

AMERICANS BORN ADDD WILL HAVE THEIR STATE FAIR

Plans Progress for an All-American Exhibit—Naturalized Folk to Present Programs.

Salem, Aug. 20.—An outstanding feature of the coming state fair, September 22-October 1, will be the All-American exhibit, which is made primarily to show what the people of foreign birth have brought to enrich American arts and crafts.

The state fair board undertook the work last year, setting aside one day for those of foreign birth. The initial effort was to enroll exhibitors and crafts, which was successful. It was decided to give over a section of the educational building for similar exhibits this year, the place to be occupied by them during the entire week. Mrs. Isaac Patterson, vice president general of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who pioneered the effort last year, has again been named to take charge this year. In her endeavor she will be assisted by other members of the patriotic organization who will assist as hostesses and in other ways.

DISPLAY ORIGINAL

Exhibitors have been going on for several months past in solid cooperation of parts of the state. Selection of material for the forthcoming exhibit has claimed much time, and judging from the beautiful array of articles already prepared the exhibit will be easily the most notable and interesting of any that the educational building has housed. Things shown last year covered a wide variety from exquisite needlework to arts and crafts objects. The display this fall will be similar to the original one.

Decorations of a patriotic nature will furnish a fitting background for the booths which will be presided over throughout the week by representatives of the different nationalities.

PROGRAM ARRANGED

One evening of the week will be given over to these people, who are to pull on the regular program in the new pavilion. Folk dances and songs will be in order, with those taking part appearing in native costumes. The Swedish citizens of the state will send John Olson of Portland to the state fair to lead in characteristic folk dances. He will be assisted by six couples and three musicians. Mr. Olson has a background for his work here many years experience in similar activities all over the United States.

The Greeks and Russians are preparing to give similar demonstrations, and the Swiss will exemplify their national yodeling. Other exhibits of arts and crafts will be shown in the art department in the new pavilion and in the textile building. Mrs. Alice Weister of Portland is superintendent of the former, this year entering upon her sixth season in that capacity. She will be assisted by Mrs. J. Albert Jackson, also of Portland, who has a thorough art education and knowledge to aid in the work.

Mrs. Weister is anticipating one of the best exhibits in years. Some splendid loan exhibits are to be made, and many new artists who are gaining distinction in the northwest will be represented. Among the old favorites will be Sidney Bell, Clyde Leon Keller, Margaret De Voe White and many others.

TEXTILE DISPLAY TOO

Mrs. Walter J. Holman, of Portland will supervise the textile department again this year, which is her second season. Owing to the more normal pricing of linen and needlework goods Mrs. Holman predicts a renewed interest in work represented by her department, and in consequence expects to have much new and fine work in her building. Many entries have already been received, and she anticipates a coming from as far East as Massachusetts.

Those who realize the tremendous educational value of the arts and crafts are endeavoring to get an appropriation for a separate building, and it is possible that within two years at most, the dream will be realized.

McMINNVILLE

McMinnville, Aug. 20.—The Non-Profit league has been organized in Yamhill county recently at a meeting at Unionvale in the southeast part of the county. The meeting was well attended and was addressed by H. E. Stearns, national organizer. Many signatures were obtained for the membership list.

McMinnville is being complimented on the orderly dances held under the new dance company.

Fire Chief Erel Pearson and assistants in the fire companies of this city enjoyed their annual picnic at Braly's ford west of Amity.

A Free Methodist campmeeting began in Amity Thursday and will continue to August 28. Articles of incorporation for a new church have been filed by the denomination.

The studio of Trullinger Sisters is being moved from the Knights of Pythias building to the Mardis block.

Word has been received from Professor J. Sherman Wallace, a former professor in McMinnville college, that during September he will resign his pastorate of the Baptist church at Salt Lake to become a pastor at Madison, Wis.

H. E. Hutchens, for four years assistant manager of the Standard Oil plant here, has been assigned to the management of the plant at Silverton. The second meeting of the Yamhill county community federation was held at Amity Tuesday. The next meeting will be at Newberg, September 13.

