

Mrs. Mallory Retains Her National Title : Casters Make Great Showing in Tournament

Beavers and Bees Divide Double Bill

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 20.—The battling Beavers from Portland came to Salt here this afternoon and broke even in the double header. Some one remarked that it must have been because two former Portlanders attempted to do the twirling. At any rate the visitors took the first contest, 10 to 5, but dropped the second 2 to 5.

Harold Johnson started on the mound in the first game for the Bees, but the Oregonians remembered how he was playing behind him so they tried to make him feel as much at home as possible. They lambasted him good while he lasted and in the fourth frame they sent him to seashore. Rudy Kallio, another former Portlander, took up the twirling burden and he was content with working just hard enough to prevent the visitors from counting more than twice after that fourth spasm.

The second engagement of the afternoon was a pitchers' battle with Plummer opposing Elmer Rieger of Salt Lake. Plummer allowed five hits in seven innings, and Kenneth Scott, who relieved him, was fouled up for one white flinger let the cellar claimants have four bingles off his delivery.

PLENTY OF HOMERS

Both Portland's runs in the second game were made on home runs, Poole putting the ball over the fence in the seventh and Rieger duplicated the trick in the following frame. Fortunate for the Bees no one was on base in either instance. Just to show how different home runs can be made, Salt Lake made two circuit drives in the fourth, one by Siglin with none on and the next by Strand with Brown on second.

Salt Lake's other two markers came in the fifth. With two out Rieger walked. Siglin doubled putting Rieger on third and when Sand singled both runners scored. Sand ended the inning by going out trying to steal.

Two more games are on the program for tomorrow afternoon.

Two Mikes Billed To Tangle in Ring At Wichita Oct. 18

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 20.—(I. N. S.)—Mike Gibson and Mike O'Dowd, rival middleweights, have been matched to meet in a 15-round bout at Wichita, Kan., October 18, for a purse of $35,000. It was rumored today by Mike Collins, manager of Gibson, that he had accepted Wichita as a profit for the club.

The bout is being backed by Kansas oil operators and promoted by M. L. Well, president of the Western Athletic club of Wichita.

BIG JESS REFEREE

Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion, will be the referee.

Carl Morris and some good heavyweight opponent will go 15 rounds on the same bill.

The bout is expected to draw heavily from all sections of the Southwest. It will be staged in the auditorium at Wichita. Gibson is to receive $20,000 and O'Dowd $15,000.

Close Race in W. L.

Two Teams Battling

By Ray Ellington
Sports Editor of the Des Moines News.
(Written for United Press.)

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 20.—Leadership in the Western league was as much in dispute today as when the season opened.

With 13 weeks of the schedule completed and only four weeks left to play, the race rested between Wichita and Omaha.

During the entire season these two teams have alternated between first and second places with a certain degree of regularity, and now Wichita is on top of the column by a narrow margin.

OMAHA CAN HIT

Omaha led in the hitting by six points, while Wichita heads the list in fielding by a 32-point margin.

Oklahoma City appears to have third place sewed up. Sioux City, however, was holding onto fourth place by an eyelash. Although the Iowa team has won a string of victories recently, it has not helped their standing a great deal, as Joplin, close to their heels for a first division berth, was also turning in wins regularly.

St. Joseph and Des Moines are tussling for sixth place, with Tulsa definitely hanging onto the cellar championship.

One World's Mark Topped By Casters

ONE world's record was broken in the opening day's program of the thirteenth annual international fly and bait casting tournament Friday, at the Sellwood park casting pool.

William Stanley, former all-around champion and hailing from the Illinois Casting club of Chicago, made a long cast of 243 feet 4 inches in the half-ounce accuracy and averaged 232.5 feet for the five tries. The former mark made in 1914 was 222 feet for an average, and Friday R. D. Heetfield, also of Chicago, broke the mark, but could not defeat his teammate. Heetfield made 222.5 feet yesterday.

