Thursday night at the First Congregational church on "The Passion Play." He insists that the face of Hoffman's wife was the model from which Hoffman painted his picture. Dr. Wilkinson is gathering material for the filming of Bible stories. Dr. Wilkinson's contention is that the Bavarians of Ober-Ammergau present a Christ in the play with a German face. He plans to present the play in America with a Jew taking the part of Christ.

DELEGATES ARRIVE FOR SESSION OF BUILDING OWNERS

Delegates to the fourteenth annual convention of the National Association of Building Owners and managers began arriving this morning and have been coming in on all trains during the day. Forty members of the association from Seattle and Vancouver, B. C., are scheduled to reach the city tonight and delegations from California towns will come in at about the same time.

The special train de luxe, carrying 125 delegates and their friends, from Eastern cities, is due at Union station at 8:30 a. m., Tuesday, and delegations from other sections of the country will arrive in time for the opening session of the convention at 9:30 a. m., according to James J. Sayer, secretary of the Portland association.

The main ballroom of the Multnomah hotel has been prepared for the use of the convention and headquarters offices have been provided in adjoining space on the mezzanine floor, under direction of Walter M. Daly, chairman of the committee in charge of registration and the convention hall. Reservations have been made at the leading hotels for approximately 250 delegates. Business sessions of the convention will close with the election of officers Friday night, but the majority of the visitors will remain for an auto trip over the Columbia highway, Saturday.

AUTO TRIP FOR WOMEN

Entertainment features of the convention will be handled by committees headed by Charles S. Holbrook, president of the local association, and Mrs. Gwilym G. Jones, chairman of the ladies entertainment committee. Events scheduled for Tuesday include an auto drive for ladies through the west side residential section at 1:30 p. m., followed by an Oriental tea at the Portland hotel.

The presidents' dinner, tendered by President Holbrook of the Portland association, to Gordon Strong, president of the national association, and past presidents and members of the executive committee, will be held in the tea rooms on the mezzanine floor of the Multnomah hotel at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday. At the same hour a secretarial conference dinner will be given in honor of visiting secretaries in the Dutch room of the Heathwood restaurant. Following these dinners, all guests of the convention will go on a twilight automobile drive to Council Crest.

ADDRESSES OF WELCOME

Addresses of welcome by Dean Vincent, convention chairman; Governor Olcott, Acting Mayor C. A. Bigelow and President Holbrook, and an invocation by Bishop Walter Taylor Sumner will open the convention at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday. A discussion of city planning and zoning by Charles H. Cheney will be the principal feature of the forenoon session.

Papers on land values by A. A. McCaslin of Cleveland, Ohio; retail rental values by F. H. Heywood of Pasadena, Cal., and office rental values by W. M. Ellis of Chicago are scheduled for the afternoon program and will be followed by reports of committees on renting, ethics and legislation.

Virtually every problem of the building owner and manager will be presented in discussions by experts in the profession. Many of the delegates are owners of large office buildings in eastern cities and it is estimated by Secretary Sayre that the property represented at the convention has an aggregate value of more than $2,500,000,000.

Among the delegates who arrived today are Lewis B. Ermeling of Chicago, executive secretary of the national association; Howard G. Loomis of Omaha, corporate secretary of the national association; John P. Redmond of Chicago and F. E. Aida, manager of the Continental & Commercial Bank building of Chicago. John H. Hall of Cincinnati, accompanied by Mrs. Hall, came in on a morning train. Hall is a well known ornithologist and will be entertained by the Oregon Audubon society.

PORTLAND BOWS IN LAST TRIBUTE TO HERO FIREMAN

With flags at half-mast and heads bowed, the people of Portland paid last homage to Karl Gunster, who was killed in the fire at the May apartments June 15, as the solemn cortege passed through the streets of the downtown section, this morning on its way to Mount Scott cemetery.

Headed by the firemen's band, the procession wended its way to the cemetery through the business district and across the Morrison bridge. A platoon of police, the Spanish War Veterans, a platoon of firemen and Chief Grenfell preceded the caisson bearing the body.

HONORARY PALLBEARERS

Honorary pallbearers were Lieutenant A. L. Pullen, F. J. MacFarland, Herman Bates, Edward Boatright, A. D. McMartin and William C. Gunster is survived by his wife, Mrs. Etta M. Gunster; his parents, Dr. and Mrs. P. F. Gunster; one sister, Miss Helen M. Gunster, and one brother, Dr. Francis Gunster.

