If Quality Matters, One Should See These

Women's New Coats

Can you help wanting to see them since they'll be specially priced $49.75 tomorrow?

—They are for the women who have thought that only a really expensive coat would do, and it is only their low price that keeps them out of the so-called expensive class.

—To start with, they are fur-trimmed, really luxuriously adorned with such excellent furs as raccoon and wolf.

—And now to complete the story, let us say that the manufacturer's ideas were as lofty as the designer's—so he used Normandy Cloth, Chamoistyne, Pollyanna and Bolivia Cloth in making these coats.

Remarkable Dresses Are Reduced to $39.75

—The price makes them remarkable beyond question—but how can there be any question when one so delightfully is to measure all the unusualness in the lines, materials and trimmings? Canton Crepes, Canton Satins, Twill Cords and Tricotines.

—Third Floor, Lipman, Wolfe & Co.

Girls' Coats—A Smart Special—Warm and Cozy—at $17.50

—Girls of 10 to 14 will delight in the new flare back with stitched plaits, or fancy stitching and buttons, front or side pockets, turn-back cuffs and self or fur collar. In deer brown and blue.

Oceans Can't Keep Us From Showing Best of

Men's New Overcoats

And men are glad when they see our exhibit of "Anglotex" Coats from England

—Besides, some of the finest of American overcoats are at this store—the Stein-Bloch and Langham lines particularly—every style that is right—every material that practicability and refinement call for—and every weight befitting Portland's climate.

—Wooly ones and smartly-finished coats—lined coats and unlined coats—single-breasted or double-breasted—plaid back or plain.

—So many different styles of pockets, so many different ways that the different belts have—so much of fineness in design and tailoring—so much of uncommonness throughout the entire display of overcoats here, there are plenty of men ready to join us in saying that our clothing section is unique, on the Pacific Coast, at least. Let us show you tomorrow what remarkable overcoats $45 will buy.

—Anglotex Suits of fabrics imported direct by us from England, Scotland and Ireland and tailored according to Lipman, Wolfe standards.

—Fifth Floor, Lipman, Wolfe & Co.
