Wedding Plans Hanging on Weather

By Helen Hutchison THE marriage of Miss Anna Mae Chippling and Mr. George Archibald Kingsley is planned for Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the Riverside church at Hood River, although some concern has been felt by the young people on account of the difficulty of reaching the Hood River valley because the storm has washed out the rail connections and blocked motor traffic. The parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kingsley, and a number of other Portland people have planned to be present for the wedding.

MRS. LEO DE VANEY (Olive Courtney), a recent bride, who will make her home in Roseburg.

Cousin Everett's Father Attempts To Take Own Life

Chicago, Nov. 25.—(L. N. S.)—Eph Harding, father of "Cousin Everett" Harding, tried to kill himself today by sending a bullet through his head. He was rushed to the county hospital, where it was said that he could not live. The motive for the act remained a mystery. He shot himself in his home immediately after arising this morning. Harding for many years was an associate of Monte Tenness, Chicago's "King of Gamblers." In the days of wide open gambling in Chicago, Eph Harding was a familiar figure. More recently he came into the limelight because his son, Everett, posed as a relative of President Harding and is now serving a term in Leavenworth for impersonation of a federal officer.

Coos County Makes Increase in Public School Enrollment

North Bend, Nov. 25.—A substantial increase in the scholastic population of Coos county is shown by a comparison of the school census of 1920 and 1921 by the principal towns of the county as follows: North Bend 1920 1921 Marshfield 1227 1277 Coquille 595 607 Bandon 402 438 Powers 393 396 Hart's Point 402 438 Eastside 224 229 Bunker Hill 206 227 An increase also is shown in several rural districts of the county. The actual enrollment of the public schools of North Bend is about 675, while that of Marshfield is 924. These enrollments will be increased by the arrival of several families on the bay in the near future.

HOW SHE WON HIM!

Something tender came into Grace's eyes. "It's the dress Jack fell in love with," she said. "That's literally true, I'm sure. I had been mad over Jack for so long—but he just didn't seem to care—until he saw me in this dress. I remember he said to me, 'How beautiful that dress looks on you!' and my heart beat fearfully, because he had never said anything like that before. Then I was glad I went to Cherry's last week. My payments start after the first of the year, and I can pay the balance whenever I like. Isn't that the best ever? I can't tell you how happy I am." Cherry's now occupies the entire second floor at Park and Morrison. Entrance 349 Morrison. Take elevator—Adv.

Oratorio Society to Be Feature Sunday At The Auditorium

At The Auditorium next Sunday afternoon the Portland Oratorio society chorus of 150 trained voices will appear under the direction of Joseph A. Finley, conductor, as the feature attraction. The chorus will sing a number of spectacular numbers, including "The Song of the Armorer" by Xenin. In addition to the chorus, there are several other attractive features, including solo numbers by Harold W. Moore, basso, and by Robert Louis Barron, violinist. Lucien E. Becker will play a pumber of popular selections on the pipe organ. This concert is one of the series of popular concerts staged by the city for educational purposes and the usual admission fee of 15 cents for any seat in the building, to cover incidental expense charged, will remain in vogue.

County Unit Plan of Administration for Schools Is Praised

Salem, Nov. 25.—The county unit plan of rural school administration was lauded as the solution of the problem of the little district schools by W. M. Smith, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, in an address before the teachers of Marion county here Wednesday. This plan, recently adopted in Crook county and made optional with each county in the state through an act of the last legislature, makes for greater economy and efficiency in the administration of the small schools, according to Smith. Other speakers appearing before the teachers were Dr. J. S. Landers, president of the State Normal school; Thomas Gentile, a member of the faculty of the Oregon Agricultural college, and Dr. E. O. Slason of Reed college.

Portland members of Mu Phi Epsilon, national musical sorority, will act as usher at the final concert of Mrs. Susie Kennell Pipes and her guest, Miss Henriette Michaelson, Russian pianist, Sunday afternoon at the Little Theatre, Twenty-third street near Washington. Mrs. Pipes is an honorary member of the sorority. Those who assisted at the last concert were Miss Helen Watt, Mrs. Mason Neil Giger, Miss Dorothy Bennett and Mrs. Frank Caruth. Sorority members who will usher are Miss Florence Tension, Miss Edna Messenger and Miss Watt. The program of Brahms sonatas will begin at 3 o'clock.

Paris.—From the time the Parisienne arises until she retires, and even after, the cape effects are present in nearly everything she wears. Capes for street wear feature large, high collars of fur, or fur bands, while those for evening are high, puffy affairs of fur, velvet or silk, or of flowers evolved from those materials. Even the outer coats have cape effects, or detachable capelets reach to the hips. These latter frequently are of black velvet, sometimes trimmed with appliques of white fur. Coats and suits have flaring cape-like sleeves, evening frocks have cape-like trains and wings, and even night dresses are similarly equipped.

Cambridge, Mass.—The whole Sioux tribe turned out for the war dance never exhibited so many feathers as were worn to the Harvard stadium when the crowd surged in to see Harvard play Yale today. Nearly every hat, male or female, carried its crimson or blue feathers, these quills being placed at every possible angle. The smaller felt shapes were greatly in the ascendancy among the feminine football fans and were worn in most cases with the woolen sport suits of light blue, gray and brown.

New York—Bare-backed types have not been exhibited either in the ring or in the boxes at the horse show this week. The costumes seen in the evenings have been remarkable for moderation of decoration. The irregular or diagonal neckline was emphasized, but without sensational looseness of cuts. Many of the gowns were worn high in the back and low in front. There were several dresses worn having a camisole neckline held by gleaming shoulder straps of metal fabric or jewels.