The home and dance hall at August Ford at Grand Ronde burned Thursday, with loss estimated at $3500. Insurance on the building expired last May.

Leslie J. Bennett, editor of the Criton Sentinel, will enroll as a student in the state university next month. His newspaper will either be sold or leased to William Martin Jr. of this city has been appointed fire warden at McMinnville by the state fire marshal.

SELLWOOD

The Misses Margaret, Minnie and Hyacinth King of 749 Harold avenue are enjoying a three weeks' vacation at the beach.

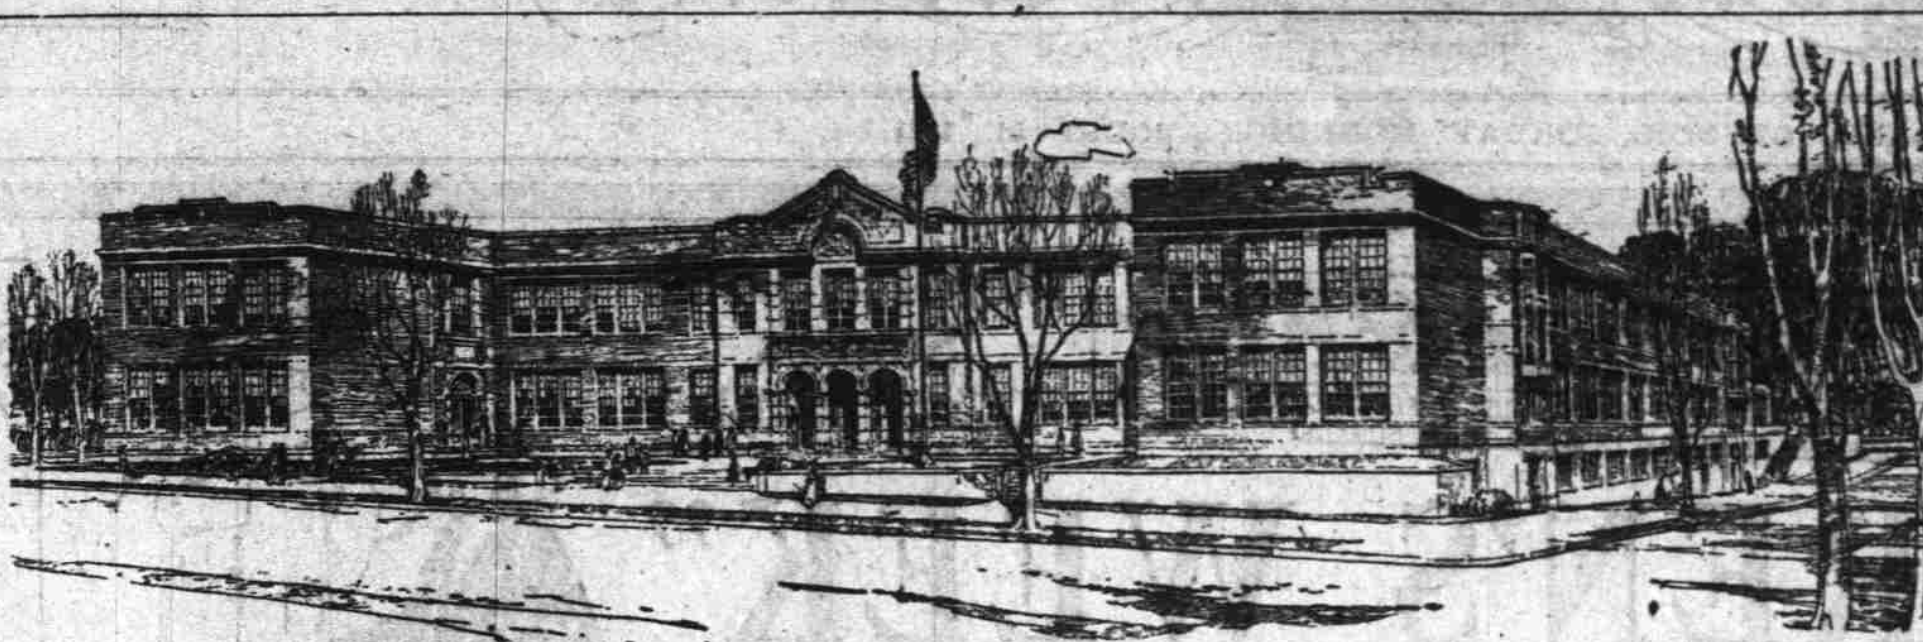

Miss Ruth Twiby was a guest at dinner Sunday at the home of Mrs. Lucille and Reginald Cooke, 1163 East Twenty-second street.

Miss Catharine Cumming, 1198 East Twenty-second street, has returned from a two weeks' vacation at Oak Grove beach.

TEACHERS SIGN CONTRACTS

Chehalis, Wash., Aug. 20.—Teachers for Napaeving schools who have signed contracts are: Mrs. Genevieve Monk, Miss Genevieve Browning, Miss Martha Peasley, Miss Edith Owe and Miss Ethyl Catwell. The high school faculty will be composed of E. Paul Todd, superintendent; H. G. Clothier, Miss Eble Andrews and Miss Florence Goss.

HANDSOME NEW SCHOOL RISING ON EAST SIDE

Hawthorne-Buckman building, which will be ready to house hundreds of children in February, according to designs of F. A. Naramore, drawn several years ago, construction being halted during the war period.

Letting of the final contracts for the Hawthorne-Buckman school has been announced by Captain George S. Edmonstone, property superintendent for the public schools, the new structure occupying a full block with the entrance at East Sixteenth and Pacific. The school is expected to have 16 of the 25 class rooms which will be included in the building complete by February. The others are to be finished as soon as the necessary funds are appropriated.

OLDTIME FIDDLERS AT GRESHAM FAIR

Pioneer Musicians Who Played for Reels and Square Dances Are Asked to Attend.