Raymond was born in Illinois, September 18, 1848. He had been a resident of Portland for 12 years, coming here from Montana. Surviving are the wife, Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond, Hazel R. Raymond, Chester B. Raymond and Grant M. Raymond of Portland, and Clarence H. Raymond of Hamilton, Mont., and five grandchildren.

City Hall Briefs

The proposed sewer in the Twelfth street and Cardinall drive sewer district is estimated by the city engineer to cost $4955. Remonstrances against the project may be filed with the city auditor up to July 7.

The city council has approved plans for the improvement of East Eleventh street from East Oak to East Davis streets by using No. 1 redress of asphaltic concrete, to be laid by the municipal paving plant. The cost is estimated by City Engineer Laurgaard as $11,292.

Proposals for laundering bathing suits and towels for the season for the park department will be opened at the city hall at 2 o'clock next Friday afternoon. At the same time bids will be opened for the construction of market sheds on Yamhill street.

LEWIS IS IN FIGHT AGAINST SAM GOMPERS

report with any appreciable degree of accuracy the work of this convention, though others do not seem to be under any such handicap.

APPEALS TO LABOR

"This can only be because the Hearst interests are, for some reason which they do not care to state, determined to disrupt the American Federation of Labor and to destroy its chosen leaders. It is my firm conviction that the federation will know how to deal with this situation, and I have entire confidence in its wisdom.

"In any event, the Hearst interests cannot dictate my course. That can be done only by labor. My life has been given to the service of the wage-earners of our country. I remain at their command."

WILL VOTE FRIDAY

The election will be held Friday. In the meantime, delegates were kept on edge by reports that campaign activities of the Gompers and Lewis factions might be investigated.

A printed report that Lewis is supported by a fund of $100,000 stirred a number of delegates to demand a thorough investigation.

The railroad unions, women garment workers and machinists have swung to the support of Lewis' candidacy.

SEAMEN SUPPORTED

A resolution supporting the International Seamen's union in its refusal to negotiate a settlement of the marine strike so far as it affects the sailors, cooks and stewards so long as the United States shipping board stands for an "open shop" was introduced in the convention of the American Federation of Labor today.

"All negotiations with the shipping board so far as the seamen are concerned are off," Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seamen's union, announced in presenting the resolution.

SHIPPING BOARD HIT

"The statements of A. D. Lasker of the shipping board and other members taken together show first that the government with its power and money is to create, foster and perpetuate the non-union shop—proscribing the union—and second, that there is to be a further general reduction in wages in January, 1922," says the resolution.

"The seamen refuse to agree to any such policy accepting persecution and suffering, and thereby reminding us of their fearless attitude when the Germans were torpedoing the marchant marine and sea power of the United States."

The resolution declares the United States shipping board, "while hiding behind a smoke screen of union hate," is torpedoing the merchant marine and the sea power of the United States.

ADOPT RESOLUTIONS

Resolutions from nearly 40 central labor bodies urging the convention to adopt the Irish resolution providing for a boycott of British-made goods were presented this morning.

The convention adopted resolutions favoring:

Providing for appeal from decisions of the federal civil service officials.

Urging adequate housing laws.

Resolutions advocating equalization of rights of white and negro workers in union memberships were considered, but action was withheld and measures sent back to committee.

Man and Woman Fined

Vancouver, Wash., June 20.—Mrs. Anne Lyle Tremble and Lawrence Perry of Kelso, arrested in a hotel here Sunday, were fined $25 and $75 and costs, respectively, this morning. They are alleged to have registered as "A. M. Wallace and wife of Ellensburg." Mrs. Tremble is a school teacher of Kelso and wife of a Portland hotel clerk. According to evidence brought out she has not lived with her husband for a year and planned to marry Perry when she could secure a divorce. The Trembles have a 10-year-old son. Mrs. Tremble's parents reside at Kelso.

Can She Talk as Much This Way as She Did Old Way?

(By Universal Service)

Paris, June 20. — The "sewed smile" is likely to become the latest fad with women whose otherwise perfect beauty is marred by a too wide mouth. The fad is expected to follow the successful operation undergone by Mrs. W. E. Corey, by which the corners of her mouth were slightly drawn in and sewed together, forming a perfect Cupid's bow.

The operation is declared to be very simple.
