Ladies of T. P. A. Hold Annual Meeting Dec. 31

By Vella Wisner

The annual meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary of the Travelers' Protective association was held Saturday, December 31, at the Imperial hotel. The election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. Clyde Evans, president; Mrs. Charles E. Bailey, first vice president; Mrs. W. J. Jones, second vice president; and Mrs. C. A. Hainey, secretary-treasurer. The board of directors is as follows: Mrs. W. L. Grinnell, Mrs. P. G. Morton, Mrs. A. F. Burkhardt, Mrs. Carl O. Erren and Mrs. Henry W. Farrington. Mrs. A. F. Burkhardt, retiring president, and Mrs. Fred Olander, retiring secretary, were recipients of beautiful gifts from the auxiliary in appreciation of their work the past year. The January meeting of the auxiliary will be a luncheon at the Oregon grill last Thursday, with Mrs. Carl O. Erren acting as chairman. The next meeting will be a luncheon, February 2. Mrs. A. W. Ellis will preside.

How Oregon Laws Are Made Some Citizenship Queries

The following is the second installment of the catechism on the constitution of the state of Oregon, prepared by Helen Campbell Jesselson, chairman of the citizenship training committee of the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs, which is now being circulated among the clubs, to be made a part of each club meeting during the winter.

Q. Who presides over the legislature?
A. The president, chosen by the senators, presides over the senate; and the speaker, chosen by the representatives, is presiding officer of the house. Both receive same compensation as the other members, and, in addition, receive a sum equal to two thirds of their per diem allowance in the house where such bill chooses its own officers and determines its own rules of proceeding; but neither house shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that where it may be sitting.

Q. What constitutes a quorum?
A. Two thirds of each house.

Q. Are the sessions open to the public?
A. Yes, except in such cases as in the opinion of either house secrecy is required.

Q. Where do bills originate?
A. In either house, but may be amended or rejected in the other, except that all bills for raising revenue must originate in the house of representatives.

Q. How are bills passed?
A. Each bill, before being passed, must be read on three different days in each house; but in emergency, with a two-thirds vote of the house where such bill is pending, this rule may be suspended; but each bill must, before going on final passage, be read in sections, and final passage shall be voted on by "yeas" and "nays." A majority of all members elected to each house is necessary for passage. All bills so passed must be signed by presiding officer of each house, then sent to governor for his signature. If then becomes a law, 90 days after close of session, unless it is an emergency measure. If vetoed by the governor, it is returned to the house where it originated with his objections. If both houses pass it with a two-thirds majority, after his veto. Also, if he holds a bill over five days (Sundays excepted), it becomes a law without his signature.

Q. Is there any other way by which laws are enacted in Oregon?
A. In the governor, whose term of office shall be four years, and no person shall be eligible to such office more than eight years in any period of 12 years.

Q. What are his qualifications?
A. Must be a citizen of the United States, over 30 years of age and a resident of the state three years preceding his election.

Q. How is he elected?
A. By the plurality vote of the qualified electors of the state. Votes for governor shall be sealed and sent to the secretary of state, directed to the speaker of the house, who shall open them and publish them in the presence of both houses. In case of a tie, the house and the senate shall by joint vote proceed to elect one of such persons causing the tie for governor.

Q. Who succeeds the governor in case of his death, inability to serve, or removal from office?
A. The president of the senate becomes governor until such disability is removed, or until the next general biennial election. In case of disability of both governor and president, the speaker of the house is next in line. The governor elected to fill the vacancy shall hold office for the unexpired term of the outgoing governor.

Q. What are some of the important powers and duties of the governor?
A. He is chief executive officer of the state; sees that laws are kept; commands in chief of the military and naval forces of the state, may call them out in emergency; chairman of the state board of control and of many other boards and commissions; may call special sessions of the legislature; has veto power; may grant reprieves, pardons, commutations of sentences or paroles; makes appointments to fill vacancies in office, and has appointive power over many boards and commissions.

Q. What is his salary?
A. Seven thousand five hundred dollars, with $1500 for traveling expenses; also pays secretary at $3000 yearly, also an assistant secretary.

Americanization Work Described To Women Here

The work of the Portland Americanization council and the various organizations whose delegates constitute the council were described in detail by Mrs. Lee Davenport, chairman of the Americanization committee of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, at a special Americanization meeting of the McMinnville Civic Improvement club held Thursday. Mrs. Davenport's address brought out an animated and instructive discussion which resulted in the McMinnville club deciding upon several new plans of work.

Mrs. O. N. Bittner, chairman of the Americanization committee, conducted a fine citizenship drill, this having been made a part of each club program by this organization. The meeting was largely attended and greatly enjoyed.

The speaker at the luncheon of the Business Women's club Thursday will be Dr. Phillip A. Parsons, professor of sociology in the University of Oregon. His subject will be "Business of Being a Citizen." The hostess will be Miss Helen Crowe. Dr. A. A. Morrison, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, delivered a most interesting address to the members of the Business Women's club at their weekly luncheon Thursday at the Y. W. C. A. auditorium. His subject was "Evolution of Woman." He traced the history of woman from the earliest records of civilization, contrasting their position with the past, referring to the time when woman was a mere chattel and the prize of a captor in war and occupying the position of a slave, but now risen to a commanding position of influence and leadership in modern civilization. He stated that as she, more and more, with that splendid and fine moral perception, enters into the general affairs of life, so may we hope for a higher civilization than has been realized. Mrs. Margaret Morrison Sharp was hostess for the day and Miss Adelia Prichard, president, presided. An interesting visitor was the Rev. Bono Milosovic of the Panhuman church, a lecturer from Jugoslavia, who made a plea in behalf of his countrymen. Miss Marie C. Sommers was in charge of the program.

The psychology department of the Portland Women's club will meet at the home of Mrs. Frank McMillan, 832 Hancock street, Tuesday, at 1:30 p. m. The subject will be "Concentration and Meditation."