YET WINS

Fred W. Kuesel, an overseas veteran, who was gassed in the World's war, and still is suffering from the effects of his army experiences, won the dry fly event Friday, and under the circumstances his performance was remarkable. His half-ounce cast from Chicago. The third Chicago man to win an event was R. S. Jeffers, who took the quarter ounce accuracy. Northwest men did not fare very well in the first day's contest, but they are expected to shine in the three events billed for today. The 5% ounce distance fly was held this morning; the accuracy fly light tackle started at 1 o'clock this afternoon, while two hours later the one half ounce accuracy bait was started. Sunday will hold the casters in action in three more events, starting at 9 o'clock in the morning.

The results follow:

One-quarter ounce accuracy—First, R. S. Jeffers, Illinois Casting club, 99.3; second, D. V. Hooper, Illinois Casting club, 98.5; third, W. W. Stoltz, Illinois Casting club, 97.5; fourth, J. A. New, Newark, N. J.; fifth, C. Lowrey, Illinois Casting club, 97.0; sixth, W. C. Lowrey, Illinois Casting club, 96.5; seventh, J. R. Kanner, Illinois Casting club, 96.0; eighth, G. G. Chait, Illinois Casting club, 95.5; ninth, John Multnomah Anglers' club, tied with 95.5.

Dry fly accuracy—First, Fred W. Kuesel, Illinois Casting club, 232.5; second, D. V. Hooper, Illinois Casting club, 222.5; third, R. S. Jeffers, Illinois Casting club, 212.5; fourth, W. W. Stoltz, Illinois Casting club, 202.5; fifth, C. J. McCarthy, Chicago Fly club, and Walter W. Chait, Illinois Casting club, tied with 99.5; sixth, Jack Herman, Multnomah Anglers' club; William Lombert, Illinois Casting club; and W. C. Lowrey, Illinois Casting club, tied with 99.5; seventh, John Freeman and Dr. Earl C. McFarland, Baltimore Casting club; and Stanley Forbes, San Francisco, tied with 99.5.

One-half ounce distance bait—First, William Stanley, Illinois Casting club, 222.5; second, D. V. Hooper, Illinois Casting club, 212.5; third, R. S. Jeffers, Illinois Casting club, 202.5; fourth, W. W. Stoltz, Illinois Casting club, 192.5; fifth, Jack Herman, Multnomah Anglers' club, 182.5; sixth, W. C. Lowrey, Illinois Casting club, 172.5; seventh, J. R. Kanner, Illinois Casting club, 162.5; eighth, G. G. Chait, Illinois Casting club, 152.5; ninth, John Multnomah Anglers' club, 142.5; tenth, C. J. McCarthy, Chicago Fly club, 132.5.

Baltimore Orioles Too Good Fans Lose Interest in Race

By Westbrook Pegler

New York, Aug. 20.—Like the famous old world's champion athletes who were so good that the public wouldn't pay to see them meet inferior ball clubs, the Baltimore Orioles of the International league, bound to win the International's pennant by at least 20 games this year, are being broken up. The Orioles are too good for their own good, so, like the Athletics of old, the stars are to be dispersed among the teams of the two big leagues for cash.

The Giants have made the first raid on the Orioles, paying a reported price of $150,000 for three players, one of whom, in several playing characteristics, strangely resembles Babe Ruth. The Babe is an alumna of the same team. Three players reported to be on their way to the polo grounds as soon as the International season closes are Jack Bentley, first baseman, left hand pitcher and home run leader of the league; Pitcher Jack Ogden, who has won 28 games and lost but four this season, with one streak of 18 consecutive victories, and Otis Lawry, an outfielder.

RUTH ONCE ORIOLE

Ruth was a southpaw pitcher for the Orioles and alternated at first base, as Bentley is doing after him. He was used on first, not because he wasn't a consistent winner in the box, but because he was too good a hitter to be warming the bench between his turns at pitching.

The same applies to Bentley. He is hitting above .400 in the International and has 20 home runs.

All three have been in the majors before but only for brief trials in 1921 that the gate receipts of the International league, even in Baltimore, have fallen so low that the Orioles are being broken up and when the element of contest disappeared the public quit paying. Dunn's only hope was to persuade the majors to take in Baltimore, but now he is said to be convinced that the city isn't a big league town.

If the Giants could use these players for the rest of the season they might have a chance to win the National league pennant.

