

Oregon Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER... Published every week day and Sunday morning... Subscription Rates...

colleges to send delegates to a disarmament conference to be held at Princeton, October 26. There is one process by which the American people...

THOSE GOOD OLD DAYS

There was a time, when policemen were policemen, when robbers merely pushed revolvers into the faces of victims before robbing them. In those days, before policemen became politicians, it was more or less important that the professional crooks work rapidly...

But then, how can the police be expected to block the operations of the chloroformers? Don't those desks down at Second and Oak have to be manned by men it is necessary that the police building attendants keep the building as a building should be kept?

The big annual conference of the Boy Scouts of the Northwest begins sessions in Portland today. The organization is perhaps the finest boy movement ever inaugurated.

A RAILROAD STRIKE?

IN BRIEF, here is the issue between the railroad managers and railroad brotherhoods. July 1 a 12 per cent wage cut by the Railroad Labor Board went into effect. It takes $400,000,000 a year out of the pockets of the employes and puts it into the pockets of the railroads.

In addition, by a revision of a part of the working rules, the roads are given "many millions of dollars" taken from the wages of the workers, according to the statement of Ben W. Hooper of the public group of the Railroad Labor Board.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

PAINFUL SURPRISE FOR MR. HARDING

Having converted the Disarmament Conference into a "Vastly Different From Its Original Purpose," He Finds the People Demanding Results Just the Same...

From the New York World. To a Brooklyn woman who wrote to Mr. Harding asking him what he meant by "reasonable limitation on armament," the president replies that by reasonable limitation he means something practical that there is a chance to accomplish...

But, in the face of all the work to be done, all the tremendous tasks and problems with which the government is faced, and all the demand for statesmanship, here comes Senator Elkins of West Virginia, spending his time and the time of others at Washington, demanding that all Democrats be speedily ejected from government jobs and Republicans replace them.

But then, how can the police be expected to block the operations of the chloroformers? Don't those desks down at Second and Oak have to be manned by men it is necessary that the police building attendants keep the building as a building should be kept?

The big annual conference of the Boy Scouts of the Northwest begins sessions in Portland today. The organization is perhaps the finest boy movement ever inaugurated.

In addition, by a revision of a part of the working rules, the roads are given "many millions of dollars" taken from the wages of the workers, according to the statement of Ben W. Hooper of the public group of the Railroad Labor Board.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

Through protesting, the brotherhoods accepted the 12 per cent cut and continued work. They declared at the time that if they accepted that cut peacefully, the managers would demand a further wage reduction.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

"BE IT REPEALED." Wilder, Idaho, Oct. 10.—To the Editor of the Journal.—As I read your column headed "More or Less Personal," I was surprised to find that you had printed the letter of a man who writes "BE IT REPEALED."

"Dug" Holton of Warren, Idaho, is a great of the Perkins. "I am in the mining game," said Mr. Holton. "I like to get back to Oregon for it is my birthplace. My father, Dr. D. S. Holton, came to Oregon in 1852. He went from Portland to the Jacksonville mines in 1852. In 1855 and 1858 he served as a surveyor in the national forest, has also served in the Civil War as a surgeon and was stationed at Boise in 1863.

But disagree with The Journal as to the other historic matter. "Susana" Oct. 10.—To the Editor of the Journal.—I have read since the thanks for the editorials on Truman H. Newberry and those who are diligently working for his re-election. You have laid out a fine program for a period of five years or more. Five years could have been better spent in regard to the Pacific and the Far East, and it is safe to predict that at the end of five years, the people who are concerned would have permitted its government to resume the race for sea supremacy. Competitive armament would have been abandoned. The navy, and something very practical would have been accomplished.

Had Mr. Harding adopted the Borah plan the country's expectations would have been high. Had he adopted the Borah plan, having dragged everything into the conference that could be dragged in, including his mythical association of nations, the president is now in a position to take his responsibility to hold him to a strict responsibility.

OCTOBER

From the Spokane Spokesman Review. October is a fine month almost anywhere, but residents of the Inland Empire of the Pacific Northwest have more than a little justification for believing that their October is the best of months. It is a splendidly even-tempered month, a month of a climate that habitually does things in moderation.

The fineness of our autumns we owe largely to the startling richness of their color effects. Lacking that, the fall brings to countries where the sun predominates, there is still a warmth of color that harmonizes exactly with the warmth of the sunny days. The fields are a mass of golden yellow, the corn is a rich bronze, made doubly rich by contrast with the somber verdancy of the evergreens.

But our October stimulates more than the vision. The air is bracing, the sun is bright, it is dry and tingling, with an inimitable bouquet. It makes outdoor life a pleasure, and it is a perpetual temptation, restful sleep a matter of course. Doubtless nature might have provided a more exhilarating atmosphere, but doubtless nature never did.

