

HARVEY TARGET OF COMMUNISTS, IN PARIS THREAT

London, Oct. 21.—(U. P.)—Threatening letters purporting to come from communists, demanding the release of Sacco and Vanzetti, convicted of the murder of a paymaster in Massachusetts, were received today by Ambassador Harvey.

Brussels, Oct. 21.—(U. P.)—Police today dispersed a communist gathering in front of the American embassy here and made several arrests after the demonstrators had become noisy.

The disturbance was part of the international communist effort to secure the release of Sacco and Vanzetti, convicted of murder in Massachusetts.

1000 POLICEMEN TO GUARD HERRICK HOME IN PARIS
Paris, Oct. 21.—(U. P.)—One thousand policemen will guard the American embassy and the residence of Ambassador Herrick tonight to prevent a threatened march of communists and a demonstration against the United States.

Steel blinds will be drawn at the embassy and Herrick's home and armed guards will prevent communists who are to hold a monster mass meeting at the Ballu Wagram from approaching either building.

Hundreds of threatening letters of protest against the sentence passed upon the convicted communists continue to pour in through the embassy mail today.

Blowing up of the building where the passport office and the reparations commission are housed, was threatened in one letter and extraordinary precautions were taken.

Debate Prospects At O. A. C. Held Good
Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Oct. 21.—The prospects for two winning debate teams are considered promising by C. B. Mitchell, G. E. Varney and Earl W. Wells of the public speaking department, judges of the try-out.

Eight men, chosen for the variety of their linguistic debats with Reed College and the University of Oregon, are E. V. Abbott, Corvallis; John Gray, Santa Rosa, Cal.; Merrill Good, Gresham; W. D. Whitall, Ashland; Paul Knoll, Corvallis; C. P. Merkin, Walla Walla; J. C. Kimmel, Estacada; and Rudolph Hathaway, Corvallis. Abbott and Gray are experienced.

Deportation Result Of Eight Charges
Astoria, Oct. 21.—Thomas Anthony Kolenaki, alias Thomas Ross, found guilty on eight charges including white slavery, will be deported to Canada by the Astoria immigration officers, according to orders received Thursday from Washington. He was the principal witness for the defense in clearing Mrs. Bula Ingus of a charge of murder, in the circuit court here recently.

Legion's Community House Is Indorsed
Brownsville, Oct. 21.—At a meeting of the Brownsville Chamber of Commerce Tuesday, indorsement was given to the plan of the American Legion to build a community house in the city. The necessary amount has not as yet been raised for the first cost of the building, but about two-thirds of it has been pledged and soliciting for funds still goes on. The merits of the building plan were discussed by the citizens at a mass meeting Wednesday night in the city.

ROAD WORK ABOUT OVER
Oregon City, Oct. 21.—Road work in the vicinity of Molalla is about completed for the year, with a stretch of macadam between Molalla and Molalla about half completed. The concrete pavement between the two towns has been open for some time, and the macadam stretch adjoining the pavement, both being nine feet in width, furnishing an 18-foot roadbed.

CONVICTED MEN GO TO PEN
Klamath Falls, Oct. 21.—Ed Jones, Jack Morrison and Glenn Reynolds, convicted in the circuit court of intent to commit robbery and sentenced for terms in the state penitentiary Thursday, started for Salem under the guard of Sheriff Lloyd Low and Deputy W. T. Lee.

Many Jurors Oppose Capital Punishment; Henderson Case Slow

Attorneys in the case of Joseph J. Henderson, charged with stabbing to death his ex-wife, Gertrude Henderson, are having a hard time securing a jury. Three venire had been exhausted when court adjourned at 11 o'clock and Circuit Judge Tucker announced that the trial would have to stop until one of the jury cases in the other courts had ended, freeing another venire. The defense has used five preemptory challenges and the state two.

An unusually large number of prospective jurors was found with objections to capital punishment. Deputy District Attorney Mowry and Crumpacker, for the state, announced that the death penalty would be demanded. Others were found who objected to a plea of insanity as an explanation of a bloody crime of this kind.

Barnett Goldstein, attorney for Henderson, said he would base the defense on the contention that his client temporarily lost his mind after years of domestic troubles.

ASPHYXIATED MAN IS RESCUED FROM BOTTOM OF WELL

Albany, Or., Oct. 21.—At the risk of his own life, Don McGlashan of North Albany, rescued Jesse Jackson, Thursday from the deadly fumes of blasting powder in the bottom of a well on the J. A. McGlashan poultry farm. Jackson's condition is reported serious and young McGlashan was compelled to come to Albany for treatment.

Jackson had essayed to resume work in the well several days after the last charge of powder had been exploded. Shortly after descending he became affected by the fumes and called for help, meantime attempting to climb out of the well. When 25 feet above the bottom he became overcome and fell back, suffering what it is feared may be internal injuries.

