Chairman Porter said he would endeavor to get action on an appropriation before Christmas.

ernor Goodrich of Indiana, and Vernon Kellogg told the committee.

They are just back from Russia. Hundreds of thousands will starve without American help, they said. Goodrich told of conditions in the communal kitchens, where an effort is nade by the inhabitants to extend relief to children.

"The children, whose parents have died, are dirty, ragged little skeletons," he said." "They take no interest in anything and are like wounded animals, They are clad in scanty, cotion garments in zero weather."

Goodrich told how weed seeds are painfully gathered to be mixed with grain flour in bread, and how stock is fed on wood stalks.

Soviet authorities are extending all possible help, he said, as well as the provide seeds for the spring planting. Kellogg described the conditions as the worst he had seen in six years' work i famine regions.

HORSE MEAT USED He told of children's communal kitchens, where the rations are horse meat and grits, and the supply of those is not dependable.

"The children are gathered in bare rooms, containing no furniture," said Kellogg. "There are no chairs, no blankets and clothing is inadequate. The

Truck Collides With Train; Man Injured

Banks, Dec. 14 .- At the railroad crossing on the Gales Creek & Wilson River railroad a delivery truck, driven by Ed-win Mawhinney, ran into a logging train Monday and was dragged about 30 feet before the train was stopped. F. L. Allen, seated beside Mawhinney, suffered a broken leg but the driver escaped in-jury. A third man, whose name is not known, was on the rear of the truck but jumped and was not hurt. Allen, an employe of the Utah Construction com-pany, had hired the truck to haul ma-terial for him from Wilkesboro.