However, New York has abandoned hope of seeing a private world's series at the polo grounds between the Giants and the Yankees this fall. The Giants must win two-thirds of their remaining 39 games and the Pirates must lose one half of theirs if the Giants are to be Pittsburgh for the pennant. New York's pace has been just 50-50 of late and there is little chance of the Pirates losing half their games. The Braves are fighting, but their cause is the same as the Giants' and a little bit more so.

So that's the National league.

"FUNNY" SITUATION

As for the Yanks, New York baseball scientists are saying they'll never win the pennant, but that Cleveland might lose it to them. The Yanks have had dissensions in the club house and ennuil on the field. Ruth and his clique have contempt for Manager Huggins and all hands play ball as individuals, not as members of a club. Maya, Shawkey and Hoyt are the Yanks' principal heroes, but Shawkey's arm has been ailing and Hoyt has not been steady. The Indians have only one regular on the club who is hitting below .300, whereas the Yanks have four hitters with figures above .300 and one at .295.

The Cleveland pitchers are going well except Denny Motts, who was injured, and Bigby, who has not been very reliable this year, but the club has been setting the pace all year and apparently the strain is telling.

The Yanks may make a raid on the remnants of the Oriole before all the best goods are gone. The Yankee owners are notorious spendthrifts when they want a player—as in the case of Ruth. Dunn of the Baltimore club has made about $100,000 developing and selling players to the majors in recent years and the figure paid by the Giants for his three brightest stars brings the total to a quarter of a million.

A. G. Hill, the English mile champion, as he was on the eve of attempting to break the world's record of 4 minutes 12.3-5 seconds. Hill pulled a tendon. His mark is 4:13 4-5 seconds.

Harvard Seeks How to Coach Varsity Crews

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Aug. 20.—(I. N. S.)—Harvard may have a new head coach in rowing when college reopens in September. The Middlesex school trustees have granted Dr. R. Heber Howe, who coached last year's freshman crew, a year's extra leave of absence on the petition of the Harvard rowing management. Howe will be connected with Harvard rowing again and almost certainly hold the post of head coach.

Howe devoted his leave last year to coaching the Harvard freshman crew and, says for a disastrous finish against Yale, did fine work. Harvard men followed closely his performance, and there appears to be little doubt that he will be the man entrusted to devise a winning Harvard system.

Harvard men have been disaffected with the way Harvard rowing has been moving the past few years. The only crew of the Crimson seemed able to beat at all was Yale and then only infrequently. Jim Wray, after making six successive races, lost twice in succession to the Elis and found himself out of a job. Robert Herrick, a graduate, succeeded him and, working with William Haines, a professional, managed to bring back some of the Harvard prestige in 1918.

HARVARD BEAT CORNELL

Wray's charges of being interfered with were never taken seriously, although there were many who believe the Australian would have done as well as the present regime had he been retained.

With the combination of Herrick and Haines working, the opening of the season in 1918 was none too promising. After early reverses and at a time when there were rumblings of dissatisfaction the pair developed a crew that not only beat Cornell—a big achievement for any crew, with "B. Courtney" on the job—but registered 20 minutes 20 seconds, a record for the New London course.

Haines was given equal credit with Herrick, he was made head coach during the war year of 1918, when Harvard and Yale rowed informally at Derby, and retained the position when the sport returned to normal in 1919 and the four-mile race was rowed again for the first time since 1918. He lost in 1919 to a crew coached by Dr. Abbott, and on the return of Nicolls the following season he brought the Crimson out to the fore. The past season Yale, under the eleventh hour coach appointee, J. James Cordeery, again swept regally by the Harvard crew for a narrow victory.

FOUR SHOWING

But fault most of all has been found with the showing made by the Haines coached crews against other colleges and over a short distance. So bad a record did this year's Harvard crew make that one of the graduates, mindful also of Yale's dismal showing, remarked that "it looked as if Harvard and Yale were meeting to determine which was the rottenest crew in the country."

In 1919 Harvard lost to Annapolis in an early race, but defeated Princeton. The defeat by Yale was the only other race of the season. In 1920 the subsequent world champion Annapolis eight was again victor in a dual race over the mile and seven-eighths course on the Severn. Princeton was first in a tripartite race on the Charles over the same distance, while Harvard had the doubtful satisfaction of beating out Pennsylvania for second place. Cornell proved an easy victory for the Crimson and Yale a close race.