McGlashan braved the powder fumes and dropped to Jackson's rescue. The unconscious man was extricated by means of a windlass after McGlashan had tied a rope around him. McGlashan was able to make a run fast to his body before himself losing consciousness.

Lumber Rate From Willapa Will Equal Schedule to Sound
Rates on lumber moving from the South Bend district to Portland for export or domestic use will be reduced one half a cent to be equal with the rate to Puget Sound. The ports on Puget Sound enjoy a differential of one half a cent. The new rate to Portland will be 12 cents and will be effective November 20, according to announcement made today by the Northern Pacific railroad.

Since a large volume of lumber traffic originates in the South Bend district it is anticipated that the half cent reduction placing Portland on a parity with other Northwest ports will bring more of the lumber produced there to this city than in the past.

Suit, Delayed While Raising Family, Filed
Albany, Or., Oct. 21.—For the sake of her nine children Mrs. Marie Volkman endured gross cruelty from her husband for 12 years, she alleges in a divorce complaint against Reimer Volkman. She alleges she started a divorce suit 10 years ago but had the case dismissed that her family might not be broken up. She is 60 years old now, she says, and all of her children have homes of their own. She names a co-respondent.

Heavy Safe Falls And Injures Man
Aberdeen, Wash., Oct. 21.—With the breaking of a cable used in pulling a heavy safe into the second story of a business block Thursday, Leonard Woodland of the S. W. Johnston Transfer company, who was back of the safe when the top of a long stairway had been reached, was precipitated to the floor below and his legs jammed against a door casing by the ponderous piece of steel. Both legs were broken, his knees crushed and he suffered internal injuries. Amputation of his legs may be necessary. Woodland was married a short time ago.

ULSTER THREAT FAILS TO CHECK PEACE PARLEYS

By Charles Wray
London, Oct. 21.—(L. N. S.)—The threatened breakup of the Irish peace conference today over the obstacle of recalcitrant Ulster failed to take place. After a session of nearly two hours the parley adjourned this afternoon until Monday afternoon. The Sinn Fein delegates left the premier's official residence shortly after 1 o'clock and hurried back to their headquarters for a consultation among themselves.

The standpoint of the Ulster Unionists and Esmonin de Valera's message to the pope saying Ireland would insist upon independence had cast dark clouds upon the peace horizon when the conference was renewed.

The London Times charges irreconcilable forces in England are deliberately working to wreck the Irish conference and that they gained strength from De Valera's telegram to Rome.

"The message will fill his holiness with dismay and will certainly arouse the indignation of the people of England and the dominions," said the Times. "Towards the pope it is an act of impertinence; towards King George it is unmannerly to the point of churlishness. If it really speaks for the majority of the Irish the chances for peace in Ireland are small."

Col. Hofer Speaks To Normal Students; Model Library Open
Oregon Normal School, Monmouth, Oct. 21.—Colonel E. Hofer of Salem spoke at the State normal one day last week. Touching upon the recent legislation requiring all Oregon teachers to devote from 15 to 30 minutes each week to teaching kindness to animals, he emphasized the commercial value of its results to the state.

The annex to the Normal library, just completed, is known as the Model library and contains every book in the state list. School law requires all books purchased out of the school library money for school libraries over the state to be selected from this list, put out by the State library in Salem.

Miss Lois Rosemond, Walton of the Salem school of education gave several interesting readings before the student body Wednesday morning. Another popular feature of the chapel program was a vocal number by Mrs. J. B. Landert.

GIRL IN DEATH CAR ALTERS HER STORY

Astoria, Oct. 21.—After two hours and more of grilling the various witnesses in connection with the fatal plunge of an automobile driven by George E. Hicks and containing four other passengers, through the open draw of the Lewis and Clark bridge Wednesday, the coroner's jury was dismissed Thursday evening to continue the inquest today.

A sensational about face in the story told by Miss Irene Scott marked the investigation. Wednesday she freely told the district attorney, the sheriff, other officers and reporters that members of the party were intoxicated, had been drinking through the night and were driving at a reckless rate. The other two who were rescued refused to tell their story at all. Thursday Miss Scott denied having any memory of telling her story of Wednesday, claiming those in the party had not been drinking and that they were driving at a moderate rate of speed. Wednesday she laid the entire blame for the accident upon the chauffeur. Thursday she inferred that the open draw was not adequately protected.

Miss Pearl Hutchinson and Henry Rodgers, or Ewing, as he first gave his name, corroborated Miss Scott's story. Miss Scott said her home is in Oregon City. She left there some years ago. Mrs. A. Schaffer of Hillsboro communicated with the sheriff Thursday, stating that George H. Hicks, driver of the death car and himself killed, was her son. His body had not been recovered Thursday night, despite constant grappling.
