

BLOODSTAINS SHED LIGHT ON KILLING

Pendleton, Aug. 25.—Stains that may be blood found on the horse and saddle used by Louis Ragains the night he was shot, tend to strengthen the belief of Umatilla county officers that there is something yet untold regarding the killing of the Pilot Rock cowboy by Jesse Brunn last Sunday morning.

Apparently an effort had been made to wash out the stains. These discoveries were made by Deputy District Attorney Randall and Deputy Sheriff Ridgway who spent Tuesday and Wednesday at the scene of the shooting on McKay creek, 40 miles southeast of Pendleton.

On the other hand, the discovery of a bullet hole in the wall of the cabin where, according to Brunn and his companions, the shooting took place, may strengthen Brunn's side of the case. Brunn claims he shot in self defense. Measurements of the situation of the bullet hole with regard to the position of Ragains' body when found were taken. Officers are said to be working on the theory that Ragains was killed some distance from the cabin and the story of the shooting connected between the men.

The town of Pilot Rock, where Ragains was well known, is considerably stirred over the shooting and sympathy seems to be with Ragains.

SUBPENAS ISSUED

Coroner Brown will continue his inquest Friday morning. Subpenas have been issued for Jim Roach, who is said to have ridden away from the cabin with Ragains after the shooting in the afternoon, Frank and Joe Cunha, well known stockmen, who are reported to have been at the cabin during the day or evening preceding the killing, and one or two other residents of that section.

Father Uses Fists In Effort to Get His Son Out of Jail

A wild attack on the ranking police official in the captain's office at the police headquarters was a result of the visit of George T. Austed's father to Captain C. A. Inskip Wednesday night.

Austed's son, George Austed, was arrested Wednesday on a complaint filed by George O'Keefe charging the theft of a boat. George Austed was jailed, not being able to furnish $100 bail. Soon after the arrest Austed, the father, telephoned to police headquarters and demanded of Captain Inskip that his son be released. The captain informed the elder Austed that his son could be released if bail were furnished or if the complaint were withdrawn.

The explanation did not satisfy Austed, the elder. He soon appeared in person at the station. Captain Inskip again told him that his son could not be released. Austed became excited, telling the official that his son must be released immediately. When Captain Inskip orders him out of the office, Austed charged upon him with fists flying.

Desk officers Wendorf, Drapeau and Reno rushed to the rescue. The captain, however, despite his surprise, remained in control of the situation. Austed calmed down and was allowed to leave. Inskip will not file charges.

Hospital physicians stated that Wilson had been dead for probably half an hour when his body reached the hospital here. Congestion of the brain was given as the cause of death. Wilson is survived by his wife and child at Falls City.

Car Sale Confuses Names of Victims In Highway Wreck

Through an odd coincidence names of the victims of an automobile accident on the lower Columbia river highway at Svenson Sunday evening, were reported wrongly in a news story. The real victims of the wreck were Mr. and Mrs. William D. Myers of Vancouver, Wash., and Mrs. Myers is at St. Vincent's hospital suffering from injuries, complained as the result. First word of the accident contained only the name of the automobile which had been crowded from the bridge by a car driven by a woman and the Oregon license number which it bore. This license, according to the records, was issued to William Beyer, resident of a suburb of Portland. Myers, who is head of the Portland Gas & Coke company branch office in Vancouver, purchased the car a few weeks ago and had not secured a Washington license for it.

The subtle influence of slapstick motion picture comedies and 18-episode film serials seems to be strong in the neighborhood of 225 Eleventh street. Mrs. M. Scott effected a thrilling and masterful rescue by way of a window. On investigation the patrolman found that the incident was but a single maneuver in a many-sided neighborhood feud.

7 A.M. Put to soak 9 A.M. Rinse

"Now I just put the clothes to soak before breakfast and rinse them out when the dishes are done —"

THIS is what one experienced housewife writes about doing her regular weekly wash with the marvelous new soap product, Rinso. Until recently she always made an all-day job of washing, rubbing her clothes for hours to get the dirt out. Now that she soaks them clean she says Rinso actually saves about five hours of work each washday.

Hundreds of thousands of women are finding that Rinso takes all the hardest work out of washday. Some of them put the clothes to soak the night before and rinse them out in the morning. Others find it easier to soak for a few hours during the day. All of them say they don't have to rub any but the most soiled spots and those only lightly. Rinso loosens every particle of dirt from even the heaviest pieces without injuring a single fabric.

Don't rub your youth away. Get a package of Rinso today from your grocer or any department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.
