Firm Trusts Working Girl
'Helen, there's no reason you can't do it, too. You know, I simply read his ad in the paper for a private secretary. I'd been out of work so long that my clothes were terribly shabby, and I hated even to apply for a job. Of course, money was a total stranger to me. What did I do but go down to Cherry's at 349 Morrison and get a classy tailored suit and some fluffy blouses and the dearest hat and apply for a position. He was impressed with my appearance, gave me the job, and I am going to take a small part out of my wages each month to pay for my clothes.'
