

WAREHOUSE TO BE USED BY CLATSOP COUNTY FOR FAIR

Immense Astoria Terminal Building to House Exhibits; Several Features Are Planned.

Astoria, Sept. 17.—The Clatsop County fair, which will open Monday in the great warehouse on Pier 3 of the Port of Astoria terminals, can lay claim to being unique among the long line of previous exhibitions in this county. Besides the usual stock and agricultural exhibits, the fair board this year has arranged for a number of features which, it believes, should find place in the three-day exhibit.

A style show, in which the merchants of Astoria will exhibit their fall goods upon living models, has been planned as one of the main attractions, while city merchants for the first time in the history of Clatsop county fairs have arranged to participate by display of their merchandise in connection with the exhibition of stock and product. A total of 110 booths has been arranged for by Astoria commercial firms.

The pier in which the fair is to be held is particularly adaptable to use for such purpose as that to which it will be put. It is light and of such enormous proportions as to insure adequate ventilation. The floors are of asphaltic pavement, making for cleanliness in connection with the stock exhibits, and the area of the rooms to be used for the fair are so immense as to permit of displays and arrangements hitherto impossible in any structure in Astoria.

Monday will be school day at the fair and the school children of the entire county will be dismissed for the day in order to attend the exhibit.

Special interest in Astoria is centered upon the dairy stock and poultry shows, which give promise of surpassing those of former years, due to the increased interest in this locality in blooded fowls and stock.

Authority Is Given To Build Crossing Under S. P. Tracks

Salem, Sept. 17.—Through authority granted in an order by the public service commission today the state highway commission will construct an undercrossing on the Pacific highway under the tracks of the Southern Pacific railroad, approximately three miles north of Albany. The improvement involves a change in the channel of Murder creek, and the entire cost of construction is estimated at a minimum of $21,000, which will be borne 40 per cent by the railroad company, 30 per cent by the state and 30 per cent by Linn county.

Another order issued by the commission today denies a petition from the citizens of Reith, Or., for a new station and additional agent, but orders the removal of the old station to a point more convenient to the patrons of that shipping point.

BABIES JOIN JOURNAL THRIFT CAMPAIGN

The 58 little guests of the Albertina Kerr Nursery Home at East Twenty-second and Sandy boulevards were given savings deposits in the Lumbermen Trust Company bank last week and are regular members of The Journal Thrift family. Above—Group of contented kiddies. Center—The Albertina Kerr home, opened in June. Below—One of the happiest members of the Thrift family.

J. M. Brown, Folk county rancher, was indicted on a charge of assault with intent to kill in connection with his attack on Arthur Lewis, prohibition enforcement officer, in a raid on the night of September 7. Richard Burton and Hammond Bennett were indicted on statutory charges, 14-year-old girls being mentioned in both indictments. Antonio Martin was indicted on a larceny charge, and a true bill charging H. M. Terman with forgery was returned by the jury.

BABIES OF KERR HOME ARE GIVEN A START IN LIFE

President Smith of Lumbermen Trust Aids The Journal in Opening Deposits.

Since the opening of the Albertina Kerr nursery home at East Twenty-second street and Sandy boulevard in June more than 100 babies have partaken of the hospitality of the establishment. There are now 58 guests at the home, ranging in age from birth to 3 years, and they like the place so well that something unusual in the way of home comfort and family ties must be presented to induce them to leave.

The nursery was primarily intended for children of unmarried mothers, those who have been deserted by their parents and those who are orphaned, but the need of a home is the only essential qualification for admission and the democracy of babyhood draws no distinction as to the nature of the need. The majority of the babies coming to the nursery during the past few months have been boys, according to Mrs. Bell Badley, superintendent of the home, though there are many perfectly charming young ladies as well among the guests.

One of the chief donors of the nursery was Alexander H. Kerr, who gave the half block of ground on which the handsome structure stands and, with Mrs. Kerr, furnished several of the rooms. There are many other donors of furnishings and equipment among citizens of Portland and other Oregon towns and much of the equipment was given by various civic organizations. There are large well lighted play rooms and sun porches and the dormitories are a delight for lovers of tiny tots.

The building is a two and a half story brick structure with an abundance of window space. It was especially designed for a baby paradise and is one of the best equipped nurseries in the country. There are accommodations for 90 babies at the home and at the present rate of increase in applicants for admission additional wards will be required in less than a year, according to Mrs. R. E. Bondurant, president of the board of directors of the institution.

