

MRS. ADCOX, WHO SHOT HERSELF, IS NOW RECOVERING

Marie Adcox's attempt to end her life Tuesday night may become the turning point in the lives of herself and her husband, Luther L. Adcox, whose sensational raid upon a dinner party given at his own home precipitated the wife's shooting herself with a pistol.

When Adcox, after having told his wife that he would be away all night, went to his home at 555 Siskiyou street and broke up the dinner party which she was giving for Eugene Habel, manager of an automobile agency, and two others, he took with him Dan Powers, his attorney.

The lawyer went along, say the police, only because Adcox wished evidence for a divorce. The Adcoxes, it is known, had been sailing on rough matrimonial seas for many months.

The wife complained that Adcox neglected her and left her alone in the evenings. He said she was showing favors to another.

As a climax Mrs. Adcox shot herself. She now is recovering in St. Vincent's hospital. Attendants said today that danger from her wound is past.

While she is gaining strength, her husband is a frequent visitor at the hospital. The attorney and Habel have dropped out of the case as far as Adcox is concerned.

The pretty wife, on her hospital cot, with her brilliant tulle hair spread on her pillow, has said nothing to the world. What she and her husband talk about, the man keeps in his heart and continues his visits.

'Graveyard' Booze Claims 103 Victims Since January 1st

New York, Jan. 12.—(U. P.)—Poison booze has killed 103 persons in the United States since January 1.

United Press dispatches from all parts of the country revealed this amazing total today.

Deaths are continuing. Two persons died in the New York area during the last 24 hours.

The fatalities have occurred at the average rate of more than eight a day since the poison booze flood was poured on the market.

Many persons are selling wood alcohol apparently indifferent to the results. Dr. Royal S. Copeland, health officer of the city of New York, said today. "We have been conducting an investigation of this and find there is wood alcohol available. No one should ever take a drink of liquor unless its origin is known. Every drink of unknown liquor is a potential menace. Unfortunately there are some people who will drink anything that is wet. The man who does that risks his life."

War Vessels Are Cheap as Jitneys At Cherbourg Sale

(By Universal Service) (Special Cable Dispatch) Paris, Jan. 12.—War vessels are selling cheaper than jitneys at the auction sale at Cherbourg.

Several buyers obtained torpedo boats at $1800 each, while super-torpedo boats were sold for as little as $1200.

The buyers were private individuals who will turn the vessels into yachts. Only two vessels were purchased by steel firms for scrap.

TAILORS' EXHIBIT OF STYLISH TOGS DELIGHTS CROWDS

Election of officers, plans for tonight's banquet and grand ball and interest in the choice of a meeting place for the 1923 convention vied for attention with an address by C. C. Chapman on today's program of the third annual convention of the Pacific Coast Merchant Tailors association, in session at the Multnomah hotel. The banquet and ball will be the closing events of a three day convention of the association and will be held in the dining room and ball room of the Multnomah.

The style show held at the Multnomah last night was the principal feature of the program so far as the public interest is concerned. The show followed an automobile drive over the Columbia river highway and an exhibition drill put on by the Portland Hunt club in the Johnson street riding academy.

LOCAL FIRMS WIN

Eight out of the 14 first prizes awarded at the style show were captured by Portland firms. A sport coat entered for first prize by Albert Benson attracted considerable attention with its pivot sleeves and a double breasted sport overcoat entered by Norman Brothers, with the characteristic Norman sleeve and shoulder, was the subject of much favorable comment. Norman Brothers also won first prizes on dress and tuxedo coats. Other Portland firms taking first prizes were: K. S. Irvine, riding coat; Reid Bros., single breasted sport coat; J. Edlin of San Francisco, motor coat; Johnson & Anderson, slip-on overcoat.

William Kust of Seattle took first prize with a sack coat, Archibald McLeod of Spokane also won premier honors in the sack coat class and A. B. Case of Coeur d'Alene was awarded first prize on an entry of a double breasted chinchilla overcoat. A nifty golf coat won first prize for J. Edlin of San Francisco, the Biehl tailoring house of Los Angeles also took first prize on a golf coat and Charles Levy & Son of Los Angeles captured the coveted blue ribbon with a lounge coat.

HONORABLE MENTION

Besides the first prizes awarded 39 entries received honorable mention. Judges were: J. Edlin of San Francisco, Edward White of Seattle, Fred Kust of Spokane, M. Hartley of Los Angeles and Edward Reid of Portland.

