HEADS ARE GIVEN

Tuesday dawned bright and clear in imperial potentate's party of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the were such Monday that the special reeeption committee of which William J. Hofmann of Al Kader temple is chairnan, thought it advisable to call off the sightseeing trips planned for that day. As a result the distinguished visitors. including Imperial Potentate Ernest A. Cutts of Savannah, Ga., spent the aftnoon and evening talking over "old mes," particularly the 1920 annual national convention which was held in Portland, as well as making plans for the future, especially the 1922 conclave. billed for San Francisco next June.

Mambers of the party were taken on eightseeing trips about the city followig the meeting in the council chambers and the luncheon at the Imperial hotel ers are members of the Kiwanis club and they were guests of honor at the Kiwanis club luncheon at the Benson | was appointed assistant mayor of the city. His installation as mayor was attended by the delegates of the Imperial Shrine visiting Portland who were the prime movers in the comedy.

Inquiry was made into the various departments of the city government and the "special session" of the council waxed warm and furious under his direct attack. Special attention was paid to the finance department but at the request of Ernest A. Cutts, imperial potentate, it was decided that the funds of the brine and the city should be mixed, as the Shrine has no outstanding bonds to redeem or any fair to finance.

The new "mayor" evinced great interest in the work of the dry squad but upon finding that all evidence had been lestroyed ruled the matter too unimportant to consider.

Inquiry was also made into the cause of the recent storm and Commissioner John M. Mann was censured severely for silowing so much water to run through the city when it was not needed. He was instructed personally to remove the log jams now endangering the bridges. Before the mock session closed "Bill" Brown resigned and allowed Mayor Baker to resume control of the city. From the western end the gange. telephone linemen have worked through as far as Multnemah falls. For four miles this side of Bridal-Veil falls the reports were wig-wagged back that the ion was two feet thick on the ground and that all lines had been hopelessly torn to pieces.

LOSS IS HEAVY

Beyond Bridal Veil a "taploca snow" fell and came tumbling down from the eliffs of the gorge, piling up 30-foot drifts all along their foot.

C. E. Hickman, superintendent of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company, said this morning that the entire "eastern lead line" of the telephone service would have to be reconstructed. In this district he has estimated the loss to his company as now ranging up close to

The steamer Madaline went up the river Monday with 200 construction workers. Another vessel is being chartered today to take a special construction crew up the river.

Fifty men are being brought from construction work in Eastern Oregon, 30 men are coming from San Francisco and other gangs from all districts are being brought to the Portland area for the rehabilitation task.

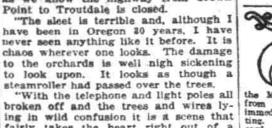

In the city the troubles of the company increased Monday night with the advent of the heavy wind storm which swept the city. A total of 11,603 telephones were out of service at noon today.

FAMIL ISOLATED

So terrible was the sleet storm in the Corbett section that Mrs. P. Andersen, in a message sent to Portland today by messenger, said that the highway looks as though a cyclone had passed over it and the orchards and forests look as if a gigantic steam roller had moved over

"We are completely isolated from the rest of the world," said Mrs. Andersen.
"There is no light, no telephone service and it is impossible to get mail. As far as we know the highway from Crown Point to Troutdale is closed. "The sleet is terrible and, although I have been in Oregon 20 years, I have broken off and the trees and wires lying in wild confusion it is a scene that fairly takes the heart right out of a person. And yet there is something so mpressive and beautiful about it that cannot find words to explain. as though this district were in the heart of Alaska."
