

HOTEL ACCUSED OF VIOLATION OF FIRE ORDINANCE

Action was started in the municipal court Thursday afternoon by the department of public works, seeking to have the Portland hotel either to enclose all stairways and elevator shafts according to provisions in an ordinance recently passed by the city council, or to provide additional fire escapes. After hearing the contention of both sides, Judge Rossman took the case under advisement and announced he would render a decision in one week.

Building Inspector Plummer claimed that the ordinance provided that a direct connection must be arranged between every room and a fire escape, or the stairways and elevators enclosed as provided for in the ordinance.

ONLY FOUR ESCAPES

Plummer pointed out that there are only four fire escapes, one at either end of the two long halls which pass the full length of the two wings. The elevator shafts and stairways were not enclosed, he testified.

John W. Gearin, appearing for the hotel company, claimed that there is a direct connection to fire escapes, since every room opened on an unobstructed hallway which leads directly to the fire escapes at either end. He pointed out further that the provision in the ordinance was being violated in the police station itself, since the ordinance stated that the stairways and elevator shafts should be enclosed in all buildings over two stories, where persons sleep.

Gearin told the court he would cost the hotel company $20,000 to enclose the stairways and shafts, or at least $800 for each new fire escape installed.

WARRANT IS SERVED
A letter written by the department of public works after the Elton court disaster, which stated that the ordinance was passed to avoid another similar case, was introduced as evidence.

The hotel company claimed that conditions were not the same, and that the condition which the ordinance sought to rectify was where the hallway from rooms did not lead directly to a fire escape, but where the passage first passed through an ante-room.

The entire case centered about the meaning of the words "direct connection."
The case was begun when a warrant was served against Edward Boyce, 207 St. Clair street, as the representative of the corporation, charging violation of the city ordinance.

New Pavement to Oswego Completed; Road Is Again Open

The new concrete pavement to Oswego is now open to travel. There are about 200 feet within the Oswego city limits which has not sufficiently hardened, but which will be given over to traffic Monday.

The opening of the paved road will make it no longer necessary to detour over the Boones ferry road, which has been used during paving operations. Beyond Oswego the work of paving is proceeding but this does not suspend travel to Oregon City, as the old county road is available.

Water Right Taxable
Salem, July 1.—Water used for irrigation purposes is appurtenant to the land upon which it is used and the water rights should be assessed as real estate in connection with land, and not separately, according to an opinion written by Attorney General Van Winkle for Frank K. Lovell, state tax commissioner.

