POLICE PAYROLL CUT IS PROBLEM

Wholesale reduction in the personnel of the Portland police force was suggested by Chief of Police Jenkins this morning as a means of meeting the emergency caused by the cut of $72,000 made by the tax supervision and conservation commission in the police budget. three possible plans were suggested: The first, to discharge 37 policemen, demoting some officers and thus saving the $72,000 in salaries both by the discharge and reduction in rank; the second, to discharge 47 men and reduce fewer officers; the third, to cut the force one third or dismiss 66 men, reducing no officers. The third plan would eliminate every ex-service man on the "last on, first off" principle.

Mayor Baker and the chief planned to confer with Chairman Mulkey of the commission this afternoon and determine what procedure the commission had in mind when it ordered the heavy cut.

If any of the plans suggested are carried out, it probably would lead to establishment of the "booth" system of policing the city, whereby 22 substations are maintained with two policemen detailed to each. One policeman would be equipped with a small automobile, the other with a motorcycle. The man in the auto would be on constant patrol duty, calling back at the booth at frequent intervals. The other would be ready for emergency calls.

Two Fined $50 Each For Trapping Bear

Burl Loney and David Moore of Molalla were arrested Tuesday by H. E. Meads and W. A. Cornell, deputy game wardens, for trapping beaver on Milk creek, and, following trials at Oregon City, each was fined $50, according to a report filed today at the headquarters of the state game commission. W. R. Carter of Forest Grove was fined $25 for angling without a license and Nick Horras of Tillamook was fined the same amount for shooting from a public highway, according to other reports received at the commission headquarters.
