Prosecutor Into 'Prohi' Advocate this mo covery.

Aberdeen, Wash., Nov. 12.-Captain George Acret, prosecuting attorney of Grays Harbor county, is converted into a "bone dry" advocate, he told an Armistice day audience here.

"Existing conditions here have have changed me from a half-hearted friend Armistice Day of prohibition since I took office," he said. "I will not be a candidate for reelection, but during the remainder of my term of office I propose to put every bootlegger in jail, if · I can."

Due to the fact that Captain Acret's brother is one of the two judges of the here. Judge Acret is disqualified from hearing cases in which his brothers are attorneys and the brothers, by filing afthe other judge in the county, causing morning services were completed with delay and expense in securing a visiting judge to hear their cases.

Elme Bellou, 12 years old, 4403 Sixtyfifth street southwest, lies seriously intration here Friday night.

Dodging among the noisy racing auto-mobiles at Park and Washington streets at 7:30 o'clock, the youngster endeavored to cross the crowded street, but he ran out from behind one machine just in time to be struck by an automobile driven by John Marinella of Linnton, who was unable to stop his car until its front wheels had passed over the prostrate lad. The hind wheels of the machine skidded over the wet pavement, dragging the boy along the street. The limp body was taken from under the machine and dispatched to the hospital, where he lay unconscious for a long time. Later he began to talk unmeaningly, evidently suffering painfully from his injuries. The boy was conscious this morning, and has a chance for re-

Preparations for Convention Start

Bishop Walter Taylor Sumner announces that full arrangements are now, under way for the successful holding of the triennial convention of the Episcopal church in Portland in 1923. Committees are almost completed and many of our leading citizens and churchmen have promised their active support. The presiding bishop and the other churchmen of authority have expressed their warmest interest in the choice of Portland as a meeting place.

The planning of the wardrobe for the girl under 12 years is a rather difficult problem, for one must choose models that are simple enough for childhood and yet sufficiently chic to meet favorably the criticism of youth, which begins at a surprisingly early age. However, since simplicity has come to be the keynote of even grown-up costumes, one may select these unostentatious morning and afternoon frocks, which are typical of the modes of today, without a second thought for their correctness. The school frock at the left is quite as smart and trim as the street frock of a debutante, and, developed in serge, wool jersey, or woollen crepe, it makes an ideal morning costume. A touch of worsted embroidery lends a bit of color, and the bell sleeves and oval neck-line are characteristically new fashion features. The party frock of taffet at the right also employs the becoming wide neck-line and flowing sleeves of the moment and introduces a pleasing feature in the flaring skirt godets that suggest many delightful ways of decoration. HARD TIME RAGTAG man of the committee in charge of the course, explained that the course would
