

MAHONEY DEFENSE MAY DENY IDENTITY OF ALLEGED VICTIM

Possible Line of Defense in Seattle Murder Trial Suggested by Attorneys for Accused.

Seattle, Sept. 24.—(U. P.)—Despite the testimony so far in the case of the state vs. James E. Mahoney, charged with the murder of his aged wealthy wife, identifying the body found in a trunk floating in Lake Union as that of Mrs. Kate E. Mahoney, the defense lawyers tonight hinted that a portion of their defense would be that the body was not that of the aged woman.

Declaring that he did not believe the body was that of Mrs. Kate Mahoney, Attorney Lee Johnston today gave the first definite hint of this line of the defense. At the same time Mr. Johnston said he was not contemplating a defense of insanity.

WHAT TESTIMONY SHOWS

The testimony thus far of state's witnesses has shown:

That the hands and teeth of the woman's body were identified as those of Mrs. Kate Mahoney.

That the man who carried the trunk to be delivered to the Lake Union "dark spot" on the night of April 16, and there directed it be placed in a rowboat was James E. Mahoney, the defendant.

That the trunk containing a woman's body was taken from the lake on August 8 and was the one Mahoney had delivered to the lonely spot.

DEFENSE IS POSITIVE

Despite the positive identification of the teeth and bridge work taken from the mouth of the dead woman, made by Dr. Frank L. Wood, as work performed by him for Mrs. Mahoney, the defense attorneys contend with vigor that the state has not shown beyond reasonable doubt that the body found in the trunk was that of the alleged slain bride.

The progress of the case thus far has, perhaps, developed one of the most interesting cases of circumstantial evidence ever accumulated in the state in a similar case.

There has been much comment among court attendants in regard to the fact that the defense has made no effort to produce the woman or give any inkling as to her whereabouts. Nothing in the case so far, in court, has been said in this regard.

The case was adjourned today until Monday with the state still questioning its own witnesses.

Motorist Fined in St. Helens Court Will Appeal Case

Dr. George M. Hoffman, a Portland dentist, hopes to have a higher court pass upon the findings of Justice of the Peace Hazen of St. Helens, who fined him $25 and costs on charges of over-fast motoring along the famous Bear island straightway, Columbia county's speed trap.

So numerous have been the complaints of Portland motorists against the "pet accusers" of the Columbia county "speed cop" that Dr. Hoffman, when cited to appear before the justice of the peace, took along his attorney and although he had previously filed suit in the Multnomah county circuit court against I. L. Abbott, the speed cop, demanding $10,000 for false arrest.

But, although the doctor had himself and another witness to prove that he was traveling no faster than 25 miles an hour at any time during his journey from Seaside to Portland and although he and his witness declared they had eyed the speedometer constantly, especially when they were going through the fateful Columbia county, the court accepted Speed Officer Abbott's assertion that he had paced the Hoffman car for practically a mile at between 35 and 36 miles an hour the night of August 21.

City Prisoners Will Prepare Soil for 15,000 Rose Bushes

Prisoners in the city jail will be put to work preparing the soil for the planting of 15,000 rose bushes on Sandy boulevard, between Sixteenth and Seventy-seventh streets, according to plans announced Saturday by the Ad club. C. P. Keyser of the park bureau will have charge.

October 17 to 22 will be rose planting week along the "Roseway," and October 23 will be "ceremonial day," when various city clubs interested in the planting will honor their officers by naming rose bushes after them.

About half the territory involved in the Roseway will be taken care of by residents. Several civic clubs have received allotments of a block each, among them the Women's Ad club, the Seventy-seventh Street Community club and the Portland Rose club. The Florists' association has undertaken to improve the most unimproved section of the Roseway, a gravel hill near Fifty-third street. The Presidents' council will assist in the planting, through its various clubs. In addition, all firms doing business along Sandy boulevard are co-operating.

The official Portland rose, "Caroline Testout," will be planted, interspersed at intervals by the climbing Dorothy Perkins rose.

