WHISTLER, James Abbott McNeill, brilliant Anglo-American painter, etcher and author, was born at Lowell, Mass., on July 11, 1834. Educated at West Point Academy. Studied art in Paris and settled in London, England, where he became president of the British Society of Artists, and held exhibitions of his pictures. Had genius and gifts of high order in the Impressionist School, and attained eminence as an etcher and colorist. Died July 17, 1903. The mirror frames on this bedroom suite are characteristic and similar to Whistler's framing of his original masterpieces.