A novel feature of the Multnomah county fair at Gresham, in September, will be a reunion of pioneer, aged fiddlers. The tune-makers of earlier days living in this and adjoining counties have been invited to join actively in a feast of the jazz of generations gone by. The pioneers who supplied the spirited melodies to which tireless feet tripped on puncheon floors will show the modernites who gather at Gresham how it used to be done.

MANY INVITATIONS SENT

To prove that there is no lack of interest in the Gresham fair management, headed by D. C. Freeman of the associated industries and H. W. Snaahall, superintendent of amusements, have been at work preparing invitations to the local melody makers of fiddle and bow who will make a day of it. All who can be located will be welcomed.

A dinner will be served to the old-timers; then there will be a period for the exchange of reminiscences. Later there will be a musical tournament. The participants especially invited are those whose ages, as reckoned are from 70 to 100 and upwards, but whose hearts remain at 21.

LETTERS TO BE OFFERED

Letters explaining about the gathering are being sent to every old-timer who is known to be in the neighborhood. Now stands at about a dozen—it is urged to prepare to "shake a leg" on the date which will be announced later. Besides the entertainment for the visitors there will be a series of prizes for the most agile fiddlers, and not only the playing of all of the nearly forgotten tunes, but the singing and "stepping off" the jig will begin in a few days. The required assurances of custom and advance payments have all been arranged.

LETTERS

The grocery and confectionery on Ninety-second street near the corner of Woodstock avenue, formerly operated by F. P. Coulier, has been purchased by B. L. Clark formerly of Moscow, Idaho. Mrs. Clark will have charge of the confectionery end of the business.

The new sidewalks just laid on Ninety-fourth street from Sixteenth avenue to Sixty-seventh avenue are a great improvement to this district. They will enable the people of this district to go to Lents without wading in mud, as in the past.

CROOK COUNTY TO VOTE ON THE UNIT PLAN FOR SCHOOLS

First Coast Effort for Uniform System is Made; Advantages of Plan are Pointed Out.

