

1200 TAILORS TO MEET IN PORTLAND JANUARY 10, 11, 12

Preparations for the entertainment of 1200 merchant tailors from five Pacific coast states and British Columbia are rapidly maturing under direction of officials of the Portland Tailors' association, according to K. S. Irvin, chairman of the committee in charge of the third annual convention of the Pacific Merchant Tailors' association, to be held here January 10, 11 and 12. The convention will be the largest in the history of the organization, Irvin stated.

Headquarters for the convention have been arranged for at the Metcounah hotel and a style show in the assembly hall of the hotel will be one of the principal features. Trips over the Columbia River highway and inspection of the harbor and various proposed sites for the 1925 exposition will be among the entertainment features. A movement will be started at the convention to secure an international style show as one of the big exhibits of the world's fair, it was announced.

The following chairmen of committees are handling arrangements for the convention: K. S. Irvin, convention chairman; George H. Reid, executive committee; E. A. Norman, chairman of the Reid, public conveyances; Eliot Johnson, entertainment; Oscar M. Smith, finance; C. P. Barrett, hotels; C. W. Stone, transportation; C. E. Hendy, registration. An invitation to the convention, featured by a full page picture of the city and Mount Hood, occupied the front cover of the November issue of the "Merchant Tailor," a San Francisco publication.

PARLEY MAY DISPEL MANY OLD FEARS

Who will keep the "open door" open? Who will enforce the understanding? The British government knows it cannot do it alone. Will the United States help? That is why the British are not anxious to announce at this time what they will do with the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

One school of thought insists that the alliance be abrogated because of the stimulus it gives the Japanese politically and commercially, but another school of thought in the British government wants to know first whether the moral and physical help of the United States can be counted upon if the alliance is given up. In other words, it is contended by the latter group of statesmen that the Anglo-Japanese alliance binds the British government a certain intimacy with the Japanese government which makes it impossible to hold Japan back gently, but firmly, and exercise quietly an influence which might never be publicly acknowledged or heeded if the alliance were broken and if Japan felt that she must eventually seek the hand of reconstruction Germany or resuscitated Russia to assist in fulfilling her ambitions in the Far East.

ENGLAND IS HESITANT

Who is not entirely a political problem. For America it has an important financial aspect. Not more than a year ago, Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., went to China and Japan and the moral support of our government of state negotiated an agreement known as a "consortium" whereby the capitalists of Great Britain, France, Japan and the United States agreed to a certain set of principles for the financing of enterprises in China. It was another step in the open door policy of the United States. Everybody knew England did have much capital available and that even though other powers were included in the agreement to make it impressive, the bankers of Japan and the United States alone were concerned. But capital has not been forthcoming so easily. Why should money flow to a region of the world where political conditions are unsettled?

WHERE DOES U. S. STAND?

Does America stand ready to enter into a treaty which will impose certain mutual obligations? Great Britain is waiting to see. The United States pledged herself under McKinley's administration and has reiterated her engagements many times since under Mr. Roosevelt and Republican secretaries of state to maintain the territorial integrity and administrative independence of China. Will the Harding administration say so in a formal treaty? Mindful of the fact that the Republican party denounced Article X in the Wilson covenant because it was intended to guarantee the territorial integrity and political independence of member states in the League of Nations including China, the query is whether enough water has gone over the dam to make President Harding and Secretary Hughes ready to apply the doctrine of Article X to China.

DESIRE AGAINST WAR

Back of it all is a desire to prevent war. In favor of the guarantee of China's territorial integrity is the argument that if all the powers, including Japan, sign on the dotted line a pledge to let China alone, the agreement will never have to be enforced. It is the same line of thought which convinced Mr. Wilson in urging Article X, namely, that a profession of respect for territorial integrity made in a formal treaty would be too difficult a hurdle for any nation to jump, no matter how strong

LEE MORELOCK OF SALEM APPOINTED DEPUTY MARSHAL

Lee Morelock of Salem was today appointed deputy United States marshal, to take office December 1, by United States Marshal Clarence R. Hutchins. The new deputy will replace Sam M. Pace of Willoua county, resigned.

Morelock was born at Summerville, Union county, on July 4, 1879, a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Morelock, who now reside in Portland.

When the Spanish American war broke out, Morelock was a student at La Grande, and enlisted in Company D, Second Oregon, United States volunteer infantry. He was soon promoted to a sergeant and ordered to the Philippine islands with the first expedition. He remained with his company during the entire campaign and was severely wounded in one of the engagements. He was mustered out with his regiment on August 7, 1899.

Morelock was identified with the Oregon National Guard for several years, being first sergeant of Company L to La Grande, during which time he was detailed as one of the guards at the Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland, and remained on this duty during the entire fair period. He was later a first lieutenant of Company F of the Third Oregon, in December, 1918, he was appointed deputy sheriff of Marion county, under Sheriff O. D. Bower, a position which he now holds. He is a member of Hal Hibbard camp of the United Spanish War Veterans of Salem, and Center council No. 18, Knights of Pythias, of the same place.

MISTRUST IS WELL FOUNDED

Suspicion and mistrust is a hard thing to combat. It runs all through the Japanese-Chinese controversy as well as our own relations with the Far East. British statesmen are in little faith on not officially take cognizance of that mistrust. It is true our army and navy officers who have been in the East cannot talk about it. The truth is, enough confirmation of Japanese militarism has come to Washington to convince the most skeptical that there must be some back of it all and that it behooves America to be prudent.

