NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The uncertainty of football was never better illustrated than in Harvard's defeat of Yale in the annual game that, for sentimental reasons alone, attracts more attention in the East than any other gridiron battle.

Yale went into the game a clear favorite and undefeated eleven, victor over one team that had already beaten Harvard to a standstill. She came off at the short end of a 19 to 3 score, her hitherto impregnable line shot to pieces, her once powerful offense riddled and her secondary defense battered and wrecked.

CRIMSON HAD SPIRIT
All this Harvard accomplished in practically one week of intensive work, plus the spirit of the fighting underdog, which in football, of all sports, so often turns the scale.

"I would rather lose every early game in the season than to have these boys get over-confident," said a prominent football coach recently. "Over-confidence is the worst sin in the entire list, and over-confidence wrecks more football machines than any other single element."
At any rate, Yale's collapse in her critical game seems one thing. Neither member of the Big Three can lay claim to the Eastern title. Princeton, starting the season with a bunch of veterans that should have turned out the finest eleven Nassau has ever seen, lost two games, one to Navy, the other to Chicago.

Harvard, with less promising material, lost two games to Cornell and Princeton—and tied another with Penn State. Then Yale was beaten by Harvard.

FOUR UNDEFEATED
Of the undefeated teams now left in the East, Penn State would seem to have the best chance to win the Eastern title. It has a further claim in its record of gridiron of being beaten by the greatest season Middle West football has ever seen.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Iowa is champion of the Big Ten without a single loss in its title, and added to that honor it has a further claim in its record of gridiron of being beaten by the greatest season Middle West football has ever seen.

Experienced judges agree that the Iowa eleven that triumphed Saturday is one of the most powerful ever assembled in any gridiron. It was a combination of line power, smashing backs and open field running stars, not often seen.

Aubrey Devine, the Iowa captain and quarterback, cannot be denied all-American recognition. It is believed, that his open field running throughout the season has been spectacular and a joy to football bugs, while his passing is a revelation. Devine throws a forward pass like a baseball player, reaching to first base, and almost as accurately.

Iowa also boasts of Gordon Locke, called the best fullback of the year by foremost critics. Together with Duke Slater, the giant negro tackle, Belding, a corking end, and Glenn Devine, brother of the more famous Aubrey, this aggregation has more outstanding stars than any other team in the country.

Undisputed title was brought about to a large extent by impossible football weather. Slippery, muddy field made it possible for Illinois to win on even terms with Ohio Saturday and register an unexpected victory after a season in which it had not scored a touchdown on a conference rival, nor won a game. The fast Ohio attack was upset just as Wisconsin was unable to use its vaunted open field attack on Chicago.

Chicago won a bitterly fought battle by virtue of a single drop kick after Wisconsin had fumbled when touchdowns seemed certain.

An association of New England colleges has been formed to govern swimming, basketball, boxing and wrestling. Dr. Allen W. Rowe, secretary of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology A. A., is secretary of the body.

Bears' Claim To Grid Title Undisputed

PACIFIC COAST CONFERENCE
California 167 10
Stanford 148 10
W. S. C. 148 10
Washington 96 10

By George Berts
CALIFORNIA'S victory over Stanford Saturday gives the Bears a clear claim to Pacific coast conference gridiron title for 1921. The Bears went through the season without a defeat, but failed in their efforts to keep their goal line uncrossed. The cardinals scoring shortly after the start of the contest, on Toomey's fumble.

The Bears piled up as big a score as possible, the slow conditions of the field making speedy playing impossible.

GREAT FIGHT AT EUGENE
Oregon and the Aggies put up a wonderful fight in this state's big game Saturday at Eugene. The wet and slippery ball and the rain soaked and muddy gridiron made the game a dangerous thing and the game ended in a punting duel with Leslie of Oregon carrying off the honors.

There was plenty of grit and spirit in the game. Often times when players were tackled they would slide back four or five feet and again they would kick several yards in attempting to make runs.

On the offensive, Oregon appeared to be stronger than the Aggies, due to the fact that the wet field handicapped Coach Ruthven's aggression in its attempts to buck the line. A dry field would likely have resulted in a spectacular game, as both teams were on edge for the battle.

ALUMNI HAS SPIRIT
Nothing but praise was sung for the fight of the Oregon team by the alumni members who participated in the home coming festivities. One has but to attend a gathering in one of the frat houses to ascertain the source of the wonderful spirit of the Lemon-Yellow.

Following the game, the writer was a guest of the Kappa Sigmas. The same spirit that carried the team to the gridiron prevailed in the house, many of the old timers praising the team for its fight and urging that it be kept up in years to come.

Second place in the conference race is a tie between Stanford, Washington State and O. A. C., but indications are that the Cougars will carry off the honors, as they have a game scheduled with Washington Thursday afternoon. Each of these teams has won, lost and tied one conference game.

Oregon will play the last game of its schedule, until its invasion of Hawaii, Thursday in Portland against the club team. This promises to be a hard fight and the Lemon-Yellow team will give the club men a harder battle than they expect if the field should be dry. A slow field will help the club men, whereas it will handicap Oregon.