WON BUT ONE VARSITY RACE

The climax, however, came this year, when only one varsity race was won, and that of minor importance. In a triangular race in May on Lake Carnegie behind Princeton and Annapolis, who had a battle all through the two-mile distance, Massachusetts Institute of Technology was beaten, but Cornell came to town and won handsily, to cast a gloom over the whole race.

TRISTRAM SPEAKER, manager of the World's Champion Cleveland Indians, deserves a world of credit for the manner in which he has built and operated his ball club. He is a manager who gets 100 per cent out of every player on his team. He knows how to handle men.

These are the reasons why Cleveland's Championship above the rank and file of second division teams soon after Speaker took hold of them. And for the same reasons the 1921 Indians have been setting the pace in the American league ever since the season opened.

TWO-TEAM RACE

Prior to the beginning of the pennant race it was apparent to the "talent" that the Indians and the New York Yankees were destined to be very much in the spotlight. They have made the race a two-team affair almost from the beginning, and they are slated to fight it out to the end and nail right down to the last gasp of the season, according to present indications.

In such a fight for the pennant sustained winning power and morale are going to count heavily. In this respect the Indians have it on the Yanks. Miller Huggins' team bristles with

Another Contest May Be Scheduled For Jack Dempsey

By Damon Runyon

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 20.—"Home again," said Jack Dempsey, as he bounded up the steps of the porch to Mrs. Barrett's house at Airport Friday.

Then the heavyweight champion of the world took a quick survey of the premises, where he trained for his battle with Georges Carpentier. "Looks natural," he commented. "And, of course, it needs the dog lying on the porch and Bull Montana, Larry Williams, Alex Trambatis and Jack Renault and the rest of the boys to complete the picture."

"This was a great place to train," he continued. "As a rule, I got to hate a training camp after I've been cooped up in its several weeks, and never want to see it again; but Airport is different. I had a good time here."

JOE THERE, TOO

Then he dropped a remark that may be a hint of the plans he and Jack Kearns, his manager, have afoot for his immediate future.

"We must start here," he said, turning to Joe Benjamin, the California lightweight, who accompanied him, and Joe nodded.

It is believed that Dempsey came to Atlantic City to begin a form of light training, indicating that Kearns has some immediate activity in view for him. It may be the Williams match, which, despite the hostility of the New York boxing commission, has probably not been dropped by Tex Rickard.

Dempsey went out to Airport to pay his respects to Mrs. Barrett, who was his trainer during his training. Manager Edward Barber of Atlantic City, Benjamin and Joe Bannon, who was the official timekeeper of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, were with him.

Forest Hills, L. I., Aug. 20.—Mrs. Mollie B. Mallory retained the national women's singles championship here today when she defeated Miss Mary K. Browne of San Francisco, Cal., 6-4, 6-4 and 6-2 in the hardest fought and most interesting matches that was ever played in the final for the title.

A colorful and enthusiastic crowd of 8000 people saw the little California player go down 10 sets after a game tie against the harder smashing and sturdier title holder.

Miss Browne and Mrs. M. Williams of California won the national doubles championship here this afternoon by defeating Miss Helen Gillean and Mrs. L. G. Morris of New York, 6-3, 6-2, in the final round.

SOME RUN MAKER

Philip Meade of the Hampshire (Eng.) eleven is the sensation of the cricket season in England. July 12 he accomplished the unprecedented feat of scoring 2000 runs for the season. He made his first 1000 by June 25 and scored his second 1000 in 10 innings in the short space of 20 days, including seven centuries. Mead is a left handed batsman.

CLAIMANTS OF JUNIOR TITLE

The North Portland Juniors, with a record of 13 wins in 14 games, are announcing themselves 1921 junior champs of Portland. Manager "Chuck" Walker has arranged a baseball game for his athletes to take place on the Twenty-fourth and Raleigh streets grounds this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The Vancouver Juniors will form the opposition. Reading from left to right, back row, "Chuck" Walker, manager; Leonard Newman, Perry Majors, "Hank" Arnet, Bob Cruz. Front row, left to right, Lauren Harris, Walter ("Red") Brown, Olive Benson, "Hoop" Noonan and Johnny Cunningham. "Bub" McCormick, Jack Henshaw and Joe McCormick were absent when the picture was taken.