Neither is our autumn at its best a brief and hazy season. It comes and it stays for weeks of golden comfort. The sun is bright, the air is dry, the sun is bright, the air is dry, the sun is bright, the air is dry.

An even more valuable contribution to the convenience of the city is the fact that since the advent of the Community Chest the daily and weekly drives for promiscuous purposes have been abandoned in favor of the concerted, united method of securing funds. Tag days, once a frequent irritant, have become little more than a memory.

From all the beneficiary organizations in return have come testimonials that they have been well and satisfactorily served. Of $588,394, net, in pledges, $394,737 has been collected, $283,434 has been paid to beneficiaries, $74,591 is the balance in bank and $194,658 is the amount yet to be collected.

Portland never had before such accounting or such accountability in connection with its contributions to charity. The Community Chest is justifying itself.

CANT GET BY ALWAYS. From the Terra Haute Star. The intent may function as a tax exemption for a number of years, but the government will take it out of him when he grows up.

ALL THAT GOES UP STAYS UP. From the Washington Post. No new houses have come up because gasoline did.

COMMENT AND NEWS IN BRIEF

SMALL CHANGE. Poverty absolute, when there's not enough money to buy gas for the final kick-off.

SIDE LIGHTS. A man who is hen-pecked tries to console his wife by telling her that he is the only man in the world who is hen-pecked.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL. "Dug" Holton of Warren, Idaho, is a great of the Perkins. "I am in the mining game," said Mr. Holton. "I like to get back to Oregon for it is my birthplace.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS ABOUT TOWN. "Dug" Holton of Warren, Idaho, is a great of the Perkins. "I am in the mining game," said Mr. Holton. "I like to get back to Oregon for it is my birthplace.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS ABOUT TOWN. "Dug" Holton of Warren, Idaho, is a great of the Perkins. "I am in the mining game," said Mr. Holton. "I like to get back to Oregon for it is my birthplace.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS ABOUT TOWN. "Dug" Holton of Warren, Idaho, is a great of the Perkins. "I am in the mining game," said Mr. Holton. "I like to get back to Oregon for it is my birthplace.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS ABOUT TOWN. "Dug" Holton of Warren, Idaho, is a great of the Perkins. "I am in the mining game," said Mr. Holton. "I like to get back to Oregon for it is my birthplace.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS ABOUT TOWN. "Dug" Holton of Warren, Idaho, is a great of the Perkins. "I am in the mining game," said Mr. Holton. "I like to get back to Oregon for it is my birthplace.

RANDOM OBSERVATIONS ABOUT TOWN. "Dug" Holton of Warren, Idaho, is a great of the Perkins. "I am in the mining game," said Mr. Holton. "I like to get back to Oregon for it is my birthplace.

THE OREGON COUNTRY

It costs $150 a year for each student in the Hubbard high school. Announcement from Washington tells of the appointment of Peter Cook as postmaster at Spokane.

Three-shill production at the Brooks-Scanlon mill at Bend, suspended a year ago as the result of market depression, was resumed by the company.

Sealed bids will be received by the state treasurer at Portland for $124,825 of Oregon district interest bonds.

The total tax for Chelan county next year will be $84,000, a reduction of $84,000 from 1921.

Fifty tons of hay belonging to Wallace Blake on his farm near Benton City, Spokane county, certified seed potato growers have decided to market none of their first-class seed for less than $120 a ton.

The Pisco Chamber of Commerce has subscribed $50 to assist in the preliminary survey of proposed Umatilla irrigation project.

H. E. Briggs, graduate of the University of Oregon, is visiting in Portland with his family.

The Oahe, a bungalow resort near the river east of Yakima, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin a few days ago. The loss is $15,000.

Marvin J. Dickinson, Northwest pioneer, is dead at his home in Thornton, Oregon. He had been a resident of Thornton for many years.

Harriet Eckersley of Salem is registered at the Benson.

WHAT I LIKE BEST

MRS. F. W. TANA, 1837 East Everett street.—The editorial page.

MRS. S. W. COLLUM, Lewiston, Idaho.—The editorials.

R. L. COLEMAN, Clarkston, Wash.—The editorials.

J. A. AIKEN, La Grande.—We sure like the editorials.

The Journal for any other paper.

MRS. CHARLES DE FORREST, La Grande.—I always turn to the editorial page first. It is full of snap and truth.

Mrs. J. McDERMOTT, Stanfield.—The sporting page.

HORACE WALKER, Stanfield.—The market reports.

H. M. BARNETT, Garden Home.—The Journal is "there" with everything.

GUY H. JACKSON, Kerry, Or.—The entire editorial page, the comic stuff, the general news and—oh, what's the use?—all of it!

Your opinion will be valued. Include name and address when you write.