Not all of the babies at the Albertina Kerr home are subject to adoption, many of them being supported by their parents or by mothers who are obliged to work during the day but do not wish to be separated from their children. The Journal Thrift campaign, however, has adopted all the babies at the Kerr nursery and each one of the tiny tots has been given an initial deposit in a savings account in the Lumbermen's Trust company bank. Robert E. Smith, president of the bank, promised special cooperation with The Journal in the interest of the baby depositors and the arrangement has met with the approval of the board of directors of the Kerr nursery.

The plan of The Journal's campaign insures an extra reward for consistent saving. All that is necessary to start an account is to cut out the attached coupon and deliver it, together with a receipt or label showing that you are a subscriber to The Journal or a member of a family which subscribes to that paper and an initial deposit of at least 50 cents, to the savings department of the Lumbermen Trust company bank at Broadway and Oak streets.

If you make additional deposits (of any amount) every week during the six months immediately following the opening of your account, the bank will credit you with $1 on your account; or if you make deposits every month during the first six months your account will be credited with a reward of 75 cents; or if you make three deposits during the six months' period you will receive a credit of 50 cents.

Victim of Drowning Resided Near Dallas

Dallas, Or., Sept. 17.—Word has been received here that the last of the three boys drowned August 30 at Pomeroy, Wash., when a boat in which five young men were attempting to cross the Snake river at Lewiston, Idaho, capsized, had been identified as Arthur Susee, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Susee, who live on a farm three miles west of this city. Young Susee, who had been working at Silverton, left that city in July in company of Ed Krustag of Woodburn, on a farm three miles west of this city and the two lads worked during the harvest season in Canada. They were seeking employment in Idaho when the fatal accident occurred. Krustag was one of the lads drowned.

M. L. GAROUILLE DIES
Brownsville, Or., Sept. 17.—M. L. Garouille, 74, who had resided in this city continuously for considerably more than a quarter of a century, died at his home here Thursday afternoon. Mr. Garouille was an Odd Fellow. His wife, Mrs. Mary Garouille of Portland; Mrs. Hatie Kirk of Brownsville, a daughter, and Fred Garouille of Idaho and Ed Garouille of Portland, sons, survive.

State Without Part In Warehouse Suit

Salem, Sept. 17.—An individual entitled to damages under the provisions of the state act regulating public warehouses may bring action to recover the same without joining the state as plaintiff, according to an opinion written by Attorney General VanWinkle for the public service commission. The bond required to be executed to the state by the operator of such warehouse, the opinion points out, is so executed for convenience only. The opinion further holds that the commission does not have authority to waive the furnishing of such a bond by a warehouse man on account of the fact that a bond is required of him by the United States.

A suggestion to the younger executives—

you men who have come to realize the tremendous power for success that lies purely in one's personality and appearance. (I'm not now discounting the importance of ability and knowledge.)

Those under you and about you, except your intimate friends, must judge you by what the eye sees. Are you satisfied that your bearing and dress adequately reflect the man within?

Do you ever envy the obvious authority and the quiet power of the man who not only is and feels fit but who LOOKS fit? Do you ever experience, or wish you might, the poise and confidence, the unhurried efficiency that comes with the FEELING that you are perfectly groomed?

Yet your sense of the fitness of things balks a bit at the idea of investing in a tailored suit for every day office use to the tune of $75.00 or $100.00.

Special offer: I will make to your order and measure, in any style you choose, with any modifications you wish, a hard finish worsted suit, silk sewed, well lined, all hand made and custom tailored, suitable for all year round wear, in any shade, weave or pattern you may select from my immense stock of late fall patterns.

And the price? Only $40

I positively Guarantee

- 1—All pure wool in every suit.
- 2—An unbreakable coat front for the life of the suit.
- 3—Perfect fit and style that will please yourself, your wife or sweetheart.
- 4—Delivery on the day you specify—in less time, if necessary, than you can get a ready-made altered.
- 5—Thorough satisfaction in every detail.

Permanency

So deeply ingrained is the constructive instinct in human nature, that it can be regarded as one of the great driving wheels of civilization.

The child with its toys clumsily tries to build—what it knows not. But driven on by this constant impulse it piles block on block into grotesque groups. Boys with their tree houses, caves and camps follow the same impulse.

So into manhood and through maturity the great mass of us, each in his way strives to build something, little or great—an edifice of material or of service—a thing worth while.

We, too, have built. It is a beautiful home for sleeping ones. Flowers adorn it. Lawns surround it. Rugged walls of stone and steel protect the resting places of the sacred dead in these wonderful Vault Entombment Buildings. They offer the highest form of respect for those who sleep—and are Built to Endure!

There are great differences between Vault Entombment, Interment and Cremation. Our booklet, sent free on request, explains them.