Babe Ruth Didn't Do So Well on Friday

Chicago, Aug. 20.—In four times at bat Friday, Babe Ruth made a double and a triple score, a run and twice drove Peckinpaugh over the plate, therefore figuring in the scoring of three of the Yanks' nine runs. The White Sox, however, got 20 hits and won, 12 to 3.

Ruth got a walk in the first, with two down and none on, but died on base. His double in the third came with one out and Peck on third. Babe didn't score. Peck was on third again in the fifth and there were none out when Babe got his triple. Baker's double scored Ruth. In the seventh Babe fanned, with one out and nobody on. He fanned out in the ninth, with a man on second and nobody out.

University of California football eleven has nine veterans for this year's games. Majors and Spritt have graduated.

Foreign Billiard Players Are Coming

New York, Aug. 20.—(I. N. S.)—Edw. Rudolph of Amsterdam, European amateur 18.2 balkline billiard champion, and M. Boe, a young Dutch player, will invade the United States next winter to play for the International title, according to a cablegram received here today by the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. The International matches will be played about the first of February and the invading players will meet the winner and runner-up in the national tournament to be staged several weeks before the international commences.

OPEN TO CHALLENGERS

R. B. Benjamin, manager of William F. Hoppe, balking billiard champion, announces that the greatest exponent of this style of billiards will defend his titles at 18.1, 18.3 and 18.1 against any player who desires to challenge.

Piedmont	3 3 .500
Mail Carriers	2 3 .400
Old Women's & Knitters	2 3 .400
Crown Crest	1 3 .250

VAUGHN street grounds will be the battle ground for four teams in the Interstate Baseball association this afternoon. There are two games on tap there, the first starting promptly at 1 p. m. between the Legion Vets and the Montavilla club. Coach Lowry of the Vets has worked incessantly trying to start a winning combination, but so far has been unable to do so. Drake has pitched some good games, but several times luck was against him and his work went for naught.

Montavilla, while it may not be the best club in town, is up on its toes and fighting all the time. Manager Jessup has mixed a few old hands with young ones and they are prone to falter in his satisfaction. Jessup figures that his club is due to win today, but Coach Lowry sees it another way.

NICOLAI TO PLAY

The second game at Vaughn street, scheduled for 2 p. m., will see Nicolai Door clinching with Portland Woolen Mills club. Nicolai Door slumped for a time, due to losing several of its best players, but all of them have now returned and Manager Footman will use his strongest lineup of the season in the game today. In confronting the Woolen Mills, Nicolai Door is taking on one of the finest clubs in the state. The Woolen Mills lost last Sunday to the Standard Oil club in a close game, but if these two clubs were to meet again a different glory might result. Manager Footman has "knitters" on their toes all the time and fans traveling out to the park today will witness one of the best semi-pro classics of the season. Footman will use the same battery that placed the Woolen Mills on the baseball map, Larson and Golden. Kewpie Clow, or Blades, will twirl for Nicolai Door.

WANT TWO STRAIGHT

Woodlawn and South Parkway meet at Crystal Lake park at 2:30 p. m. to settle their differences. The Parkway boys are determined to down Woodlawn and make it two straight for the season. Lefty Schwartz or Swardwick will hurl for Parkway while Woodlawn will use Korhonen and Sheasley for the battery.

The rest of the schedule for today in the Interstate Baseball association is: Standard Oil at St. Helens; Brooklyn vs. Anchor Council, Buckman Field, 3 p. m.; Cubs vs. Mail Carriers, Buckman Field, 3 p. m.

President William R. Smyth of the Interstate Baseball association has given out the schedule for the balance of the 1921 season. Several switches were forced to be made on account of the dropping of clubs.

SUNDAY, AUGUST 28

Coin Machine vs. Nicolai Door, at Sellwood, 3 p. m.
Woolen Mills vs. Veteran, at Columbia, 3 p. m.
Standard Oil vs. Woodlawn, at Vaughn street, 3:30 p. m.
