By Hyman H. Cohen It begins to look as if the consumer must hurry in order to secure cucumbers for pickling at a proper price. While confirmation is not generally available, reports indicate that much damage has been done the cucumber crop by recent cold mornings and in some sections the output will be nominal.

Real huckleberries, probably the first genuine stock the local market has shown for some time, has arrived here from near the last growth of vegetation on Mount Hood. These huckleherries are about as large as a small cherry as well as sound. They are selling around 25 cents a pound in the retail shops as compared with 171/2 cents for the little stock that is usually sold as the huckleberry.

New crop flour is being offered to the local trade with the price exactly the same generally Values here were off 500 conerally Thursday at as the old crop product. Here and there some of the smaller millers are reporting shading new a crop 10 to 15c a barrel from old crop values, but this is a general condition among some institutions.

Unusual values are ruling in the wheat market because of changing world's conditions. Germany and Italy are said to be rather eagerly seeking hard red wheat and are willing to pay a premium over the hard white, a condition most unusual for this market so far as export business is concerned.

Considerable wheat was purchased at interior back to $12.75. Thursday the market here dropped tack to $12 for extreme tops. Later the general Pittsburg—20 cars on track, including broken.

> Officials of the Emergency Fleet corporation are just as anxious to build up chants of the west coast, but they are handicapped by lack of ships and funds, according to a message received today by H. B. Van Duzer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, from W. J. Love, vice president of the corporation in charge of operations.

Love expresses his appreciation that ferring all of the business of this port to the Columbia-Pacific company has been so satisfactory to the chamber. He says:
"In the future we will rely upon all trade bodies and merchants putting
