FUR will fly in the Portland boxing commission benefit smoker to be staged tonight in the Heilig theatre. The first bout of the 10 billed will start promptly att 8:30 p. m.

The bouts will be of four-round duration, and the boys will receive instructions to battle from gong to gong. The boys are evenly matched, and indications are that the bouts will be well worth

BIG HOUSE EXPECTED

A capacity house is expected to witness the event to aid the Portland com mission to clear up its indebtedness, most of which was caused by the failure of Champion Benny Leonard to go through with a scheduled bout during the Shriner onvention in 1920.

One of the best bouts of the card is the Stanley Willis-Bobby Harper affair. Willis has been itching for a chance against Harper. This will be his first bout against a boxer of his own weight, Abe Mishkind, the Salt Laker, will be pitted against Archie Stoy of Aberdeen. This should be a good bout. Jockey Bennett, who came out of retirement to aid the commission, will be pitted against Able Gordon. The Burns-Simmerman contest should be another worth while

GRUMAN TO REFEREE

The other bouts on the program are: Joe Gorman vs. Muff Bronson, Frankie Murphy vs. Clair Bromeo, Johnny Trambitas vs. Freddie Lough, Joe Dunn vs. Johnny Fugate, Charley Helman vs. Bud

The tenth bout will be announced at the ringside. Baby Blue, colored featherweight, was scheduled to tangle with Eddie Gorman, but this bout was called off because of Gorman's weight. Young Sam Langford, who is billed to battle at Milwaukie next Wednesday night, is willing to tangle with Gorman, but Eddie does not want to tackle Langford, who is practically in the same weight class.
Ralph Gruman will officiate as referee in a majority of the bouts.
