

LEGIONNAIRES LEAVE FOR HOME

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2.—(L. N. S.)—The last of the delegates and visitors of the American Legion convention were fast hurrying homeward today.

Marshal Foch and General Pershing, last of the distinguished guests to leave, pulled out of the city at 11:45 o'clock last night on a special train bound for St. Louis.

The final session of the convention was not adjourned until late yesterday. Complete satisfaction was expressed over the selection of the new officers.

stepped back into solemn rigid attention. "I stand to your command," he said, impressively.

That was the favorite expression of the new Legion commander throughout the war. It was that which brought him promotions from back private to lieutenant colonel and caused him to come home to his own city, Iowa, with nine decorations and 11 citations, including three D. M. C., Croix de Guerre and medals of honor from the Italian and Belgian governments.

MacNider enlisted as a private at the beginning of the war. Three months later he went to an officers' training camp, came out a second lieutenant and went overseas with the ninth infantry of the second division.

On the Marne, near Chateau Thierry, the village of Vaux was in possession of the Germans. Information concerning the situation was needed.

MacNider told his captain and lieutenant that he would lead his men, entered the village. MacNider's company was killed. MacNider captured five Germans and returned to the Croix de Guerre.

Previously to enlisting in the army, MacNider served with the Iowa National Guard on the Mexican border in 1916 and 1917. He is president of an investment company in his home town, is unmarried, genial eyed and slightly bald.

He is a Harvard university graduate. He is a member of the Colonial Dames, state secretary of the Society of Mayflower Descendants and the only member of the Cincinnati chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution to serve more than two years.

NEW COMMANDER TOYING A young man, barely 22, with a military bearing a close second for Pershing, stood on the platform at convention hall late yesterday receiving the shears of a multitude that had unanimously elected him.

"Atta-Boy, Jack, you tell 'em," his own delegation was shouting. MacNider smiled back the smile that makes everyone want to smile with him, thanked the legion briefly and then

Couple Are Booked; Both Forfeit Bail; Bench Warrant Out

David Brill, alias David Harris, whom the police were informed is head manager of a film exchange, was booked at police headquarters early this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct after he had been arrested in a room at Twentieth and Washington streets with a young woman who gave her name as Catherine Cook. Miss Cook was also charged with disorderly conduct. Both were released on $5 bail.

Sergeant Breuninger and Patrolman Horton answered a call to the apartment house and found the couple. The man first gave his name as David Harris, but when friends arrived and asked for "David Brill," stating they wished to put up a cash bail for his release, the police discovered his true name.

When the case was called in the municipal court this morning neither defendant was present. Judge Robson ordered bail forfeited and had a bench warrant issued for the rearrest of both.
