Tuneful Songs Set Off Hip Program

By A. S. J.
LOVERS of tuneful songs have a rare treat in store at the Hippodrome theatre this week in the act presented by Nat Vincent and Irene Franklin...

Cooper and Riddello do a lot of novel balancing stunts and play the violin delightfully. Olive Mae and Carl Hill sing well, say a lot of amusing things and exhibit rare skill in the performance of tricky dance steps...

Harry Sykes, an interesting blackface comedian, upholds the best traditions of his ilk in his offering entitled "African Opera." McConnell and Austin perform an act impressive to any but an extremely athletic man and exceptionally clever partner...

"Bunty Pulls the Strings" is the movie offering at the Hippodrome for the first half of the week.