Several thousand dollars has been subscribed by Pacific coast tailors toward a $1,000,000 fund for a national advertising campaign, according to announce-

Charred Bones Not Considered Link in Rutherford Mystery

Tacoma, Jan. 12.—(U. P.)—The theory that the bones discovered in the heating stove of the apartments formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James Rutherford have no bearing on the disappearance of the woman was the opinion of the police today, following a day and night of fruitless investigation. The collection of charred remains likely accumulated from steak and pork chop dinners, according to the police.

Little importance is attached to the story of 8-year-old Violet Manning, an adopted daughter of the Rutherfords, as the police say a girl of her age would hardly remember the details of a conversation which took place several months ago.

Captain of Detectives Strickland was awaiting word from detectives who were dispatched to McCormick, Wash., in the hope of apprehending John Rutherford, husband of the "mystery woman." Rutherford was said to have gone to McCormick in company with "Anna," his former housekeeper.

Decision Reserved In Ebbetts' Case

(By Universal Service) New York, Jan. 12.—Decision in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Minnie F. A. Ebbetts against Charles P. Ebbetts, owner of the National League Baseball club, was reserved by Justice Aspinall in the supreme court of Brooklyn today.

Ebbetts neither appeared nor filed an answer to the complaint. The petition did not mention the amount of alimony asked, but an agreement of December 27, 1921, entered into the records of the case, is understood to stipulate she is to receive $6500 a year for the rest of her life.

'Murder Farm' Boss Is in for Life Term

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 12.—(L. N. S.)—The Georgia supreme court today affirmed the life sentence upon John H. Williams, proprietor of Georgia's "murder farm," when it refused to grant a writ of error on an appeal.

Debutante Elopes, Gets Married, Then Tells Rich Parents

(By Universal Service) Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—The elopement and marriage of Miss Adeline Corey, debutante daughter of Alfred A. Corey Jr., wealthy steel manufacturer, to Norris E. Henderson Jr., well known today through the announcement of the nuptial by the bride's parents.

A telegram to Mrs. and Mrs. Corey announcing the wedding was their first knowledge of the romance. The couple left this city secretly last Thursday and were married in Elkton, Md.

Borah Raps Bill to Muzzle Newspapers

(By Universal Service) Washington, Jan. 12.—The house bill making it unlawful for newspapers to publish racing results was declared by Senator Borah to be an attempt "to build up here in Washington an autocracy which would have absolute jurisdiction over what the papers shall or shall not print."

CAPTAIN RILEY DENISON

Centralla, Wash., Jan. 12.—Captain Riley Denison, 68, of Grand Mound, died Tuesday. He was a Civil war veteran.

To keep juicy pies from soaking the crust

—bake them in a glass plate in a hot oven with the heat coming from below. The glass heats quickly and bakes the lower crust before the juice can soak in. Reduce the heat to finish baking the pie.

There are remedies as simple as this for every one of your pastry troubles. Using Crisco for shortening will prevent many of them. Crisco helps to prevent tough pastry because it is the richest shortening and works into the dough with little handling. It prevents indigestible pastry because it is a healthful vegetable product. It prevents all greasy taste because it has neither taste nor odor; its delicacy permits the full flavor of the pie filling to prevail. This modern cooking fat is unlike anything you have tried. Use it for all your cooking and see how much it improves everything you make.

Try Crisco in this recipe

BERRY PIE
2 tablespoons Crisco 1 tablespoon flour
1 generous pint berries 1/4 teaspoonful salt
1 cupful sugar Plain Crisco pastry

Line the plate with part of the plain pastry, letting it emerge 1/4 inch beyond the plate; roll the rest of the pastry into a thin sheet, spread one-half with one tablespoonful of the Crisco and half the other half of the paste over the Crisco; spread the other tablespoonful of Crisco over half of this paste and fold to cover the shortening; pat and roll into a long strip; fold three times and roll to fit the lower paste; make a few slits in the center. Turn the berries and other ingredients into the pastry-lined plate, brush the edge with cold water, set the second piece of the paste in place, pressing the edges close together; set to bake in an oven hot on the bottom; bake about half an hour.

PLAIN CRISCO PASTRY
1 1/2 cupfuls flour 3/4 teaspoonful salt
3/4 cupful Crisco Cold water

Sift flour and salt and cut Crisco into flour with knife until finely divided. Finger tips may be used to finish blending materials. Add gradually sufficient water to make stiff paste. Water should be added sparingly and mixed with knife through dry ingredients. Form lightly and quickly with hand into dough; roll out on slightly floured board, about one-quarter inch thick. Use light motion in hand rolling; roll and roll from center outward. Sufficient for one small pie.