Cooperative Work Proves Benefit to Vegetable Oil Men

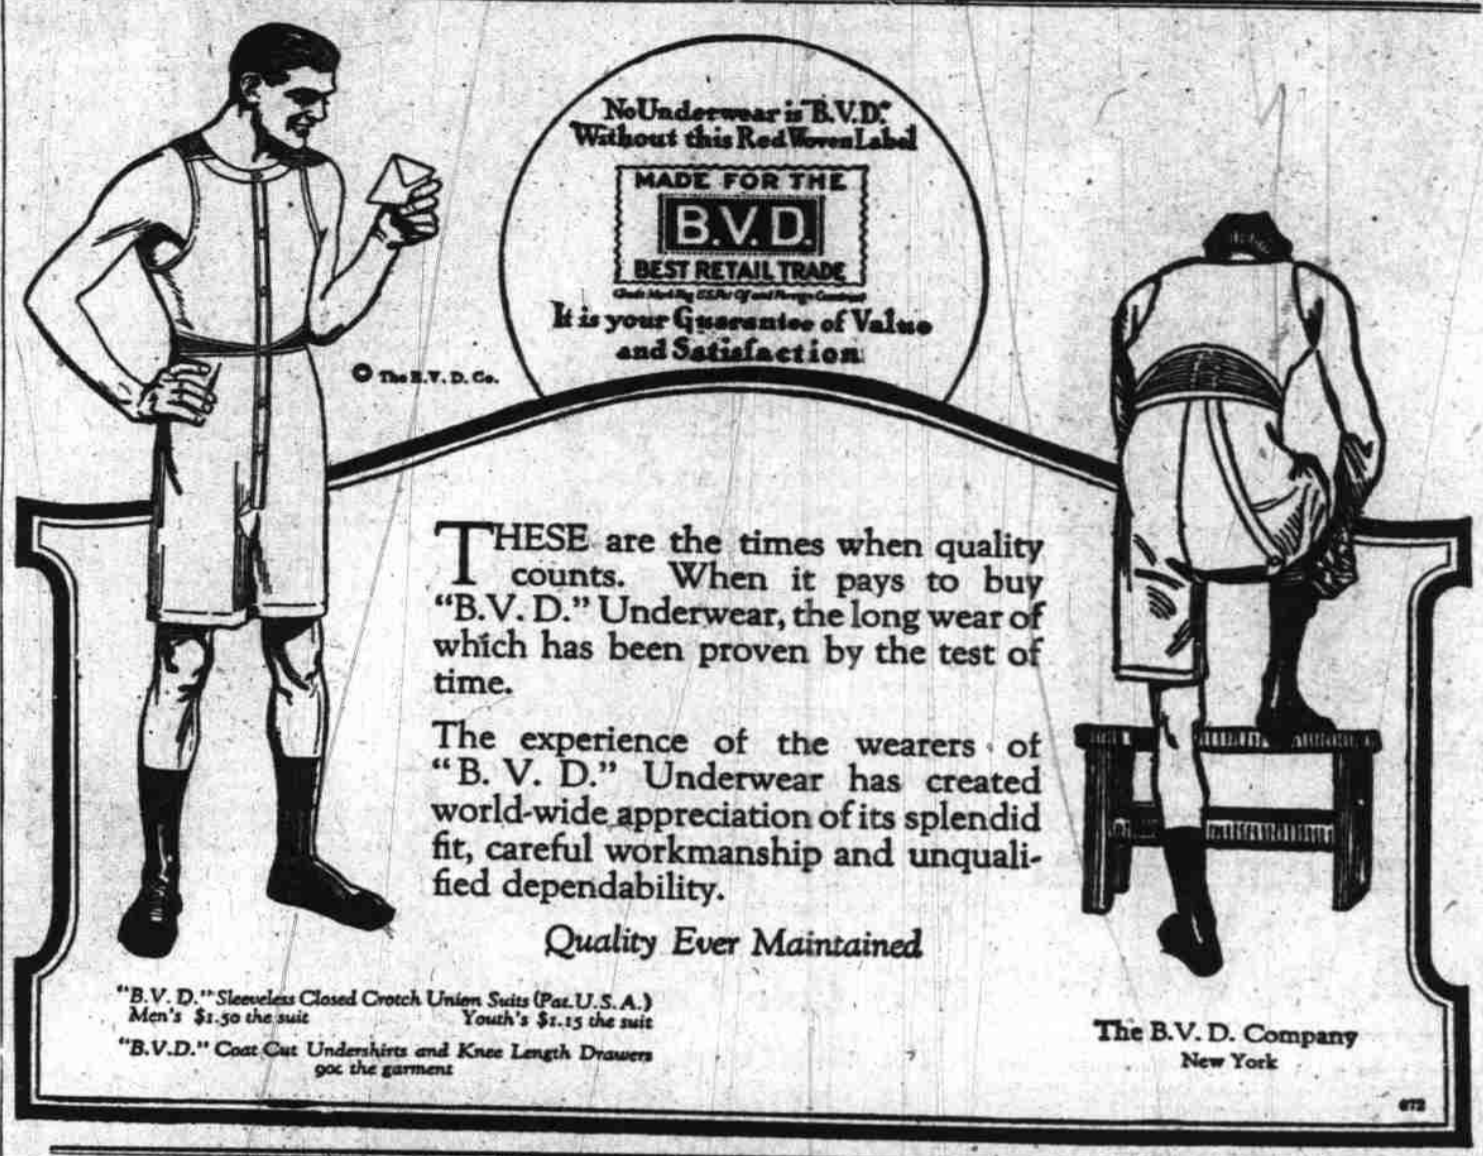

Benefit which the producers of vegetable oil in the United States are obtaining through cooperation was outlined to representatives of local vegetable oil, grain and allied industries, who gathered in the Green room of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday afternoon to hear of the activities of the industry from Louis N. Geldert, assistant to the president of the Interstate Cotton Seed Crushers' association and editor of the Cotton Oil Press, published at Washington, D. C.

Geldert was accompanied here by Mrs. Geldert, who is known to the literary world as Grace Duffie Boylan, and John P. Conduit of Los Angeles, Pacific coast representative for the association.

Drilling Stopped At Oil Prospect in Astoria District

Astoria, July 1.—A gradually increasing pressure of gas and seepage of oil claimed to have been noticed for the past week at the oil drilling being conducted near Astoria is given as the reason for directors of the company ordering drilling suspended until the well can be cased with steel pipes for the 2350 feet of its depth. No effort will be made to continue drilling until casing which has been ordered from California is set in the well. All leases held by the company, which cover 6000 acres in the vicinity of the well, were filed today with the county clerk.

Joseph Myers, petrologist, who spent five months inspecting the oil possibilities of this district, and who chose the spot where the present well is being sunk, predicted that oil would be found there between 2300 and 2500 feet down.

Endeavorers Leave To Attend Meeting In New York City

A crowd of Portland Endeavorers gathered at the Union station Thursday evening to bid farewell to their delegates to the International Christian Endeavor convention in New York city July 6 to 11. Those who left were LeRoy R. Robinson, state president; Warde W. Robinson, Mrs. W. R. Corbett, Clive Sals, all of Portland; Walter L. Myers of Eugene and Miss Jane Hollingsworth of McMinnville. Dr. Helen M. Gilkey and sister of Corvallis left a few days ago.

The delegates took 1000 folders and descriptive books of Portland and the Columbia river highway given by the Chamber of Commerce and 6000 badges bearing a highway scene and the official slogan, "Hit the Oregon Trail in '21," for advertising purposes in an effort to bring the 1923 convention to Portland.

Other Oregon folk in the East will join these delegates in the great parade down Fifth avenue, carrying white parasols topped with roses and bearing the official slogan.

Robinson carried a guarantee from the Portland Chamber of Commerce that the $16,000 necessary to put over the convention would be available.

Haberdasher Will Move Farther West On Washington St.

A 10-year lease was closed Thursday by M. Sichel for ground floor space in the Sichel-Hirsch building at the southwest corner of West Park and Washington streets. The Sichel store, which has been located at 331 Washington street, between Sixth and Broadway, for several years, will be moved to the new location as soon as alterations on the interior of the building are completed.