The Japanese foreign office whose good faith is not being questioned has been anxious to make easier. When the Japanese government employs American advisers and American newspaper men as publicity agents, there is no frowning on the part of our officials. No, the hope is that every opportunity will be given the Japanese government and people to see that America is not anxious for war, not anxious for the building up of incessant mistrust and controversy, but wants a clean-up of angles and disputes which have led to the rapid rise of a mischievous jingo spirit in both Japan and the United States.

LAMONT'S MISSION HELPS

It is not entirely a political problem. For America it has an important financial aspect. Not more than a year ago, Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. But capital has not been forthcoming so easily. Why should money flow to a region of the world where political conditions are unsettled?

POLITICAL COMPACT NEEDED

To make the consortium worth while, a political compact between nations has been deemed essential. The agreement to come out of the forthcoming conference whether it be a treaty or convention will be of immense value as a moral support to the consortium. There are valuable resources in China which are American capital would like to help develop—railways and mines. Americans have been complaining for years that they were not given the same backing by their government in the Far East as is given the citizens of Great Britain or Germany or France. The new compact with respect to the Far East is designed to remove inequalities and give the American an equal chance.

McNary Amendment On Taxes Adopted

Washington, Nov. 3. — (WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL)—Senator McNary's amendments to the tax bill to permit deductions for losses to property by the elements, to be made on basis of value March 1, 1913, if property was acquired before that time, instead of original costs, have been adopted by senate. This change affects considerable tracts of timber destroyed by fire.

Waitress, Tired of Living, Takes Own Life in Her Room

Miss Mary Nelson, a pretty 30-year-old waitress, this morning ended her life in her room at 357 Twelfth street, after she had carefully plugged up all cracks in the window and doors with old quilts and inserted her last 25-cent piece in the gas meter.

Other occupants of the rooming house smelled gas and called the police. The body was found lying on the bed. A note was lying on the floor. It was addressed to her room mate, Miss Ona May Mitchell, who is at the Good Samaritan hospital undergoing an operation. The note read: "I am tired of living, forgive me."

The girl had been out of work recently, according to Chief Deputy Coroner Leo Goetsch, who was called to remove the body to the county morgue. She was formerly employed as a waitress. She has a brother in Hartline, Wash., and a sister in Woodburn, Or.

Pupils Involved in High School Theft

Bend, Or., Nov. 3.—Charged with robbing the domestic science room of the Bend high school Sunday, Fred Shuey and Lee Wright, local mill employes, are under arrest, and a complaint alleging a similar crime has been issued for Chester Wright, junior high school pupil. Four other pupils, whose age does not permit their appearance in circuit court, will have hearings in juvenile court.

VETERAN STEAMBOAT MAN BURIED

Funeral services for the late Captain Robert Young, marine superintendent of the Western Towing & Transportation company, who died Monday, were held Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the chapel of Finley & Son. Captain Young was veteran in the Williamette river transportation business and had been with the paper companies for years.

HARRY WILLS TO MEET DENVER ED.

Harry Wills, considered the greatest colored heavyweight of the day, has accepted terms to appear in a 10 round boxing contest with "Denver Ed" Martin, former colored heavyweight champion, at the Milwaukee boxing commission arena November 16. Frank Kendall, matchmaker of the Milwaukee commission, received a telegram accepting the offer and date today. Wills will arrive in Portland during the latter part of this week to train for the bout.

Second Division Plans to Organize

Plans are under way for organizing a local chapter of the veterans of the second division with the intent of becoming affiliated with the national order. At a meeting recently held, over which the Rev. John Brian McCormick presided, three committees were appointed to draw up plans for the permanent organization. The heads of the committees are: J. J. Haney, charter and by-laws; J. I. Jordan, publicity and membership, and C. Snow, entertainment.

Dr. A. C. Smith Gets Hearing at Capital

Washington, Nov. 3. — (WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE JOURNAL).—Postmaster General Hays will give a hearing this afternoon to Dr. Andrew C. Smith of Portland on the proposed cancellation of his Alaskan mail contract. The hearing was granted after an appeal by Senator McNary and Representatives McNary and Simons. His defense against charges of defects in the service could be fully presented.

OREGON'S SLACKER LIST CONTAINS 80 ADDITIONAL NAMES

Names of 80 more Oregon men were posted today by the government as slackers. Twenty-one of them filed their questionnaires with local boards in Portland. Actual expenses, not to exceed $50, will be paid any civil officer or citizen for the apprehension and delivery to military control of any of the following men, according to Major General William M. Wright, commander of the headquarters of the ninth corps area at San Francisco, who has released the list in Oregon through the office of Clarence R. Hutchins, United States marshal.

MAKE PARLEY PUBLIC, ASSERTS NORTHCLIFFE

Increasing criticism being voiced in congress and in the press against the "secret aspect" of the conference. Newspaper correspondents who attempted to gain a definite indication today of just how "closed" or how "open" the conference is likely to be met with the official assertion that the press and public generally would be "pleasantly surprised" by the amount of openness in the forthcoming conference. No intimation was given as to the nature of the "surprise" in store.

A new tank ship of the United States navy can supply fuel oil to four other vessels at once while all are in motion.

RAPS IRISH LEADERS

"I find that interest in the Washington conference overhadows all other subjects in Japan—even the cost of living."

"Many express their fervent hopes that the conference will preserve peace in the Pacific and relieve Japan of her intolerable burden of taxation."

Lord Northcliffe then passed to the Irish question.

"Lloyd George and the government have been patient personified," he declared.

"The Irish leaders have shown such extraordinary smallness of mind and incapacity in the negotiations that they have become ridiculous."

"I do not believe De Valera represents Irish opinion, but if he does they are asking for trouble and most certainly will get it."

Lord Northcliffe has been busy with eighteenth and has requested that no formal entertainment be given him. He called officially at the British embassy today.
