

PLENTY OF FRUIT IN RETAIL SHOPS

By HYMAN H. COHEN
Get a box of apples at once, for the quality of stock is now at its prime. Prices are unusually low, in fact the lowest for many years. Good family packs are available in the retail shops around $1.50 per box. Some stock is fractionally below or above this price. Some consumers refuse to purchase the small sized apples because they consider them of inferior quality. This is not usually the case. For the family, nothing could be better than a box of apples of small size, say 175 to the box. Markets continue unusually well supplied with grapes, which are coming out of storage in excellent condition. Prices are low.

Huckleberries are selling in the retail shops around 15c a pound and the quality is good. The season will soon end. Consumers are advised to put some of this stock in jars for winter use.
When buying potatoes don't forget that it will pay you to examine the stock carefully. The top of the sack is usually "planted" with large and smooth potatoes. Better look underneath.
Naval orange season will soon be started, but the fruit will likely be too high priced and green for immediate and general consumption.
Cranberries are lower priced here than in other markets and this year's quality is excellent. Have you tried to eat them pared? Grind berries and season with sugar. Then place container on stove just long enough to heat and melt the sugar. Then you have a dish that will beat all cooked stock. It's the easiest and best way.