National College Hoop Meet Planned; P. C., N. W. Invited

University of Washington, Seattle, Nov. 21.—Additional impetus has been given to Washington's hopes for a continental championship in basketball by the receipt of an invitation to the winner of the Pacific coast Northwest conference titles to compete in a national invitational basketball tournament.

The tourney will be held about the middle of March in Indianapolis and will be an invitational affair under the auspices of the junior chamber of commerce of that city. As the championship teams in six big associations will be asked to take part, the winner of the tourney will virtually be the national champion.

The six associations to be invited are Pacific Coast and Northwest conferences, Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia conference, Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association, Eastern Intercollegiate league, Western conference and Missouri Valley conference.

Each team will be guaranteed all expenses incurred by the trip and the tournament will be held close enough to the end of the regular season so that the competing quintets will not have a long wait between the close of their respective schedules and the opening of the tournament.

Columbia Team Beats Astoria Eleven, 6 to 0

Astoria, Nov. 21.—With the state intercollegiate championship as the prize, Columbia high and Columbia university battled four terrific quarters in a heavy rain on a flooded field here Saturday, the result being a 6 to 0 victory for Columbia.

Early in the first quarter, Columbia completed a pretty pass, MacCarthy to Doherty, over the Astoria goal line, but it was disallowed for off side, the only time this penalty was called in the game. The Astorians began a frantic offensive and succeeded in keeping the ball in Columbia's territory during the second and third quarters, but, although in possession of the ball on Columbia's 5-yard line, failed to shove it over, losing the ball on an incomplete pass over the goal line fourth down.

Columbia took the ball on its 20-yard line, and commenced an irresistible march down the field, the Purple and White backs plunging through the Astoria line for eight first downs in eight minutes. Martin, Kenny and Cudahy, with Schulerich leading the onslaught, ripped through the line on the straight football, four plays to the minute, for 30 downs before Cudahy squirmed the last foot through center for the winning touchdown, with just a minute left to play.

Aberdeen High Boys Make Football Pay

Aberdeen, Wash., Nov. 21.—Financially the Aberdeen high school football team has been a success this year, according to Coach Herried. At the beginning of the season $500 was invested in new material. The treasury shows $150 on hand above all outstanding debts. The customary Thanksgiving day game, between Aberdeen and Hoquiam high schools, drew a big crowd, which will enrich the treasury by a few hundred dollars more, it is expected.

Corvallis, Nov. 21.—Using straight line plays, the Corvallis high school football team defeated McMinnville high school by a score of 22 to 0 Friday afternoon at McMinnville. Corvallis will play Albany here next Thursday.

Carpentier Is Not French Idol Dempsey's Victim Now Ridiculed

By Hudson Hawley
United News Staff Correspondent.
PARIS, Nov. 21.—Jack Dempsey's annihilating smashes which sent Georges Carpentier sprawling from his Jersey City, N. J., pedestal in France.

The idol of the French people, broken in morale, as well as in body, finds himself no longer acclaimed, but the subject of more or less popular ridicule.

The boxing editor of L'Auto, the most prominent French sporting newspaper, a man in very close touch with Carpentier, told the United News that Georges can never fight again. Something is wrong with Georges, internally, according to this close observer of sporting affairs, and he could not go the rounds with any opponent without a rush of blood to the mouth.

In his present shape, according to L'Auto's boxing expert, Carpentier would not be a good match for even old Ted Kid Lewis, the passe ex-welterweight champion, who is challenging him to fight for the light heavyweight championship of Europe, also a year ago Lewis would have taken a joke match for the Frenchman.

MANAGER SAYS GRIPPE
Francis Descamps, Carpentier's manager, attempts to make light of Georges' ailments. He told the United News that Georges is merely suffering from a bad case of grippe, but admitted that he would have to be abed for three weeks and could not do any training at all for a month. It was this ailment, "grippe" that necessitated the postponement until some time in January of the fight with George Cook, the Australian light heavyweight, scheduled for December 8, in London.

Those who know Carpentier rather intimately have observed a great change in his manner, a decline in his spirits, Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia conference, Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association, Eastern Intercollegiate league, Western conference and Missouri Valley conference.

Change Is Made in Preliminaries of Amateur Ring Card With Oregon Team

BECAUSE of an injury to Sellick, former University of Washington star and now wearing the colors of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club, Wendell S. Foulson, chairman of the boxing and wrestling committee at the Winged "M" institution, has been forced to substitute a wrestling bout for the Sellick-Ginns Wednesday night.

Carl Froelinger and Wilkins will battle at 175 pounds in one of the preliminaries to the inter-club events between Multnomah and the Olympic club of St. Francis. Wilkins wrestled in the scholastic circles for the last two years and is one of Instructor Ted Thye's promising prospects. It will be his first bout under the club's banner and Froelinger, the last five or six years a member of the club wrestling team, will offer him plenty of opposition.

