Board of Control Told Minnesota's Prison Profitable

Salem. Or., July 6.-C. J. Swendsen of St. Paul, Minn., chairman of the board of control and board of parole in Minnesota, is a Salem visitor this week, studying the eight state institutions located here. Swendsen, who has been a member of the Minnesota board of control for 10 years, serving under four govboard of control Tuesday, explaining the workings of the Minnesota board, whose five members devote their entire time to the management of the state's 17 institutions said, is not only self-supporting but pays approximately $200,000 a year into the state's general fund the state's general fund from the re-celpts of its farm machinery and twine factory, after providing for the care of dependents of the convicts.

Raided; Hosts Held

Astoria, July 6.-The police and fed-eral officers on the night of the Fourth raided the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bakk in this city. arrested the owners and five guests, all of whom are said to have been intoxicated. The Baak couple, old offenders, according to the police, were taken before United States Commissioner Howard K. Zimmerman and bound over to the federal grand fury under $500 bonds. The same pro-cedure was followed with Paul Balotich and Jack Basiola, proprietors of the Chinook bar, and Paul Ryan, taken at the Occident hotel. All five were charged with violation of the national prohibi-tion act.

and banners, to whom did he reveal it? I answer myself. To the Christian nations, to whom alone it was a discovery. Had the Indians reached Europe in those days they would not, according to the practice of those times, have discovered the Old World. It is not discovered yet. Had the Chinese reached America at that time it would not have constituted a discovery. Only things found by Christians were discoveries. From the old Christian standpoint the Esquimaux crossing the Behring Straits in those days found nothing on either side, because they were not Christians. It is an interesting study.

Why was America called the New World? Because it was new to Christians, of course. It was not new to the Indians; nor was civilization a new thing to the Indians.

When Columbus discovered the New World he discovered also a new race-the red race. Why was it a new race? Because Christians had not known of it. The Pope had not known of it. The King of Spain had not known of it.

When Columbus discovered the Red Men they did not in turn discover him, although they saw him. Why? Because they were not Christians.

The day of discovery is not over. Motorists are discovering in Savage Tires a product in keeping with the ideal behind their manufacture-the ideal to make tires so mighty that they will excel all others.

And now a new member has come into the tribe-the mightiest of them all-the new Savage Cord. This latest product of the House of Spreckels embodies refinements and the best known practices in cord tire construction. Even as the Savage D type is mighty among fabric tires, so is this Savage Cord mighty among tires of cord construction, for it is Built to Excel. It is true.