By Robert Ostros
Prineville, Aug. 20.—Crook county voters will decide at a special election September 6, whether or not the 47 school districts of the county are to be merged, thereby providing a school district of five board members, instead of nearly 200 under the present system, and making possible the same school tax for the entire county. The movement is known in the United States as the county unit plan of education and has the endorsement of leading educators, state and national departments of education and the National Educational Association. The Crook county election will be the first introduction of the complete plan on the Pacific coast.

J. E. Myers, superintendent of Crook county schools since 1918, is promoting the county unit measure and his work in the county has developed favorable sentiment among the voters. Should the measure pass, nearly one million dollars worth of property, mostly timber lands that have never been taxed for schools, will come under the new levy. The administrative work of the schools will be placed in the hands of five board members, elected by the people who serve without pay. The board will select the county superintendent and supervise the election of teachers. Local district boards will still function in local matters. The N. E. A. endorses the county unit and has been endorsing it for a long time," said J. A. Churchill, superintendent of public instruction in Oregon. "The board of education in Washington, D. C. also endorses it and I believe that 90 per cent of the educational leadership of the nation do the same."

ADOPTED IN 20 STATES

"In 20 states where the unit plan has been adopted, but a single county has gone back to the district over system. "The county unit is democratic. Here in Crook county we have many poor districts barely able to support a teacher. Equal taxation and equal opportunity and the county unit will provide as good schools for boys and girls living in the country as for those in the city. "Actual results in other states point to economy and efficiency in school administration. Waste of money is avoided by handling funds in larger units, by simplifying the assessor's work, by buying supplies in larger quantities and by the consolidation of schools. A uniform length of school term and better teachers are assured. Moreover the unit plan tends to eliminate dissension over district boundary lines and petty neighborhood differences."

BOARD NAMES SUPERINTENDENT

"The superintendent who promotes the county unit may find himself out of a job, because his election is placed in the board's hands. The board may even suspend the county to obtain the type of superintendent wanted."

Other counties in Oregon known to favor the county unit are Sherman, Polk, Tillamook and Washington. States having strong county unit organizations are Alabama, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, New Mexico, North Carolina, Tennessee and Utah. "The board of education in Washington, D. C. also endorses it and I believe that 90 per cent of the educational leadership of the nation do the same."

Commerce Building At O. A. C. Will Be Ready in January

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Aug. 20.—The new commerce building under construction on the campus will be ready for occupancy early in January, it is believed, in spite of a short suspension resulting from inability to secure facing brick. This brick has now been received and work is again under way. The contractor expects to have all exterior work—walls and roof—completed before the fall rains come on. No delay will be experienced in occupying the building following its completion. The office and laboratory equipment of the school of commerce will simply be transferred from the agricultural building where it is now in use. The removal of this equipment will permit needed expansion in office, laboratory and recitation rooms by the school of agriculture.

ALL DAY MEETING HELD

Donald, Or., Aug. 20.—The Sunday school of the Methodist church held an all day meeting and basket dinner last Sunday at Egan's park.

ACCURACY TESTERS

Mr. I. M. Walker,
Behnke-Walker Business College,
Portland, Oregon.

Dear Mr. Walker:

This letter confirms my telegram of Tuesday in which I advised you that Miss Marian Rhoades and Miss Anabelle Wells had qualified in the Accuracy Contest held in our Portland Office on June 16.

Mr. Wallace's report does not tell us whether Miss Rhoades and Miss Wells are at the present time students in your school. Please advise us on this point. In our exam group, Walker faces the plain test of any school in the United States. Four of your students, all graduates, have now been winners.

It is needless for me to tell you, Mr. Walker, how proud we are of this record. We congratulate you, Mr. Wallace and each of these winners. When our accuracy map is returned showing four Behnke-Walker faces in Oregon it is going to look mighty good to us, and we know, it is going to look even better to you.

Will you please be good enough to have Miss Rhoades and Miss Wells send me a brief biography of their training and experience, if any; also photographs which may be used in revising our map?

With very best wishes and anticipating a line from you at an early date, I am Very truly yours,
Harry C. Spence
School Department.