The Olympic club boxers and wrestlers are expected to arrive in Portland Tuesday morning, according to the latest word from the South, and they will work out in the Multnomah gym that afternoon. The first bout on Wednesday night's program will start at 8:15 o'clock and the University of Oregon football team as well as the Multnomah warriors will be guests of honor. The two elevens meet on Multnomah field the following afternoon in the annual Thanksgiving day grapple.

Walla Walla Plans Mitt, Mat Smoker

Walla Walla, Wash., Nov. 21.—Three boxing bouts of three-minute rounds and two wrestling matches will be the main events of a smoker to be held under the auspices of the local Woodmen of the World lodge here on Thanksgiving eve. Mr. D. Cram, local boxing and wrestling promoter, has charge of the athletic events. Cram is also endeavoring to schedule a wrestling match between Strangler Olsen of Dayton and Basanta Singh, a smoker wrestler of Astoria, Or. The affair, if arranged, will be held on November 29.

Tyrus Cobb Fined $150

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 21.—Tyrus Cobb, manager of the San Francisco Winter Baseball league team, was fined $150 by Frank Chance, president of the league, following an altercation between umpire Phyle and Cobb. The game was forfeited to Vernon because Cobb refused to leave the field.

Rockey Is Assistant Cougar Hoop Coach

Washington State College, Pullman, Wash., Nov. 21.—McClellan Rockey of Bellingham was today named assistant basketball coach for the opening season at the state college. The appointment was announced by Athletic Director J. Fred Bohler, who handles the sport.

Prospects for a winning team are the poorest in the history of the institution and, in view of the fact that there is a hard schedule to face, the coach does not predict much of a season in the basketball line. Bohler announced today Christmas vacation games for early practice. Three games were scheduled with Eddie Copeland's All-Star team at Walla Walla, December 26, 27 and 28. A series will also be played with the S. A. C. of Spokane on December 29, 30 and 31.

Not such a bad come-back at that

Welter Ring Title Is Goal Of Leonard

By Westbrook Pegler
United News Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Having used up all respectable opposition in the lightweight class, Benny Leonard, the champion, is starting in on the welterweights, presumably to work up to a match with his friend, Jack Britton, welterweight champion, for a huge gate, along toward the middle of the indoor boxing season.

Leonard, the featherweight class is without an active champion, and fighters scaling up to 130 pounds are asking to be considered as "junior lightweights" because such a newly established division there will be plenty of action this winter.

Little Recognition

Johnny Dundee, awarded the title by defeating George Chaney of Baltimore, last Friday night will be glad to defend the same not only for the sake of the immediate dinero, but also to establish the class as a real division of the fighting game. Dundee never held any title before, and there will not be much distinction in the "junior lightweight" championship until it receives much more recognition than it has received so far.

Dundee and several other tough little men could fight Johnny Kilbane at equal weight for the featherweight title, but Kilbane demands 122 pounds of his challengers, while reserving the right to enter the ring himself as he stands.

Leonard is reported to be too heavy to make the lightweight limit of 125 pounds at 2 o'clock any more and still be strong; but there seems to be little occasion for his doing so, anyway.

Lightweights with a legitimate challenge to Leonard are simply not to be found any more.

Boxer Friedman Tuesday

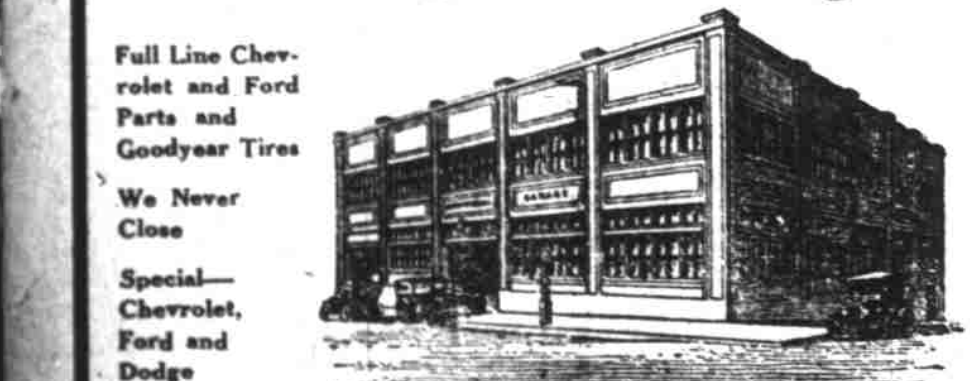

Leonard begins his welterweight campaign Tuesday night against Sal Friedman, in Philadelphia, and should beat him easily. A week later he will box George Ward, the New Jersey welterweight who beat Jack Britton last spring, but this will be only a 16-rounder and a benefit show. The fight will be held in the Garden, the proceeds to go to a Jewish charity in which Leonard has interested himself.

Later Leonard will go to Milwaukee and box Pinky Mitchell, and soon after that he will take on Young Denay, welterweight, in New Orleans, if the show goes through as planned.