Dental Chair 'Jedge's' Throne Dog Fight Disturbs Dignities

Newport, Sept. 24.—Justice of the Peace Berry of Newport is having almost as much difficulty in upholding the dignity of his court as Justice of the Peace Minshal of Philomath is experiencing in attempting to make a fine for contempt of court stick in a recent case in which he penalized Arthur Clarke, former district attorney of Benton county. Clarke, according to Judge Minshal, offended by use of the term "kangaroo" in reference to the Philomath court.

Judge Berry's troubles arose in a case involving collection of a $13 account between Newport residents. His court is held in his dental office, where he spends what time he has to spare from the sea-going fishing launch Fremont, of which he is captain.

DISPUTE ON TERMS
In the case, J. Hennessy Murphy, formerly of Portland, attorney for the plaintiff, held that a summons was not a process, while B. F. Jones, attorney for the defendant, waxed sarcastic and said it was not an alligator or a wooden bedstead.

Judge Berry (Doc Berry and Captain Berry at other times) swung his operating chair around and seated himself in it, announcing that court was in session. Jones seated himself on a box of medicated cotton and Murphy seated himself on the office stove, remarking "Nobody is in jail. The jail, which has not been used since Edward Stocker used it as a butcher shop when his shop burned in 1908, has been condemned as unsafe by the state fire marshal."

Gathered about the "zero hour" banquet tables tonight were hundreds of the men who just three years ago went over the top at Verry, France, in the drive which only ended with the armistice and the collapse of the German military machine. Many talks were given recalling incidents to the men of the happenings in the fighting days in the Argonne forest where the "Wild West" division made history for the American armies.

Memorial services will be held tomorrow morning in memory of the men who gave their lives in that historic battlefield. They will be conducted by the Rev. John W. Beard of Hoquiam, state chaplain of the American Legion.

VETERANS OF 91ST DIVISION RECALL SERVICE OVERSEAS

Seattle Entertains Members of Distinguished Army Unit Organized in Pacific Northwest.

Seattle, Sept. 24.—(U. P.)—Gathered at a banquet in the Masonic club tonight, were the delegates to the reunion of the Ninety-first division. The convention met today for their second annual reunion. Many distinguished guests were present. William J. Coyte, lieutenant governor and a member of the Ninety-first, who was wounded in action, presided as toastmaster.

Other guests present were Read Almiral Hooge Weir, Major General Charles M. Muir, Colonel Pegram Whitworth, representing Secretary of War Weeks, and Clark V. Savidge, representing Governor Hart. Greetings were received by telegraph today by Jules Markov, president of the Washington association of the Ninety-first, from President Harding. General John J. Pershing, King Albert of Belgium, Charles E. Hughes, Lloyd George, lieutenant Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and many noted men from all parts of the world.

Just then Murphy's dog and Jones' dog got into a big fight outside the court and the lawyers decided to let them settle the case for them. Neither dog won, or both were whipped, just as you please.

Jones and Murphy each get $10 for their services and the justice gets his fee and the $13 case is still not cleared. Nobody is in jail. The jail, which has not been used since Edward Stocker used it as a butcher shop when his shop burned in 1908, has been condemned as unsafe by the state fire marshal.

Hearing the argument patiently, Dr. Berry announced that he was a mariner and a dentist and not a Solomon, adding that the law had too many ulcerated cavities in it to understand on a moment's notice and that the lawyers had too much wind.

Jones then suggested appealing to Attorney General Daugherty for a decision in such an important case, whereas Murphy jumped to his feet and said that no good Democrat would stand for that when Wilson and Co. were in the profession.

Bend High School Boys Again Rebel At Choice of Coach

Bend, Sept. 24.—The announcement that the school board of Bend had notified George "Ad" Dewey to come here Monday for the purpose of looking after the Bend high school football squad has caused a storm of protest. The athletes of the school have notified the board that the squad Dewey is signed up to coach the squad, every player will turn in his football suit. It is the second conflict of the 1921 season between the school board and the football aggregation.

Frank Rockwell signed a contract to become the athletic director for the school as well as an instructor of mathematics, but the boys felt that he was not capable of coaching them and they sent word to the board that another man would have to be secured. The high school boys are desirous of securing the services of Charles W. Erskine, last year's mentor, in fact, they insist that the popular local attorney be taken as the athletic director.
