Allen Fishing Licenses—Allens in various sections of the state are forgetting state law demands that they have an alien license, said Captain A. E. Burghdoff, state game warden, who received a report of the arrest of Peter Zirf of Tillamook who was fined $25 for this offense. Burghdoff reports a number of similar arrests in the last month. A report was also filed on the arrest of F. R. and F. V. Marshall of Harney county for having beaver pelts in their possession. They were each fined $25.

Adaptive Stunts Planned—A big galaxy of organized athletes will be staged at Arleta school some time next month, according to Principal T. E. Speira. Speira and Robert Krohn, director of physical training, are now arranging for the event in which the entire 24 rooms will participate and which will be an exhibition of organized games on the five acre playground at the school. Enrollment at Arleta has reached 915, the largest ever known.

Fined for Bootlegging—I. Perry pleaded guilty in federal court Thursday to the manufacture of synthetic gin and was fined $200, with 30 days in jail to pay it. Perry was arrested last May, following a raid by federal prohibition officers on his place, resulting in confiscating more than 15 to 24 bottles of finished product. Assistant United States Attorney Maguire handled the prosecution.

Wife's Tip Acted On—"My husband goes to a real estate office when he wants to get drunk," complained a woman's voice over the telephone to the desk sergeant at police headquarters. "They aren't selling any land there at present," the sergeant replied, and as a result J. Quinn, with offices in the Henry building, was arrested Thursday afternoon on a charge of violating the prohibition ordinance. He was released on $250 bail.

New S. P. Rates on Fruits, Vegetables In Effect October 3

Southern Pacific company rates on vegetables and melons from California and Oregon points to Chicago, Mississippi river and points west will be reduced October 3.

The rates on beets, cabbage, carrots, onions, parsnips, potatoes, onion sets and turnips, in carloads, to Chicago, Mississippi river points west have been reduced, according to J. H. Mulchay, general freight agent, from $1.25 to $1.10 per 100 pounds and points west will be reduced October 3.

Rates on other vegetables, including cantaloupes and melons, to Chicago and Mississippi river, have been reduced from $1.65 to $1.45, and to the Missouri river and points west the reduction is from $1.55 to $1.35 per 100 pounds. Mulchay states that effective October 3 the eastbound rates on coconuts and vegetable oils, also copra, imported from the Orient, will be made 75 cents per 100 pounds from Pacific Coast ports to Cincinnati, Ohio, Chicago and points west.

The rate to Cincinnati will apply only on shipments forwarded via New Orleans or East St. Louis in connection with the Southern Railway or the Louisville & Nashville railroad and via New Orleans in connection with the Illinois Central railroad.

The rates on domestic vegetable, coconuts and cottonseed oil produced locally and shipped to Eastern points, will be reduced, effective November 3, to the same figures that will apply on the imported oils.
