

LAST PLEA BEING MADE IN COURT FOR A. C. BURCH

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 12.—(L. N. S.) The last impassioned plea for the life of Arthur C. Burch, on trial for the murder of J. B. Dalton, Kennedy, for whom the prosecution has demanded the death penalty, were made by the defense attorneys to the jury today.

A strong defense of Madalynne Obenchain, co-defendant in the case, was voiced by Burch's lawyers in their final attack on the prosecution's theory that Burch killed Kennedy because Kennedy refused to marry her.

His eyes blinking behind his big spectacles, two bright red spots showing in his cheeks, Burch sat unmoved as the last words were spoken in his behalf.

SAYS LOVE STRAIGHTFORTH
J. J. Sullivan, associate defense counsel, completed his address to the jury after the trial was resumed this morning. He was followed by Paul W. Schenck, chief counsel for Burch, who was scheduled to speak until court adjourns tonight.

Mrs. Obenchain was defended by Sullivan, when he declared her love for Kennedy was steadfast; until the settlement of the case, she had written to the man who was slain and all her actions disproved the prosecution's claim that her love changed to a murderous hate.

"Don't you remember the testimony that told how Mrs. Obenchain and Kennedy struggled for the possession of a firearm in her hotel room, for more than three hours?" pleaded the attorney.

REFERS TO STRUGGLE
"I ask you, ladies and gentlemen of this jury, if it is consistent with the prosecution's theory of a conspiracy to kill Kennedy to have this woman struggling to prevent Kennedy from taking his own life with a pistol because she would not marry him?"

"There you have her protecting the life of the man that the prosecution claims she was plotting and scheming to take."

District Attorney Woodbine will address the jury all day tomorrow, completing the final arguments. The case probably will go to the jury before noon Saturday, after Judge Reeve has read his instructions.

Civilians in France Were Invited to See U. S. Soldiers Hang

Washington, Jan. 12.—When American soldiers were hanged in France, the orders required that French officials and people be notified and allowed to attend. Colonel Samuel V. Hamm told the senate investigating committee today.

Hamm said he directed the hangings at Is-sur-Tille, France, on orders from General Pershing, who may be called before the committee.

The hangings, Hamm said, were witnessed by about 500 American soldiers, picked from various companies and marched to the scene in squads.

Hamm said it was impossible that illegal hangings and lynchings could have occurred at Is-sur-Tille, as charged by Douglas and his committee. Any such occurrence would have been immediately reported to him, he declared.

Youth Dreams of Burglars, Shoots Self Accidentally
Salt Lake City, Jan. 12.—(L. N. S.) Kenneth Wright, 22, was nervous from reading about holdups and murders. He wanted to feel safe, so he placed a .32 calibre revolver under his pillow. It would have been all right, but the gun was loaded.

Kenneth awoke from a troubled sleep about 2 a. m. He was standing by the side of his bed with the revolver in his hand. He had a pain in his right side and there was blood and smoke and everything but no burglar.

Examination of the revolver and the wound by the police has convinced them that the shooting was done by Wright while dreaming. The wound is not serious.

2 WOMEN KILLED BY BOOZE HUNTERS

Newkirk, Okla., Jan. 12.—(L. N. S.)—Officers in search of a "booze car" this morning shot into an automobile which fell 1 to stop at their command and one woman was killed instantly and another woman was fatally wounded, according to a report reaching here from Kay City shortly before noon today.

Following instructions from the Kay county officers to look out for a certain car supposed to be carrying liquor from Ponca City to Whisbang, in the Osage county oil field, the deputies are said to have called to the driver of the car to stop. Upon refusal to do so, one of the deputies is said to have shot into the car, followed closely by more shots from another deputy. The injured woman was taken unconscious from the car to a hospital at Kay City, where she died soon after medical attention was given to her. The identity of the two women has not been definitely established.

MacRea Made Head of Portland Clearing House Association

At the annual meeting of the members of the Portland Clearing House association held late Wednesday afternoon, W. A. MacRea, manager of the local branch of the Bank of California, was elected president to succeed C. F. Adams, vice-president of the First National bank. Edward Coochingham, president of the Ladd & Tilton bank, was elected vice-president; Lansing Stout, secretary, and J. L. Hartman, manager. Hartman had been manager of the clearing house continuously since July, 1920. It was decided at the meeting to give the new method of computing bank clearings a test, so as to ascertain whether there will be any material difference in the volume of clearings, compared with the present system and the amount of labor involved. For the week commencing Monday, January 16, the clearing house banks of the city will submit to Manager Hartman their volume of transactions based on the "debit to individual accounts" system, along with their usual figures.

In that the new method of computing clearings includes the transactions represented by checks paid at the counters of banks on which they were drawn, checks which now are not included in clearings, it is believed by many bankers that the new system will materially increase the volume of clearings.

Only 3050 licenses for 1922 had been issued Wednesday night and a decided falling off in applications during the day was noted.
